tamely submit. Why stand for it? The only reason why any store will try to substitute something else for S. S. S. is the lust for greater profit. S. S. S. is the greatest blood purifier known.

There is not a medicine for any purpose more carefully made than S. S. S. It represents the highest type of medicine. Its medical properties are just as essential to well balanced health, if the blood be sick, as are the nourishing elements of meats, grains, fats and sugars of our daily food. S. S. S. is prepared direct from native botanical material. Not a drop of drugs is added. Not a drop of mineral is used. This is one of the most important things to know and to remember when your blood needs attention.

It is the most effective, the purest, the quickest and most reliable medicine known for poisoned blood, rheumatism, catarrhal infection, malaria, skin disease, old sores and all afflictions that show in the blood, skin, joints and muscles. An interesting book on the blood is mailed to those who write. Get a bottle of S. S. S. today. It is the world's greatest medicine. Insist upon the dealer handing you S. S. S. and don't let him create about something that he can't advertise as free from iodine of potash and other destructive mineral drugs. If you have trouble getting S. S. S. write to The Swift Specific Co., 306 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for list of square deal stores.

Mechanism of the Ear.

Comparatively few people thoroughly realize what a delicate and sensitive structure the human ear really is. That which we ordinarily designate so is, after all, only the outer porch of a series of winding passages which, like the lobbies of a great building, lead from the world without to the world within. Certain of these passages contain liquid, and their membranes are stretched like parchment curtains across the corridor of different places and can be thrown into vibrations or made to tremble like the head of a drum or as the surface of a tambourine does when struck with a stick or with the fingers. Between two or three parchment-like curtains a chain of very small bones extends, which serves to tighten or relax these membranes and to communicate vibrations to them. In the innermost place of all a row of white threads, called nerves, stretches like the strings of a piano from the last point to which the tremblings or thrillings reach and pass inward to the brain.

THE ENCHANTED LAND.

Oh, everything is sweet and fair
In the place we never have seen!

The flowers wild perfume the air,
And there's never a hint of grief and care
In the place we never have seen!

And shall we then arise and go
To the place we never have seen?

Nay, nay! For once arrived, you know.

The glamour fades and the golden glow

Of the place we never have seen!

It's better to live our life afar

From the place we never have seen.

With hope for a staff and love for a star.

Let's make the place in which we are

Like the place we never have seen!

Watch Jewels.

Each watch jewel is shaped to a circle and bored through the center, each boring being just a little less than the diameter of the pinion used in the factory where it is finally to be placed in the upper or lower plate of a watch.

Before the jewel gets to the setter it has been put into a lathe and by means of a minute steel point covered with diamond dust and all the center has been enlarged to fit the steel pinion which shall be housed in it. In the hands of the setter the cylinder is put into a lathe. With a moistened finger the jewel is picked up and placed inside the cylinder as it rests on the tip of the revolving lathe shaft. With a pointed tool the setter presses against the revolving cylinder edge, forcing the soft metal to overlap and close upon the sapphire or ruby till it is imbedded firmly in the metal cushion. Then a pressure upon a follower at the other end of the lathe brings a cutter to bear upon the metal circumference, turning it to the exact size of the jewel hole in the plate of the watch, with the hole in the center of the jewel exactly in the center of the metal setting.

Weekly Outing of Algerian Ladies.

On Friday in Algiers I visited the cemetery of El Kettar, a great man who is worshipped as a saint. The cemetery where his body reposes is the one place in all Algiers where the women of the harems can feel the fresh air of heaven on their faces. And that is allowed only once a week, on Friday, when they are permitted to unveil and sit and chat together within the cemetery precincts. It was a curious sight as I entered, and it suggested resurrection morn. Fully fifty shrouded white figures were scattered about the grounds, sitting on graves, their bodies and heads covered by white robes, but their faces partly revealed. There was a small percentage of pretty faces and those belonged to the very young women. The middle aged were plain, with that plainness which proceeds from a dull mind and an uneventful life.—Ella Wheeler Wilcox in National Magazine.

Laughing.

Laughing is a series of short expiratory blasts which, acting upon the vocal chords, held tense for the purpose, cause certain sounds of various pitch. The differences in the sound of the laughter of different individuals is largely due to the varying vibrations of the larynx and pharynx. It has been noted that many in a family "have the same laugh," possibly because of similar throat formations. It also is an imitative process.—New York World.

A Tale of Tips.

When Guizot, the great French historian, was staying at Windsor castle in 1840 he wrote to his daughter that he had won over £20 at the Ascot meeting: "Twenty-three sovereigns for me, which will balance the £20 I had to spend in fees to the servants at Windsor castle."

Selfish Rejoicing.

"I rejoice that the world is filled with sunshine," said the fat man.

"Ah, you are an optimist," remarked the thin man.

"No," replied the fat man, "I am an awning manufacturer."—Cleveland Enquirer.

Hopeless.

"He's no good at an argument, is he? Not at all convincing?"

"Well, I should say not. Why, that man couldn't convince a woman that she was pretty!"—Cleveland Leader.

Liberal.
