

MRS. PEARL HUTTON SHRADER,
SPOKANE ARTIST, COMING TO CHAUTAUQUA.

While Mrs. Pearl Hutton Shrader is in La Grande during Chautauqua week she will be the guest of local people. No one soprano in Spokane enjoys the popularity that does Mrs. Hutton Shrader—she is always in demand and commands Caruso-like salaries in her home town. The Chautauqua has made a "find" as baseball parlance has it, in Mrs. Shrader, and she will be heard of and entertainingly during chautauqua week. She is the leading voice trainer of Spokane and prominent in society and club life there.

DRESS AND MANNERS.

Good manners to those one does not love are no more a breach of truth than "your humble servant" at the bottom of a challenge is. They are universally agreed upon and understood to be things of course.

Any affectation whatsoever in dress implies in my mind a flaw in the understanding.

Dress yourself fine where others are fine and plain where others are plain, but take care always that your clothes are well made and fit you, for otherwise they will give you a very awkward air.

Good manners are to particular societies what good morals are to society in general—their cement and their security.—Lord Chesterfield.

CONFUCIAN MAXIMS.

The path of duty lies in what is near, and men seek for it in what is remote. The work of duty lies in what is easy, and men seek for it in what is difficult.

Hold faithfulness and sincerity as first principles.
Good leads men to tranquil security.

For one word a man is often deemed to be wise, and for one word he is often deemed to be foolish. We ought to be careful indeed in what we say.

Let me not say that heaven is high aloft above me. It ascends and descends about our doings. It daily inspects us wherever we are.

CEREMONY.

Ceremony keeps up all things. 'Tis like a penny glass to a rich spirit, or some excellent water—without it the water were spilt, the spirit lost. Of all people ladies have no reason to cry down ceremonies, for they take themselves slighted without it. And were they not used with ceremony—with compliments and addresses, with legs and kissing of hands—they were the pitifullest creatures in the world. But yet methinks to kiss their hands after their lips, as some do, is like little boys that after they eat the apple fall to the pining out of a love they have to the apple.—John Seiden

PERSIAN EPIGRAMS.

Naught, I hear thee say.
Can fill the greedy eye,
Yet a little clay
Will fill it by and by.

Thy thoughts are but silver when told;
Locked up in thy breast they are gold.

An hour of good, a day of ill—
This is the lot of mourning man.

Who leaves the world whene'er he will,
But goes to heaven whene'er he can.

Touch all that falls under thine eyes
And beware
That thou buy not thy bird while he flies
In the air.

Progressive.

"Some day," remarked the nice old gentleman, "you may be president of the United States."
"Mebbe," replied the son of the very big business man, "but if they want me they will have to raise the salary."

Issues Correction.

The statement is being made in the streets that in moving and repairing the Christian church we are running the church in debt more than it was before, I would say to the public that all such statements are false and are told by those who would work if placed in the lead, but because they are not they take pleasure in criticizing and telling lies.

The facts are as follows: All the contractors are paid and the church is standing upon a good foundation, in better shape than it ever was on the old location, and we still have money in the bank.

Other statements of conditions and facts will be made from the pulpit Sunday.

A. J. ADAMS,
Pastor.
