A grand jury report was brought in today noon, but secret indictments constituted the bulk of the report.

Pendleton Junket Off.

(Pendleton E. O.)

It's all off with the proposed junket trip. At a meeting of the Commercial association last evening, after Chairman George Hartman of the special committee announced that only 15 of the proposed 75 persons necessary had been secured by a thorough canvass, the members voted to abandon the excursion trip over the northwest and Agent T. F. O'Brien was instructed to notify the passenger department of the O.-W. R. & N. of the decision.

It was with reluctance that the junket plan was dropped for it had been boosted and talked of so much that it looked like a confession of a municipal shortcoming to give it up. However, a stern recognition of the fact that the number of reservations necessary to secure a special train could not be secured made any other course folly. The committee reported that, while they found a great number were enthusiastic for the trip, business, the federal court session and other matters prevented them from signing.

Different Names For Waves.

They have curiously different names for waves about the coast of Great Britain. The Peterhead folk call the large breakers that fall with a crash on the beach by the grim name of "Norrawa (Norway) carpenters." On the low Lincolnshire coast, as on the southwestern Atlantic fronting shore of these islands, the grandly long unbroken waves are known as "rollers." Among east Anglians a heavy surf, tumbling in with an offshore wind or in a calm, is called by the expressive name of a "slog," while a well marked swell, rolling in independently of any blowing, is called a "home." "There is no wind," a Suffolk fisherman will say, "but a nasty home on the beach." Suffolk men also speak of the "bark" of the surf, and a sea covered with foam is spoken of as "feather white." The foam itself is known as "spoon drift." So, in the vernacular, we have it "The sea was all a feather white with spoon drift."

sea was all a feather white with spoon drift."

The Cheery Dandelion.

Of all the merry, happy go lucky flowers the yellow dandelion takes the prize. It is "bon camarade" with the rich and the poor. Its saucy, impudent little face greets you from the center of your choicest flower bed, and it smiles cheerily up at you from the dusty highway. In the crowded alley, reeking with filth, it bravely opens its yellow petals. Anywhere and everywhere that a bit of earth can accumulate there appears the little dandelion. A veritable street gambo, how it lives and how it thrives is a mystery much like its human brothers. Close to the pavements, under the horses' feet, snuggled in areasways, laughing from the gutter, the cheerful little rascal wins your love in spite of yourself. And out in the country what glorious times they all have together, starring the grass with golden stars, the joy of the children and the curse of the gardener!—Suburban Life.

Begging the Question.

The Star—Honestly, what do you think of my acting in my new play? The Critic—Don't ask me, you're younger and so much stronger than I am.—Brooklyn Life.

The Obstacle.

Blobbs—The trouble with Bighedge is that he is stuck on an insurmountable obstacle. Slobbs—What is it? Blobbs Himself—Philadelphia Record.

TEACHING YOUTH.

Instruction is the means to expel rudeness, with which young wits ought to be well furnished in schools, but so as that their teaching be—1, truth; 2, full; 3, clear; 4, solid.

1. It will be true if nothing be taught but such as is beneficial to one's life, lest there be a cause of complaining afterward. We know not necessary things because we have not learned things necessary.

2. It will be full if the mind be polished for wisdom, the tongue for eloquence and the hands for a neat way of living. This will be that grace of one's life—to be wise, to act, to speak.

3, 4. It will be clear, and by that firm and solid, if whatever is taught and learned be not obscure or confused, but apparent, distinct and articulate as the fingers on the hands.—Johann Amos Comenius.

BE STEADFAST.

Let nothing make thee sad or fretful
Or too regretful.
Be still.
What God has ordered must be right.
Then find it in thine own delight,
My will.

Why shouldst thou fill today with sorrow
About tomorrow,
My heart?
One watches all with care most true.
Doubt not that he will give thee,
too,
Thy part.

Only be steadfast. Never waver
Nor seek earth's favor.
But rest.
Thou knowest what God wills must be
For all his creatures, so for thee,
The best.

—Paul Fleming.

SYDNEY SMITH'S HUMOR.

It requires a surgical operation to get a joke well into a Scotch understanding.

That knuckle end of England, that land of Calvin, oat cakes and sulphur.

No one minds what Jeffreys says. . . . It is no more than a week ago that I heard him speak disrespectfully of the equator.

The Smiths never had any arms and have invariably sealed their letters with their thumbs.

Daniel Webster struck me much like a steam engine in trousers.

