MRS. EAGAN DEAD.

May Park Resident Passes Away Yesterday; Funeral Tomorrow.

Mrs. Joseph Eagan, wife of the well known May Park orchardist, who until recently was night chief dispatcher for the O.-W. here, died yesterday. The funeral will be held tomorrow, from the Henry & Carr chapel at 9:30 and from the Catholic church at 10 o'clock. The bereaved husband is now without a family, two children born to Mr. and Mrs. Eagan having died some time ago.

Best for Skin Diseases.

Nearly every skin disease yields quickly and permanently to Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and nothing is better for burns or bruises. Soothes and heals. John Doye, of Gladwin, Mich., says, after suffering twelve years, with skin ailment and spending $400 in doctors' bills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him. It will help you. Only 25c. Recommended by all dealers.

The Arcade Tonight

"The International Conspiracy" in three reels is the big headliner at the Arcade theatre for tonight and tomorrow. This is an excellent picture and is a very thrilling and sensational offering. There is also an excellent Thanhouser comedy on the bill and the program closes with Walker & Rogers in their gypsy musical and singing act, special scenery, costumes and electrical effects are used. This act is one of the best at the Arcade in a long time.

Prosecutor in North Powder.

Called to North Powder by a criminal case following the arrest of a man whose name has not been determined here, County Prosecutor F. S. Ivanhoe went to the East end of the county this afternoon on the La Grande-Baker local. He was advised to come to North Powder, the informant not stating the precise nature of the case other than to say a man was arrested for making threats.

CHIC. BOX MEAL BOX.

Directions For Making a Self Feeding Hopper That Works Well.

A self feeding hopper may be made from a box purchased at the grocery store. A box sixteen inches deep, two feet wide and two and one-half feet long will make a very good hopper. The bottom of the box should form the back of the hopper.

The top of the box should be fastened with hinges to form a lid. The top of the box should be removed and slanted inward so as to leave a narrow space at the bottom for the mash to run out. The ends of the box should be sawed to suit the slanting board.

The lower side of the box should be fixed to hold the mash by nailing inch pieces around the edge. The box can be filled with the mash, giving the chickens a chance to eat what they desire. This will prove beneficial in the laying season.—Iowa Homestead.

EARTH AND OURSELVES.

"And God said unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it."

"We have multiplied, but the earth has subdued us," says Dr. Cyril G. Hopkins of Illinois.

"Three things are necessary for the most profitable improvement and preservation of our upland prairie and timber soils—limestone, organic matter and phosphorus." —Country Gentleman.

Don't Forget the Farm Girls.

Do not forget the girls when the returns for the crops and animals are to be distributed among members of the family. The boys may have toiled in the fields and in the barns, and their work may merit special reward. Reward them and thus encourage them to undertake more next year. But do not forget the girls who have made it possible for you and their brothers to labor. They have borne the heat of summer around the kitchen range; they have endured the drudgery of the weekly laundry; the choice preserves, pickles, canned fruits, etc., are a result of their labor.—Farm and Ranch.

"Test Your Seed Corn!"

"Test your seed corn" as a slogan for every corn growing state is the Union would not be a bad one.

Do not trust to the other fellow to do the testing. Do it yourself. The germination box is the most convenient place to ascertain the bad from the good seed. When possible use seed testing 90 per cent or better. And then if the seed does not grow look to soil and seasonal causes for the poor stand. A good stand of good corn means good profit.—Farm and Fireside.

A Projectile's Gain of Speed.

Experiments with improved instruments for measuring the velocity of projectiles have shown that the speed goes on increasing after the missile has left the mouth of the cannon. Leaving the muzzle with a velocity of 1,474 feet a second, a projectile has been observed to increase its speed to 1,689 feet a second within the first six feet. It is only after having traveled twenty-five yards that the projectile's velocity becomes reduced to the speed it had on leaving the muzzle. This is ascribed to the impulse of the expanding gas being felt for some distance beyond the cannon's mouth.—New York Tribune.

