

LOOK YOUNGER! DARKENS YOUR GRAY HAIR WITH SAGE TEA

Says Sage and Sulphur Will Stop Fading Hair and Cure Dandruff.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, then left to age and carefully filtered will turn gray, streak and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant; remove every bit of dandruff; stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggy and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of muss. Some druggists make their own, but it isn't nearly so nice as "Wyeth's."

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur no one can tell, because it does it so naturally; so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. Do this tonight and by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two it will be restored to its natural color and be even more glossy, soft and luxuriant than ever.

Local druggists say they are selling lots of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" and it surely helps folks appear years younger.

Instead of having the students come to the college the bill provides for taking the college to the farmer. The school will be maintained as usual but there will be a comprehensive extension course that will benefit every farmer in the state. The work would deal with conditions in the locality where the farmer resides and would aid him in using the best methods, selecting the most suitable products to raise, and in marketing his products.

"Don't tinker with any measures that have been passed on by the people." That is the rule being followed by Representative J. T. Hinkle of Hermiston and he expects to come through this session with his skin whole. This explains why he is opposed to submitting to the voters the home rule bill, and a majority of the house agreed with him when the resolution to place the measure on the ballot was reconsidered and killed. If the people vote on a measure once and want to vote on it again they must take it up by the initiative.

Because they voted in favor of a resolution and were ignorant of its provisions and what effect it would have the house reconsidered its action on the memorial to congress favoring the Owen bill and killed the measure. It is said the Owen bill aims to create a doctors' trust.

How would like to be secretary to Governor West and draw a salary of $3000 per year? The salary was formerly only $1800.

A bill has been prepared that will permit the governor to remove sheriffs, constables and prosecuting attorneys for a period of 90 days, but only after the officers have had a hearing in the court of their district. This will prevent the chief executive staking the offices of the state at his own will and administering the laws to suit himself.

It is probable that a good roads bill will be submitted to both houses this week, as the joint committees have framed a measure that is satisfactory to all. It eliminates the county convention idea and gives the county court power to say what roads shall be improved. Despite the strenuous efforts of Senator Dan Kellaher to keep his amendment for "open specifications" a joker was slipped in that will kill its effect.

There will be a fight in the house to remove the joker and proceed that no patented article or process shall be used in improving the highways.

The law providing for a "blue Sun" those who desire to work on Sunday may do so.

Senator Dan Kellaher is so well satisfied with the commission idea in cities and so disgusted with legislative sessions that he has introduced a resolution to submit a proposition to the voters to abolish the legislature and run the state with a commission.

The teachers of Portland lobbied through a civil service bill that virtually gives them life positions. The fair ones came down 300 strong and the bill was rushed through house and senate and signed by the governor in one day.

Hereafter a sack of potatoes will be 100 pounds unless some other specific weight is named.

The Third house met last Thursday night and for two hours there was one round of fun and amusement. Glen Holman, a clever impersonator, was speaker; Senator Joseph was governor and Joe Singer, the popular sergeant at arms of the house, was elected United States senator. There were several freak bills and many amusing stunts.

TAPPED THE WIRES.

The Good Housewife Had a Pretty Keen Nose For News.

People who would normally think it a disgrace to eavesdrop or spy on their neighbors seem utterly without conscience when the telephone is in question and will rush to the instrument every time the bells ring, whether it is their call or not.

As an evidence of the extreme to which it can be carried I well remember a case where for some unknown reason the bells beyond one of the stations seemed in constant trouble. One time they would operate perfectly, five minutes later they would ring so faintly that it was hard to distinguish the call. The manager was on the verge of prostration, as he had gone over the line a dozen times, trimmed every tree that could possibly have been in the way, adjusted bells—in fact, done everything he could think of.

In despair he came to me and told me his troubles. I suggested that we drive out to the last "good" station and, to his surprise, asked him if he dared walk in without rapping. He said he could, and the two of us entered very unexpectedly, the telephone being in the kitchen at the back of the house.

