Good Reason for His Enthusiasm.

When a man has suffered for several days with colic, diarrhoea or other forms of bowel complaint and is then cured sound and well by one or two doses of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, as is often the case, it is but natural that he should be enthusiastic in his praise of the remedy, and especially is this the case of a severe attack when life is threatened. Try it when in need of such a remedy. It never fails. Sold by all dealers.

Landlord Shot by Tenant.

Nampa, Aug. 4.—After wounding D. A. McLeod, former city engineer of Nampa, in the leg with a bullet from a .32-caliber revolver, John Sturgell, a rancher residing near Bowmont, came to Nampa Saturday afternoon and surrendered himself to the local officers.

A charge of assault with a deadly weapon was filed by McLeod against Sturgell and the latter was at once arraigned before Judge Blunck. He entered a plea of not guilty and his bond was set at $500, pending the holding of his preliminary examination.

The shooting occurred in the barn at the McLeod ranch, adjoining the town of Bowmont, south of Nampa. Sturgell is a tenant on the place and it seems that the landlord and tenant have been having more or less trouble for the past month. There were no witnesses to the affair and the stories told by the principals are conflicting.

Pendleton, Aug. 4.—(Special)—J. W. and Ed Noble, of Birch creek, near Pendleton, are exhibiting the skin of a four-foot rattlesnake on which there are 12 rattles and one button. Reptiles are believed to use the hay fields to feed on mice.

TROOPS GUARD ITS GOLD.

Every Night the Bank of England Has a Military Display.

For 130 years a company of guardsmen in charge of an officer marched every evening from the Chelsea or the Wellington barracks to the Bank of England. For the last few years, owing to the great increase of street traffic, the soldiers have gone by the underground railway, and nowadays the nightly guard is drawn from the troops stationed in the Tower of London.

If the visitor to London waits by the bank any evening at half past 6 o'clock he will see about thirty men in the charge of a lieutenant and two sergeants marched up in parade dress with fixed bayonets and loaded ammunition belts. These are the only troops that may march through the city of London with fixed bayonets.

The men themselves like this duty. When they march back to quarters about 7 o'clock in the morning, they may do as they please for the rest of the day, and they receive an extra shilling a day from the bank managers. Each man also has a pair of fine blankets wherein to wrap himself while he waits for his turn to go on guard, and in winter big fires are lighted for them. They have generous refreshments provided for them, and the officer in command has a dinner for himself and two friends.

In the daytime another curious survival of the past is to be observed. Although detectives guard all the doors, the old uniformed beedles are also paid for the service. From the standpoint of efficiency, these officials are very much in the way, but as long as the Bank of England has been in existence the beedles have policed it. Consequently the beedles are allowed to remain.

The custom of providing a little guard for the bank dates back to 1780, when an attack was made upon the bank by a mob during the Gordon riots, picturesquely described in "Barbary Rodge." It is said that in the fight that ensued between the rioters and the clerks of the bank the latter melted their metal inkpots for ammunition after their supply of bullets had given out.—Youth's Companion.
