GIRL HIKERS LIKE VOCATION

FIND PRAIRIES LESS FREE FROM INSULTS.

Department Stories Hold More Moral Dangers Than Fields.

Salt Lake, June 27—"Girls are safer walking alone across the country than they are when working in department stores. The insults which they are apt to meet in many stores are totally absent when they are on the road." These are the conclusions of the Misses Frances Leach, 18, and Mary Coyne, 23, feminine globe trotters who are walking from Denver to San Francisco via the old Midland trail. They are not attempting to make any speed records, having left Denver May 12. They left Grand Junction, Colo., on their western trip a few days ago. The girls declare that their effort is merely preliminary to a more extended pedestrian tour later. If they succeed, they will remain on the coast for several months and then attempt to walk back to the Atlantic. "My muscles are as hard as nails," laughed pretty Miss Leach today. "A month's walking out in the open air did that. We both worked for our living in a department store in Denver, and became so run down in health that we decided a trip of this kind was the only thing that would permanently restore our health. When we started I could scarcely walk two miles a day, and now I can do fifteen and get fat on it."

"We have a letter of credit which will help us out in case we are unable to make our expenses by selling post-cards of ourselves. When we reach Wagner Umpires Game. Pittsburg, June 27.—Honus Wagner and Barney Dreyfus essayed new roles here today when they agreed to umpire all base ball games and athletic events at the board of trade picnic. More than 1500 children participated in the games and a mass flag drill in celebration of Oakland Day at Schenley park this afternoon. Barney and Honus were among those named to line up several hundred of the smaller children and hand each one an "all-day sucker."

Two Parties Slighted. Fort Wayne, Ind., June 27.—Bull Moosers and Republicans found something in common here today. It was the knowledge that they were not wanted at the polls while the Democratic primaries were going on to nominate a city ticket. Later the two parties which were idle today, will probably join in the nomination of an Independent ticket in the hopes of defeating the Democrats.

the Pacific coast, we expect to rest for a few months, and then start to walk back to the Atlantic. After that, we will feel able to tackle Europe and Asia."

The girls finished the first leg of their long journey—Denver to Grand Junction, Colo., a distance of 475 miles in three weeks time and arrived in the latter city fresh and unwearied. Although both girls have always gone armed, each carrying a small revolver, they declare they have been subjected to insults only once.

"Two tramps tried to get fresh once," said Miss Coyne. "We tried to walk on rapidly but they pursued us. We were so frightened at first that we didn't think about our weapons. We begged the men to let us pass but they became arrogant at our fear and when they used insulting language we drew our revolvers. Two shots apiece at the ground near their feet and they made Mercury ashamed of himself."

"On the whole, however, we could not ask for better treatment than we received and we feel much safer traveling this way than we ever felt when we were working in a department store. All the men are very kind. Most of them treat us like we were their daughters. Some of the young brakemen get rather sentimental and mushy and offer to give us rides, but we have always declined. We are able to take care of ourselves and can walk to the Golden Gate without begging or sacrificing our self respect. I should just like to see some cheap cop try to start anything with us. I'll guarantee it would be the last time he would ever try it."

KIDNAPPERS ARE FOILED.

Daring Attempt to Seize Young Lady In Daylight Frustrated.

Chicago, June 27—A daring attempt to kidnap Angelina Dimaggio, aged twenty, was frustrated by the police who captured three Italians. One prisoner is Philip Dorticce, who said the girl refused an offer of marriage. The attempt by kidnapers, who were in an automobile, was made as the girl left her home to go to work.
