

JAMES' ART WINS AGAIN

HIGH GRADE OF BALL HUM-BLES BEARS.

Second Game of Series Taken by Locals in Finest Shape.

Walla Walla's prides were humbled yesterday afternoon in a pretty exhibition 2-1. James, better known as Jamison, was the performing individual on the mound and well he performed at that. True, once or twice, other than the time the Bears' scored once, the visitors threatened the pan at home and in one instance in particular, a quick peg to King by Beck saved the day. Green was twisting them over for Walla Walla and did a fair good job of it too, but was not in a class with James' form. The big crooked arm heaved with good results from the start to the finish, and, when compared with the bang-up game of the day before, takes a notch higher in that it lacked the disastrous one-inning feature.

Nadeau hit into a double in the first inning that stopped a register, but in the third, Mr. Pitcher walked as the first man up for La Grande and Corbin's bunt toward third was muffed up by Green. With the two of them on, Beck dumped a pretty bunt and Druhot came up with a long foul fly to Martini that scored James. Walla Walla tied it up in the fifth however.

On that occasion Sheely singled and the runner was sacrificed by Martini and came home on Green's drive. In the second, however, Davis' double came near being costly for Brown and singled, only to die between bases while attempting a double steal, yet had Beck missed a hard fly and not got it to the pan as he did, and King hadn't put it on the runner as he did, the score would have been different. The kind of playing that has been making King and his team popular as the deuce prevailed in the pinches.

James did much toward winning has own game for after Naughton had gone down in the seventh, Miller singled and Walters followed suit only to be caught between second and third when bad coaching pulled him by second on James' hard drive. Miller had scored, however, and the miscue in coaching happened to pass as a trivial sin. Toward the end Jamison was going like wild fire and after the sixth, Bears were mowed down with ease. Like unto, the day before, it was a great game. The score:

BROOKLYN RUNNING WILD

New York, May 22.—Once upon a time there was a decrepit baseball team known as the Brooklyn Dodgers that played in an old ball lot shot so full of holes from the rifling batters of opposing teams that the players had to hobble over the field like ants running a Marathon over a Swiss cheese. Then a good fairy named Charley Ebbets came along and built a new park, all dolled up with a grand stand that cost much moneys. This good fairy had been hanging around the team lo, these many ears, but it was the first new park he had builded. When other teams came around, as they are wont to do at ball parks, these same Brooklyn Dodgers, who always before had yelped and run when approached by a stranger or even by their step-brothers, the Giants, from across the Big Bridge, proceeded to lick the very daylight out of them.

At first these strange, unheard of doings excited merely scornful laughter and the wise ones said it was an accident, a flashing in the pan, but with each succeeding team these erstwhile lowly Dodgers licked the impression began to grow that they were going some, and, miracle of miracles, eighth wonder of wonders they do say now, and they're serious when they say it, that Brooklyn may be reckoned with the contenders for the pennant.

Moral: Why not?
 By diligently scraping away the cobwebs of the past, some of the oldest inhabitants may remember that at this stage of the National league race one year ago the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Boston Braves were flirting with and had a very close acquaintance with last place. The Braves being conservative souls, have not seen fit to change their ways, but what the Dodgers have done in the way of jockeying for position during the early weeks of the present season's scramble has brought delirious joy to the heart of Good Fairy Ebbets, and caused all other team managers and owners to gnash their teeth while awake and see things while asleep.

The Dodgers have shown that they have built up an air-tight defense. With Jake Daubert at first, Cutshaw at second, Fisher at short stop and Red Smith at third, team play has been perfected. Cutshaw covers a world of ground at second and in that immediate vicinity. In the outfield the Dodgers have a real outfielder in Stengel, who is establishing a record as a fence buster this season. Wheat has not been batting up to his usual standard. With Wheat going naturally there will be another argument why the Dodgers should keep going. Hummel, completes a much better than average outfielding according to his work of this season.

