TURKISH VENGEANCE.

It's a Perilous Matter to Endanger the Life of a Sultan.

Within two weeks after the assassination of Mahmmud Shekfat Pasha, the grand vizier of Turkey, thirty-two men were put to death for taking part in the conspiracy. According to Turkish custom handed down from the time of Mohammed, there is no limit as to the number of lives that may be taken as a penalty for the murder of one man. Even those interested in the remotest degree are liable to the sultan's vengeance. It is not so much the number of the ruler of Turkey is authorized to put out of the way, but rather where the line is to be drawn.

The Turks have a story of one of the earlier successors of Mohammed whose life was only endangered because of a rock falling down a declivity near which the sultan was riding with his retinue. Half a dozen of those in charge of the trip were put to death as an ordinary matter of course, then half a dozen more who might have remotely known something about the facilities afforded by the road for killing the sultan. Finally all the members of a secret club or lodge were ordered executed because it was ascertained that one of the responses to a password was "Will you roll down the stone?"

Despite the protestations of the club members that the words had no significance at all with respect to the sultan or the sultan's trip along the road, they were ordered to the scaffold. They numbered 118 in all and died bravely, assuring their executioners to the very last that they were innocent. Later a eunuch who told how the falling of the rock was merely an accident was also put to death for daring to say so.—New York Sun.

Killed by Light.

Those who have studied the strange inhabitants of the Mammoth cave in Kentucky say that the celebrated blind fish from that cavern when placed in illuminated aquaria seek out the darkest places, and it is believed that light is directly fatal to them, for they soon die if kept in a brightly lighted tank. The avoidance of light seems to be a general characteristic of the sightless creatures dwelling in the great cave.

Starting Something.

"While you are in asking papa for my hand in marriage, Philip, I'll be playing something lively on the piano," said the sweet young thing.

"No, I wouldn't do that, Jessica," replied the young man. "You know some people can't keep their feet still when they hear lively music."—Yonkers Statesman.

Sometimes They Are Wrong.

"A woman never admits that she was wrong."

"I don't know about that," replied Mr. Meekton. "A number of them seem particularly anxious to prove that they showed pretty poor judgment in selecting husbands."—Washington Star.

Enough to Make Him Rave.

"What is the editor of the health hints department raving about?"

"A rich woman writes that she gives private moving picture shows in her home, and she wants to know if they will injure her 'poodle's eyes.'—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Its Limitations.

A sweet disposition is a great institution as a general thing, although of little assistance in driving mules.—Arlington Globe.

A Mixed Quartet.

Among other curious things I have heard was a quartet sang simultaneously in four languages, writes a reminiscence contributor to the New York Sun. It was Clara Louise Kellogg's company in "Martha." Miss Kellogg sang in English, Brignoli in Italian, a German woman in German and a Frenchman in French. The audience never noticed the confusion of tongues.

Just the Reverse.

"Beating the sword into a plowshare?" inquired the tourist pleasantly as he halted at the door.

"Beating a plowshare into a sword," responded the energetic blacksmith. "I manufacture war relics."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Successful Opening.

Unwedded.

No genius is not inspiration. Genius is perspiration.—Thomas Edison.