The picture we found was, to say the least, amusing. The good housewife in her craze not to miss anything had actually rigged up a clamp to hold the receiver on the back of a rocking chair and spent her leisure time in comfortably listening to every word that went over the line. She had even gone so far as to devise a method of opening the primary circuit on her own instrument so that the batteries would not run down.

This is an extreme case, but shows how far some folks can go. The remedy: Just plain common decency and honesty, a bylaw authorizing the manager to take out any telephone whose user is guilty of such dishonesty and a manager with backbone enough to do his duty.—Farm and Fireside.

HE PASSED IT ON.

The Diplomat Saved Himself by a Quick Witted Ruse.

The passing of the court fool as an institution did not mean that kings had ceased to take pleasure in the sort of nonsense that the jesters had been licensed to perpetrate. King Frederick William I. of Prussia was an incorrigible joker and greatly enjoyed testing the cleverness of his ministers and advisers by planning embarrassing situations, from which they could extricate themselves only by the exercise of the quickest wit. However, "Das Buch Fur Alle" declares that the king was almost as ready to enjoy his own discomfiture as that of his intended victim.

One day at a small dinner the king, happening to be in the mood to play a prank, chose as his victim one of his ministers seated at his left. After a moment's thought his majesty leaned toward the courtier on his right and, giving him a gentle slap on the cheek, said, "Pass it."

As the tap was passed from guest to guest round the table, the king's intentions became apparent. The minister at Frederick William's left would either have to commit lese majeste by slapping his sovereign or admit himself beaten and be the laughing stock of the table.

Although the company was already in a gale of merriment at his expense, the minister was not at all ready to acknowledge a defeat. Just as the blow was passed to him he let a knife fall clattering to the floor between the king and himself. Immediately a servant sprang forward, picked the knife what was the lackey's astonishment to receive, instead of a word of thanks, a tap on the cheek. The minister by his wit had saved the situation without violating the rules of the game. The king was the first to join in the laughter and applause that greeted the minister's cleverness.

Australian Names.

Mark Twain, native of a country whose place names won the admiration of Robert L. Stevenson, was himself delighted by the place names of Australia. As amusement for a hot day he collected a list of eighty-one, including such soul satisfying polysyllables as Murriwillumbah, Yaranyackah, Kondoparinga and Jamberoo, and put sixty-six of them into a poem of forty-eight lines. "These are good words for poetry," he says. "But the best word in that list and the most musical and gurgly is Woolloomoolloo."—London Chronicle.

GOOD TIMES In STORE

For the City of Payrolls in the Valley of Diversified Resources

While it is the fundamental law of evolution that all life is a continual growth, apparently advancement is often attained by great progressive leaps. But this is only apparent. Many factors working from various angles are constantly at work, tho we generally fail to recognize the effect. Suddenly their cumulative effort breaks forth in a plainly cognizable form, and for a period great advancement is realized.

The stage having been set in all its details, La Grande is now waiting for the appearance of spring to ring up the curtain of a great progressive comedy drama, in which the people of Grande Ronde Valley and the "Newcomers" this spring will be the players, Union county the setting, and the whole world the audience. This act in the great play of life will be dramatic because it will be strenuous and will have climax when the new people outnumber the old; comedy because there will be a happy ending to each act; progressive for the growth thus started will continue.

The closing of the prelude is now upon us. For years La Grande has been preparing for this time. La Grande has never had a boom, nor do we hope it ever will. Yet by its location, its people, and its climate its merits much advancement. The next few years will see a larger growth due to the natural laws of evolution than any artificial boosting could possibly produce.

With the opening of the Panama canal thousands of people are going to flock to this great Northwest. La Grande is preparing to capture her share of these but is not going to wait for them. In the meantime we have the promise of new railroads, new enterprises, new institutions, new money and new people. There can be no hard times for the City of Payrolls in the Valley of varied interests.

We have many fine houses in La Grande for sale on reasonable terms. Come in and look over our offers. If you find anything that interests you we will be glad to show them.
