SHERRY'S TOMORROW "THE HIGH TIDE OF MISFORTUNE" BEING THE TENTH OF THE MARY SERIES. HOODOO AT

With the accuracy of great skill, with the grace of the artist that she is Miss Blanch Clarke, who has art studios on Main avenue, has just completed a water color picture of Mt. Emily and a portion of the Grande Ronde valley that is beautiful to look upon. The picture which was painted by Miss Clarke one afternoon while sitting at her father's ranch north of Island City carries every detail of the great mountain, shows the patches of snow, the timber line and below the well kept ranches in the valley with fields laid off and farm houses plainly visible. It is a work of art and no mistake. Miss Clarke is one of the gifted few with brush and colors and the picture of Mt. Emily instills patriotism and love of the Grande Ronde valley in everyone who sees it.

If you want to build something good it pays you to see John Oberg, 1807 X Ave. Buildings, walks, bridges, tanks—anything. Not "cheapest" but best. Permanently located here.

3 Reasons Why 3 Women of La Grande Won't Use Blue Stem Flour
No. 1. Says the children eat too much. It keeps her baking continuously, that's all.

No. 2. Says the sponge comes too fast, no time to go calling.

No. 3. Kicks because she sets sponge for six loaves and gets eight.

A prize of a sack of Blue Stem Flour will be awarded to the person who will tell the poor miller what to do on these three kicks. Phone him at La Grande Milling Co., office, Black 181. 6-12-2t

Aid of Shouting in War.

Lord Wolseley, who was in charge of the advance sap close to the redoubts at Sebastopol, once attributed the success of many of the engagements in the Crimean war to the simple expedient of shouting. "I don't believe," he said, "that we had twenty-five fellows the last time we attacked. We were shouting, shouting, shouting, and afterward I could not speak for four days, while some of the officers lost their voices for a week. We fired from behind a heap of dead bodies, and I told the bugler to blow his very loudest, while we cheered, and so the enemy thought we had plenty of men in the rear." The trick is as old as Glendon, and the Homeric hero was "boe sathos"—good in shouting.—London Standard.

Repeated Everything.

This is told of a west Wales bridegroom who had been hidden to "mind, repeat everything after the parson in the service." The service was drawing to a close when the parson leaned forward and whispered to the newly married man, "The fee!" "The fee," responded the latter unthinkingly, and he had to be rudely awakened from his reverie to make the required response from his pocket.—Cardiff Western Mail.
