ELGIN SCHOOLS OPENED MON.

UNDER SUPERVISION OF PROFESSOR HEUSTON.

Electric Storm Monday Does Some Damage at Elgin.

Elgin, Ore., Sept. 11.—(Special)—The Elgin schools opened Monday, the 8th. Several hundred pupils were enrolled and it promises to be a very successful year. Under Prof. Heuston's supervision, Elgin high school will make many advancements. Elgin high school teachers are: Miss Bergman, instructor of German and Latin; Mr. Kronenbers, history; Miss Fredine, English, and Mr. Heuston, mathematics.

Leonard Leslie was in Elgin Monday from his home near Summerville.

Miss Annie Bergman returned from her home in Astoria, where she has been spending her summer vacation. Miss Bergman taught in Elgin last year and her return is hailed with pleasure by all Elgin people.

The electric storm Monday caused a great deal of trouble in town and the lights in the east end of town were put out.

Hazel Hooper is working in the city drug store during the busy time of school book season.

Carroll Yentzer and Mr. Hatfield were out on Willow creek Tuesday. The school house there is being painted both on the inside and out.

Miss Edith Boyd, who has been visiting with Amos Pettyjohn and family of Walla Walla, all summer, returned to her home in Elgin Monday.

Bernal Hugg returned from Indiana Monday. Mr. Hugg and his grandfather, Mr. McKinnis, of Summerville, have been making an extended visit with relatives in the east.

"Dad" Barnes was in La Grande over Sunday.

Miss Lou Kerr was in La Grande during the fore part of the week.

Mr. Jim Slack was attending to business in Elgin Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Leslie were transacting business in this city the fore part of the week.

Miss Irma Hotchkiss and Luther Hignman spent Sunday with the Nieders of Summerville.

Mr. Johnson of Cove, was in town Monday.

A number of Summerville people went up on the west mountain Sunday. They were, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Woodell, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Royes, Mr. Wm. Sonderson and Frank Oliver.

Bear Hunting in India.

Among the sports of India is the capturing of bears, and to this end curious means are sometimes devised. For example, four or five sturdy men are armed, two with long spears cross barred on the handles close to the sharp two edged blade, and two or three with ten foot bamboos, of which the ends are smeared with bird lime. These hunters sally forth with dogs before dawn. They pass along the base of the hills with the fresh morning wind blowing up the plains below. Should the hunters be lucky it is not long before the dogs find the bear. The dogs are slipped and disappear in the semidarkness. Soon their roaring and growling indicate that they have found the game. The hunters run up to the spot where the bear is fighting with the dogs. The men with the limed poles poke the bear in the ribs and adroitly twist the ends in its long hair, thus holding it fast on each flank. The spearmen complete the operation by repeated spear thrusts.

Modern Witches.

Centuries have passed since "witches" were executed in England, but in very recent times they have suffered physical harm. Dr. Jessop knew a Norfolk man who died in 1883, and in the sixties had joined with his two brothers in a night expedition to the house of an old woman. They took her out of bed, and in the presence of half a dozen other people threw her into a pond, "where she would infallibly have been drowned, but that someone were not so mad as the rest cried out that she was sinking to the bottom and must be saved." The conclusive evidence against her was that she kept a black cat and wore a black silk dress on Sundays. In 1882 there was still alive, and master in an elementary school, one who, as a young man, had scratched a "witch's" arm till the blood poured down, because she had "overlooked" him, and only a could his health be restored.—London Chronicle.

RAMBLINGS OF A CHECK.

Something on the Style of the House That Jack Built.

A man down south made a bet with his wife—which was indelicate.

The wife won—which was foreordained.

The man wrote the wife a check for $5 in payment of the bet—which was sad.

The wife cashed the check at the grocery, but forgot to endorse it—which was natural.

The grocer, despite the lack of endorsement, paid it to a packing house collector—which was careless.

The packing house collector turned it in—which was all in a day's work.

The packing house office man discovered the lack of endorsement—which was good work.

He handed it back to the driver and docked the driver's salary—which was system.

The driver placed the check in his white duck coat and sent it to the laundry—which was unwise.

The laundry mutilated the check beyond recognition—which was to be expected.

Which is why the driver asked the cashier to ask the grocer to ask the man's wife to ask her husband to write a duplicate check. Which is why the man feels like he is paying that bet twice.—Kansas City Star.

NAMES FOR THE KNIVES.

The Small Boy Had Them All Dour Pat For the Preacher.

The small boy of today is often credited with a predilection for saying the wrong thing in the presence of an honored guest. The following true incident shows that he also had to be reckoned with more than seventy years ago.

In the pioneer days of Michigan Deacon Brewster was noted for his large family and his hospitality. One day Elder Allen, the circuit rider, young, good looking and, moreover, a bachelor, arrived at the deacon's in time for dinner. Presently a bounteous meal appeared upon a board rather scantily furnished. It must be owned, with certain necessities in the way of tableware. After all were seated and the elder had asked the blessing Miss Betty, the eldest daughter, thinking to apologize, blushing began:

"I'm sorry I couldn't find a better knife for you, Mr. Allen. The children carry them out to dig with, you see, and forget to bring them back."

"Why, sister," piped Johnny's shrill voice, "they're all here! The elder's got No Handle, dad has Butcher and mammy Stub! He'll just have to take turns eating with the rest of us."—Woman's Home Companion.

Compulsory Illuminations.

The west end of London is always ablaze with lights on the evening of the king's birthday, but no living Londoner can claim to have seen a general illumination of the metropolis. In his "Recollection and Reflection" J. R. Planche writes: "The last general illumination of London was that celebrating the battle of Waterloo. Now there are more beautiful displays, but this one was really general. Not a window in the smallest court but had its candle stuck in a lump of clay, while in houses of more pretension one blazed in every pane. Mobs paraded the metropolis from Hyde park corner to Whitechapel with cries of 'Light up!' and smashed every window that did not swiftly display a dip in answer to the summons."

Charm of the Nutmeg Tree.

The nutmeg tree has all seasons for its own. Every day in the year it shows buds, blossoms and fruit in every stage of maturing. The shell of the nutmeg is like a bit of polished ebony, and the mace it exposes when it bursts is of a bright scarlet. With all these varied features upon it at the same time, the nutmeg tree is one of the most beautiful exhibitors of the odd and beautiful in vegetation that the world possesses.—Browning's Magazine.

No Fancy Shaves For Him.

The weather was warm, and Pat decided to shave on the back porch. Mrs. Casey, across the way, observed this. "Pat," she called, "shave an' Oi see ye air shavin' outside."

"Begorra," he responded, "and did ye think Oi was fur lined?"—Judge.

Going the Limit.

Jones—If Mr. Oldboy makes any such assertion I will denounce him as a liar. President—Mr. Jones, I will call you to order. Our bylaws do not allow you to go that far. Jones—Then I call Mr. Oldboy a liar as far as it is permitted by the bylaws of this association.—London Telegraph.

The Other Side.

"You shouldn't be dissatisfied," said the optimist. "Look at all you have."

"Yes," asserted the pessimist, "but I don't have any more."

Life's Progress.

Life's progress, said this life's progress, and all the progress in the world.