Farewell Causes Delay.

New York, June 5.—The liner Le France was delayed 15 minutes in starting today to allow J. P. Morgan Jr., to bid farewell to his sister who sailed for Europe on her summer vacation.

The others, through counsel, disclaimed responsibility for window smashing, inferentially blaming the militant leader and daughter.

Big Melon Cut.

New York, June 5.—Stockholders in the Standard Oil of New Jersey, ratified the proposal of directors for cutting a sixty million melon next Friday by increasing the capital stock of the company from fifteen to seventy-five million out of the undisturbed surplus of the company. Each shareholder will receive a bonus of 400 per cent of his holdings.

DEATH BLOW TO GAMBLING

street on to Jefferson was denied, after the committee so recommended, for the reason that Jefferson has not been opened up to a point where it would intersect with East O. It follows that when the proposed Jefferson street opening occurs, the East O petitioners will have their petition fulfilled.

Property owners living on Sixth between C and G streets have petitioned for a five-foot board walk, but not under the Bancroft act. Some few legal details arise and will probably be settled at the next meeting.

The condition of the city jail was pointed out in a communication from the chief of police. The unsanitary conditions, the inadequacies of the "plant" and the various matters pertaining to the jail in general were gone over. The matter has been referred to proper committees.

The street lighting contract with the Eastern Oregon Light & Power company entered into five years ago, expired June 2 and the council was asked last night by Superintendent Gore to act on the matter.

The matter of employment of men by the city, insofar as it relates to the optional compensation law, must be made clear to the commission which has written to the city officials for the opinion of the city in the matter.

Fire Chief W. A. Benham set out the fact in a communication, that rubbish accumulates about the skating rink and that patrons of that place throw lighted cigars out of the doors and windows greatly endangering the property from fire. It was suggested that owners of the adjoining property be cautioned to keep the premises scrupulously clean hereafter.

Added Department Plan.
The necessity of adding another man to the paid fire department was pointed out in a communication from the fire chief. Two men are required to be at headquarters continually, except for meals, and this prevents the proper inspection and repairs of the alarm system and other fire department properties. The plan advanced by the fire chief is to increase the pay of the janitor from $25 to $50 and require of him to act in the capacity of fireman while about the building on his regular work. The matter was referred to the committees.

Petitioners on M street are asking for a cement walk on the northside of that street from Second to Oak. This is a continuation of projects already started in that vicinity.

John L. Mars in well-couched terms intimated that he would bring suit against the city for the collection of the installments due for macadamizing of North Second street. The project has been held up in court ever since its completion some 21 months ago, and Mr. Mars is anxious to get some money out of the deal. "No more smooth talking goes," wrote Mr. Mars to the council.

A contingent water fund has been created to care for cash business matters.

The matter of selecting a new pound came up and a piece of land in the rear of the White school building was selected. It carries running water, has a good fence and rents for $5 per month. It is well isolated.

The creation of the office of fire marshal, who shall be the chief of police, and to serve without added pay, definition of his duties and the creation of severe punishment for those who fail to place live ashes in a metallic receptacle, are included in the new ordinances read last evening the first time. The fire chief shall have the power to appoint a deputy fire marshal who shall serve without pay, and shall inspect buildings and property that are deemed needy of such inspection.

The ordinance carefully defines the nature of the receptacle that may be used to handle ashes.

The ordinance authorizing the mayor and recorder to enter into a contract for the construction of a cement culvert on Second street between Grandy and Palmer avenue was passed.

Debate over the advisability of waiting longer for the O.-W. to decide what action it will take in the building of a crossing at North Second, or if it will build a subway, was gone into. The paving contract with the Warren people cannot be fulfilled until the street is paved to the track and interest money is being paid out as a result. The company officials will decide within a day or two, it was announced, just what policy will be pursued on the street.

The engine soot nuisance particularly on North Fir was gone into in detail and a committee will wait upon local officials in an effort to have orders issued to engineers not to blow out smokestacks in the city limits. Dresses are ruined, hats spoiled and bonnets blackened almost daily by what was said last night to be careless blowing out of smokestacks. It was said that local officials might issue orders to engineers to avoid this nuisance. The opening of cylinder cocks at North Fir when teams are awaiting the passage of trains, also came up, the councilmen pointing out that some engineers and switching forces apparently take delight in disturbing the public.

Union Made. Oregon Made. Hand Made.
