ELKS' BALL NEARS.

No Labor Nor Expense Has Been Saved to Make Things "Just Right."

From every viewpoint, the annual Elks ball tomorrow evening promises to be the greatest thing of Elk annuals in history. The banquet committee has prepared a very elaborate menu and the after dinner speeches are to be many, but long before the festal board is reached, the decoration of the auditorium will be admired. No expense has been saved and it is freely hinted that something indeed extremely classical has been prepared. In no detail has labor and expense been saved by the committees in charge and special attention has been given the floor for a week or more.

The music, too, is promised to be the greatest ever brought here for any dance function.

Punished for Hitting Boy.

Because he struck a minor at the Arcade last night, Frank E. Barrett was arraigned in police court today on a disorderly charge and fined $10.

His fee skating rink on Cor 8th and N Avenue Price 15c. Skates to rent 1-10-4t

Household Hints.

Every kitchen should have strips of carpet placed on the floor.

A very minute amount of kerosene oil on a cloth will clean furniture.

After frying onions pour a little vinegar into the frying pan, let it get hot, and it will remove all smell from the pan.

If linoleums and oilcloths are rubbed after being washed with a little linseed oil they will be found to wear longer and have a polish without being slippery.

To dampen a cheesecloth duster with a little furniture polish is a dusting whisk that few know. It wipes up dust and does not simply move it on, as so many dusters do.

MOUNT SHASTA.

Snow Banners of the World's Most Impressive Mountain.

Travelers declare that Mount Shasta is the most impressive mountain in the world, for it stands solitary and alone. Unlike Pike's peak and many other of the world's great mountains, it is not surrounded by a number of lesser ones, and its tremendous height—14,140 feet—is appreciated by the eye.

It is sublimely grand and yet gracefully beautiful. Against the blue of a California sky its curved outlines seem to sweep in the perfect segments of a circle from the apex of the cone to the horizon.

Far up on its base the dark green of the timber line is met by the virgin whiteness of Shasta's snow, and then on, up and up, far past the summer clouds, points the alabaster pyramid.

Shasta is an extinct volcano and has two large glaciers. The Whitney glacier is visible from the railroad. It looks like a narrow streak of snow, but it is over a mile in width and is seamed with great fissures and crevasses.

At times a natural banner is unfurled from Shasta's peak. This is called the "snow banner of Shasta." It only occurs when the gale attacks the summit and blows the snow in great gusts "streaming against the sky," as the railroad book has it. The banner is seen most frequently in November.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Winter.

I have never doubted the fact that winter was really at heart a jolly good fellow, brusque, but sincere. His bark is worse than his bite. If you expect smooth phrases or flatteries from his lips you will be disappointed. His language is vigorous, direct and effective. His reign as "ruler of the inverted year" is absolute. His qualities are distinctly masculine. We think of spring as a shy maiden coquetting with the breezes, summer as the perfect flower of gracious womanhood. Autumn reminds us of a widow, to whom bereavement has brought a chastened melancholy. But winter is the vigorous gentleman with the wisdom and judgment of age, strong and unyielding where great issues are at stake, yet withal revealing at times a winning beneficence in both looks and actions.—Suburban Life.
