Behold the bug! The bug-a-boo
Of a bughouse generation,
The bodiful germ
That ends life's term
In this enlightened nation!

That makes us sick, that makes us die
Or rich or poor or lazy;
But, what is worst,
We fear, it first
Makes every one bug crazy!

THE WILY TURK.

Subtle Ruse That Enabled Abdul Aziz to Visit France.

It is rare that a privilege enjoyed by the subjects of a country is denied to its ruler, yet by a law of the Koran the sultan may not leave his realm unless he goes sword in hand for the purpose of conquering new provinces. Das Buch fur Alle tells how Sultan Abdul Aziz traveled abroad without breaking the law.

Abdul Aziz was very eager to accept Napoleon III's invitation to visit the exposition at Paris in 1867. But between his desire and its attainment stood the law of the Koran, which he could neither disobey nor set aside. His ministers advised him to come to an amicable understanding with Napoleon and, after announcing that war had been declared upon France, to journey to the exposition, sword in hand. This scheme, however, seemed of doubtful advisability, and finally a simpler plan was adopted.

One day the morning papers of Constantinople contained the startling news that Napoleon III. had made the sultan a present of France. Abdul Aziz was of course at entire liberty to visit his new province, and he decided to do so at once. Paris and all France were greatly amused at the subterfuge that their guest had practiced and offered no objections to his approach.

After a very pleasant visit in Paris Abdul Aziz returned to Turkey. But before he left he magnanimously gave France back to Napoleon.

Up to Date.

Mrs. Gadder—What do you know about these people who have moved in across the way? Mrs. Homer—Not a thing, except that their name is Gimpus, the man works in an office downtown, the woman gives music lessons, they take their dinner twice a week at a restaurant, have their washing done away from the house and the plumber has been there twice in the last four days to mend leaks in the water pipes. That's the way they usually print a conversation of this kind in the papers, you know, and I don't want to appear to be a back number.—Chicago Tribune.

Kingsley and His Pipes.

The Rev. Charles Kingsley concealed pipes all over the parish in case the desire for smoking suddenly came upon him. Walking one day with Benson, he exclaimed: "It's no use, I know you detest tobacco, but I must have a smoke." He went to a furze bush, put his arm in a hole and puffed out a "churchwarden," which he filled. When the pipe was smoked he put it in a hollow tree.—Boston Herald.

A Family Secret.

Maybe it's all right for near relatives to borrow from one another. But it sounded funny when Daisy's steady exclaimed: "Your hair looks just like your mother's," and Daisy's little brother piped up: "Course it does. It's the same hair."—Chicago News.

On the Way.

"Have you been uplifted?" "To some extent," replied Mr. Cornblossed. "I'm gettin' so it comes almost natural to say 'agriculture' instead of 'farmin'."—Washington Star.

Abrupt Ending.

She—My first husband was an officer, my second a soldier, my third— He—Awfully sorry, but I never could guess vocables.—Fliegende Blatter.

OMNANNUS IS HUGE AFFAIR

SUCCESS ATTENDS STUDENT PUBLICATION.

Excellent Year Book of Local High School Soon to Be Off Presses

The high school boys who are managing the Omnannus, the high school annual, have had unusual success in the receiving of advertisements from business men.

It now is certain that the La Grande high school will get out an annual this year far better than what would be expected from a school of that size.

The 150 pages of the book will be a fine grade of enameled book paper upon which the halftones and drawings will print clear and artistic.

All phases of the high school activity will be fully represented—the usual school work, the fun, jokes, athletics, debate, literary societies and all such things as permeate the high school atmosphere.

The book will be issued about the 10th of May. Small those who desire a copy, (or more properly, several copies) should put in their order in advance to Milton Stoddard, Fay Couch or Hal Bohnenkamp.