Moisten the Buttonhole.

Every man knows the difficulty and agony of a refractory collar stud. With a breakfast to eat, a train to catch and an appointment to keep, few things are more maddening than the collar which simply will not ally itself to the stud. But few things are so easy to remedy. All that is necessary is to dip the thumb and forefinger in water and slightly moisten the obstinate buttonhole. Then the stud slips in without a murmur.

A Tragic Triolet.

I wrote it as plain as could be.
"Her cheeks were as red as a rose."
As an ardent and stout stirring plea
I wrote it as plain as could be.
It appeared, to the printer's great glee,
"Her cheeks were as red as her nose."
I wrote it as plain as could be.
"Her cheeks were as red as a rose."
—Judge.

A PEEP AT IRELAND.

Where the Weather Plagues You Only to Fascinate You Later.

I must allow that it sometimes rains in Ireland, but Irish rain is not quite like other rain. It is, as a rule, softer than rain elsewhere, and if the truth must be told I like rain so long as one has not to say, "For the rain it raineth every day."

Irish weather is not so much capricious as coquettish. It likes to plague you, if but to prepare you to enjoy the more its sunny, melting mood. It will weep and wait all night, and, lo, the next morning Ireland is one sweet smile and seems to say: "Is it raining? I was yesterday? Ah, then, I'll rain no more."

And the runnels leap and laugh, and the pastures and very stone walls glisten; the larks carol on their celestial journey; there is a pungent, healthy smell of drying peat; the mountains are all dimpled with the joy of life and sunshine; the lake lies perfectly still, content to reflect the overhanging face of heaven, and just won't your honor buy the stoutest pair of homemade hose from a barefoot, bareheaded daughter of dethroned kings with eyes like dewdrops and a voice that would charm the coin out of the most churlish purse?

If on such mornings as these you do not lose your heart to Ireland it must be made of stern, unimpressionable stuff indeed.—Blackwood's Magazine.

Edible Flowers of Butter Trees.

By far the most remarkable of edible flowers is that culled from the butter tree of India. The blossoms of this singular tree are the chief means of subsistence with the Bhils and other Indian hill tribes. An average tree yields from 200 to 250 pounds of pulpy, bell shaped flowers that, when they drop off during March and April, the hot months of the Indian year, are eagerly gathered by the natives. They have when fresh a peculiar and luscious taste, but the fragrance of them is not pleasant and is best and most briefly described as "mousy." Usually they are cured in the sun, shrivel to one-fourth of their size and then resemble nothing so much as raisins. The natives prepare them for food by boiling or using them in sweetmeats.—Suburban Life Magazine.

The Potato.

Whoever may have introduced the potato into England, according to Dr. Doran's "Table Traits," it was not known in North America in 1586, when Raleigh's colonists there are said to have sent it over to us. But the Spanish "batata," or sweet potato, from which the vegetable derives its name, was brought to Ireland many years before by Captain Hawkins from Santa Fe, in South America. This is probably the potato of Shakespeare's time. "Let the sky rain potatoes. I will remain here!" cries Sir John Falstaff, embracing Mrs. Ford.—London Telegraph.

Frost Denies Allegation.

Chicago, March 28.—That he didn't enter Alaska for the purpose of acquiring wealth was the statement under cross examination by Albert C. Frost in the trial of the alleged theft of $10,000,000 worth of government lands in the far north.

How to Increase Your Batting Average

Use the Cork Center ball. Records prove it. In the National and American Leagues in 1910, 27 batters hit ".300" and over; in 1911 (Cork Center) 57 batters did the trick, and in 1912, 62 batters. The Cork Center ball gives the batter an even break with the pitcher. It increases batting slightly, yet is not too lively.

Speaking of batting—have you ever tried the Spalding Autograph Model Bat? Made in all sizes and weights, after the style used by the particular batter whose autograph it bears. The Zimmerman model (Heinie Zimmerman, leading batter National League, 1912) is one of the best all around models ever produced.
