NEW LEAGUE STARTS SUNDAY

LA GRANDE IS PITTED AGAINST PORTLAND OPENING DAY.

Keen Sport Is Promised for Lovers of Blue Rock Shooting Here.

La Grande next Sunday will enter the seven-weeks' blue rock league contests with the best gun clubs of the state. This scheme has been explained to the gun club members here at various times, but the actual schedule of shoots has been announced by E. A. Bean of Eugene, and this schedule calls for the first match next Sunday. At that time La Grande will be pitted against Portland's crack shots, and local fans are doubly anxious to get off well for that reason. The eight teams shoot on their own grounds with their own referees, but the five highest scores out of the entire lot of shooters are sent to the secretary. In that way La Grande will know Sunday evening if Portland's scores were higher or lower than La Grande's. The final percentage table will be the deciding point.

It is urged that every blue rock shot in town be out for competition next Sunday. Twenty-five practice shots are allowed, and the second 25 are the score. It makes no difference if 25 or more shooting be shooting at the same time; only the five highest go in. The league is touted as a beginner of exceptionally good sport and La Grande aims to be well up toward the top when the season is over.

The lists of contests that have been arranged, follow, the teams shooting at home, and not actually "at" the towns they are pitted against:

Bend at Baker, March 23; Eugene at Baker, March 30; Eugene at Bend, April 6; La Grande at Baker, April 6; La Grande at Bend, April 13; La Grande at Eugene, April 20; Pendleton at Baker, April 20; Portland at

IMPROVEMENT BONDS

In the construction of even 15 blocks of pavement as represented in the difference saved between cost of concrete and patent paving. A properly organized concrete crew will lay from 1,000 to 1,200 square yards of pavement a day. The cost of material and labor for one day's work will not exceed $900.00 and in most instances, be less which would bring the pavement to a cost of 90c per square yard or less.

Let us consider such low rates compared with the present rates of $1.50 per square yard, which shows a difference of 60c. The interest for ten years on this difference at 8 per cent would amount to 48c on every square yard. Thus counting interest and principle this saving would amount to $1.02 on each square yard, which could be used for the purpose of repairing or re-surfacing with some bituminous wearing coat. Not only have properly holders the advantage of the use of this extra money for the term of years above mentioned, but if placed on interest it would have grown sufficiently to completely rebuild the improvement. This, however, would hardly be necessary as it may be expected that concrete pavement when laid under proper supervision, will last for at least a period of 20 or 25 years, and probably indefinitely, whereas patent pavement generally require large expenditure for maintenance after a very few years.
