ELGIN HAS GOOD HARVEST

The 1913 harvest is on and will be in full blast by the fore part of the week, says the Elgin Recorder. Combined harvesters have been running in Grande Ronde valley all week and headers have been at work for several days. Grain is ripening rapidly in that section and if weather conditions continue good the harvesting of the banner crop of Union county will soon be completed.

Binding operations started in the Flat section last week and headers have been in operation for several days. In fact, the grain has ripened on the Flat as early this season as in Grande Ronde, and the farmers of that favored section will have their crops cared for at an early date. The same conditions apply to all farming sections surrounding Elgin.

A ride through the wheat fields of Union county at this time of the year is well worth taking, and to those unacquainted with the productive qualities of the county would be a marvel.

There is no question but that the crop this year is far above the average, and the yield may exceed that of any past year in the history of the county.

Prolific crops have not only been produced in Grande Ronde and on the Flat, but in the smaller farming sections, and all over there is a yield that cannot help but bring prosperity to the farmer and all other classes.

So far sufficient labor has been secured, but it is feared that when harvest operations are at the highest point there will be a scarcity of labor and farmers are somewhat alarmed at the outlook. Local farmers scoured Elgin this week to find sufficient help to care for their crops and unless there is an influx of men during the next few days there will be a shortage. However, it is thought that no damage will result because of the lack of laborers. If weather conditions continue favorable, there will be sufficient men to care for the crops, but it will require long hours to do so.

Warehouse managers are preparing for the storing of the crops, and anticipate that their buildings will be taxed to the fullest capacity. They expect a record yield.

Good Reason for His Enthusiasm.

When a man has suffered for several days with colic, diarrhoea or other forms of bowel complaint and is then cured sound and well by one or two doses of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, as is often the case, it is but natural that he should be enthusiastic in his praise of the remedy, and especially is this the case of a severe attack when life is threatened. Try it when in need of such a remedy. It never fails. Sold by all dealers.

Pear Market Uncertain.

Portland, Ore., Aug. 8.—Feeling the pulse of the pear market at this time is one of the most exciting of vocations. The temperature of the trade ranges from blood heat to icy cold—and it's up to the sales management to know when the pulse is at its highest and when it will begin to drop.

To know to the fraction of a cent what the markets thousands of miles away will pay for a product they have never seen, and several weeks in advance of shipment, is a problem that causes the muscles to twitch and the hair to disappear. This is the condition of the pear trade at the moment. Anyone can sell a product at what the buyer is willing to give for it but it takes a more thorough knowledge of the situation and the desires of the trade to ascertain definitely whether they will stand for an advance of perhaps a dime a box.

Today the Northwestern Fruit exchange of this city sold a big lot of cars of Rogue River Bartlett pears at the extreme high water mark of the season to date—$1.90 per box, f. o. b. shipping point, with a big cash advance to insure the shipper against non-acceptance of the fruit after shipment. This price was obtained only after local selling interests had absolutely refused to talk to the eastern trade at all regarding pears unless something above $1.85 was offered.

To give the easterner's an idea of the real strength of the situation and the excessive demand for pears, $2.00 was asked but some of the early bidders were allowed to get in on the ground floor at $1.90. This makes an advance of about 40 cents a box for pears since the present season started and the end is still obscured.

The advances made in the price of pears by the local selling interests were secured in the face of the persistent dumping of Washington pears on the market by other interests at prices that ranged from 15 cents to 20 cents a box under what the Portland interests were asking for the same grade of fruit.

THE GAME OF WAR.

Some of the Things That Are Forbidden by Civilized Nations.

It is not generally realized that the game of war is hedged round by as many restrictions as a boxing contest under Queensberry rules. These regulations, which are under the sanction of all the civilized countries of the world, are designed to insure fair play for the combatants.

When it is intended to bombard a place due notice should be given, so that all women and children may be removed to a place of safety, and every care must be taken to spare churches and hospitals, as well as all charitable or educational buildings.

All chaplains, doctors and nurses are protected in every possible way and are not to be taken prisoners or in any way injured.

Any soldier robbing or mutilating an enemy is liable to be shot without trial, and death is the penalty for wounding or killing a disabled man.

The bodies of the enemy are to be carefully searched before burial, and any articles found on them which might lead to their identification are to be sent to the proper quarters.

Explosive bullets must not be used and quarter must be given to the enemy whether he asks for it or not. In an attack on the enemy there must be no concealment of the distinctive signs of the regiments, and the use of poison for polluting drinking water is strictly forbidden.—London Answers.

THE "CITY OF HOMER."

Reminders of the Ancient Architectural Glory of Smyrna.

Architecturally Smyrna must have degenerated since the ancient days, for we are told that then the streets were broad and handsome, well paved and running at right angles with each other. There were a number of squares and porticoes and public libraries, a museum, a stadium in which Olympic games were celebrated with great enthusiasm, a grand music hall or odeon, a Homerion and many temples, of which the most famous was that of the Olympian Jupiter, in which the reigning emperor was practically the god worshipped.

The ancient Smyrnaites were justly proud of their city. They called it the "First of Asia," though the Ephesians vainly disputed this claim. The inhabitants also called their city the "City of Homer," who they claimed had been born and brought up beside their sacred river Meles.

They put his image upon a coin, and he has called a Homerion, a name which remains to this day. Enormous fragments yet remain showing what magnificent buildings once occupied the elevated plateau on the summit of the acropolis, and as one rebuilds in imagination these wonderful piles he can easily forgive the Smyrnaites of old for their grandiloquent praise of their city and its beautiful crown.—Christian Herald.

The Only Safe Course.

There is a supreme court justice in New York city who is locally noted for his severity. If he can prevent it no guilty man shall escape, and in his court very few of them do.

Last fall a man was on trial before him for forgery. The prosecution, so it seemed to most of the spectators, failed to make out a very good case. Nevertheless the jury came in with a verdict of guilty.

Later the foreman of the jury was talking about the case with a friend who had heard some of the testimony. "We weren't certain that we ought to convict either," said the foreman, in explanation, "but after listening to his honor's charge, all of us realized that if we acquitted that fellow we'd be guilty of contempt of court."—Saturday Evening Post.

banking centers in the small cities and towns as well as the large banking centers to the adoption of the bill as it was presented. Notwithstanding this, the fact that the bill is still receiving the attention of the committees at Washington, leads us to hope that it will be so amended as to meet all reasonable requirements and finally be passed in a form that will be of very material benefit to the entire country.