One of the failings of the Dodgers at one time was their failure to hit behind Nap Rucker. But Rucker won three of his first six games this season. One of the three losses was that thirteen inning dual with Old Master Matty. Rucker has been going good after only a fair start and Ragon has been pitching air-tight ball. Allen is fast developing into a star left hander and though he lost some of his early starts he ought to spin along nicely in hot weather. Stack and Curtis are in pretty fair shape and Yingling, Hall and Wagner look really better than they ever have. Wagner came from New Orleans with a reputation as good as that carted in by Demaree now with the Giants.

Behind the bat is Otto Miller, who ranks with the best. Then there is Erwin who has caught the new Dodger spirit and is coming along. All in all, the bunch from across the bridge look pretty good. Washington did it after getting a new ball park—that is they jumped from humble ones to slashing, fighting pennant contenders almost overnight, so to repeat, "Why Not Brooklyn?"

BASEBALL GOSSIP

From Boise to North Yakima, the fans are admiring the grade of ball put on here this week. The two games have caused a general sitting up and taking notice from all centers.

Walla Walla had no particular stars yesterday, all playing with a vim and a snap however. Green's support stood him in hand several times.

Only one Spud struck out yesterday, which indicates all are landing on the pill anyway.

Baker is showing unexpected strength, which is shunting Yakima into a lower strata than that occupied by La Grande so long as La Grande keeps winning.

A general upset of the standings is due, all of which is as it should be. Pennant races decided early in the season spoils interest.

Admirers of the Spuds, claiming the outfield of Druhot, Nadeau and Beck being as good as any in the league, and the infield needing only one change which is coming in the form of Lomond, see a rapid advance by the Spuds from now on.

From the left field to the La Grande bench is a long journey each inning and Polly Rruhot is thinking of hiring a motorcycle to get out and back.

Real baseball won for La Grande yesterday. Corbin boldly outguessed the infield and bunted on the third strike which so befuddled the Bear infielders that he landed safe on it. The nifty trick, spelled victory however. A neat sacrifice, then a long fly, and the score was in which is real baseball.

When it comes to being a gang of robbers all in one, a fellow has to slip it to Green. The pitcher stole from one to third yesterday. No more ball games for these many days.

Baker Shows Speed.

Baker, May 22.—It was bargain day for the ladies yesterday. Aside from witnessing an eleven inning contest, they saw Grause the new pitcher signed from Pendleton win the game for the Gold Diggers by first tying the score in the ninth by a home run with a man on bases and coming to bat first in the eleventh and swatting another over the left garden fence. Yakima's first run was made in the third, Ford walked, stole second, went third on Fuller's single, and came home on Jansen's sacrifice fly. In the fifth they annexed three more by two errors, two hits and two bases on balls off Woods, who was replaced by Krause in the tenth after going in as a pinch hitter in the ninth for "Smoky Joe" No. 2. Fuller went to first in the seventh on short stop's error, stole second, advanced to third on Grover's single and came home on Stolk's drive. Stolk managed to cross the rubber on two fielder's choices.

Baker made three runs in the third without registering a hit, but Jansen, Grover, and Engle made costly errors. In the fifth West crossed the pan getting first on a fielder's choice, stealing second and coming home on Harrod's single. In the ninth Cress hit a two bagger and trotted in on the home run by Krause who made the long drive in the eleventh.

The score:

	R. H. E.
Baker	7 6 6
Yakima	6 10 3

Batteries—Woods, Krause and Cress; Kile, Gordon and Stanley.

THE LATEST FASHION NOTE
 Says: "It is a wise precaution against getting holes in delicate hosiery to powder the shoes before putting them on." Many people sprinkle the famous antiseptic powder, Allen's Foot-Powder, into the shoes, and find that it saves the cost ten times over in keeping holes from hosiery as well as lessening friction and consequent smarting and aching of the feet.
