

The Relishable Kind Of Soda

is the kind we serve from our fountain—cool, cheering, thirst-quenching. The first drop and the last are equally pure and tempting—perfectly delicious. Flavored to suit all tastes and fancies, and just enough ice cream to make it positively refreshing at all hours. This is the healthiest drink one can take in the summer time and likewise the most economical.

Sheep Snowed In.
(Elgin Recorder.)

George Stevenson, local forest ranger in the Wenaha reserve, came in Wednesday and stated that 2000 head of sheep belonging to Saunders, of Milton, are snowed in at a point north of Brock meadows. He reports that the snow was two feet deep there on Tuesday and was still falling.

The herder and camp tender thought when the snow started falling that the storm would be of short duration, but the snow fell so rapidly that they became snow bound before they could move.

Word was sent to the owner this week and it is thought that he is there by the present time. At last reports the sheep had been without feed for four days and unless they are on their way out at the present there will be a big loss.

The sheep owned by Dave Johnson are being brought out without difficulty. The various other bands in the higher altitudes have been driven out and are en route to the winter quarters.

RAIN RETARDS THRESHING

PERSONALS AND NEWS ITEMS FROM JOSEPH.

Enterprise Team Defeats Joseph High School by Big Score.

Joseph, Or., Oct. 14.—(Special)—Mr. Head, the lessee of the Joseph flouring mill, has moved from the Rumble house to the Harry Hamilton house to be nearer his work.

Threshing has been tied up for a week on account of rain and snow.

N. C. Longfellow has sold his sheep to Jay Dobbin and Fred Falconer. He sold his horses to his former partner, Bige Arnold.

Mrs. Ed Berland and children and sister, Miss Una Kelsay, have left for a visit with their parents in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Rice have moved to Innaha for the winter.

Prof. and Mrs. Coe will occupy the Rice residence this winter.

The yank season re-opened the 11th inst. and several took advantage of it and went fishing.

Miss Claire Leslie was indisposed several days and was out of the store. Miss Leslie is assistant bookkeeper for the McCully Mercantile company.

The Joseph high school football aggregation played its first game last Saturday at Enterprise, 31 to 0, in favor of Enterprise.

The Enterprise team won the silver cup for the best stock judging at the county fair.

Lostine won second place and Joseph third. Wallowa made the lowest score. They have to win two years before it is theirs permanently.

Ellsworth Ellis, of La Grande, is in Joseph this week.

Jim Bradley and wife of Wallowa, visited the Knapper family last week. Mr. Bradley is part owner in the Wallowa Mercantile company.

Geo. Hauser and family have gone to Walla Walla for a while. Mr. Hauser expects to sell stock in the Oregon Black Marble works, of which he is a partner.

Fred Gaylord has sold Henry Mitchell about a hundred head of cows.

Mr. and Mrs. Polk Mays, Sr., of Joseph, are visiting in La Grande. Their son Harry is also there with a string of race horses to take part in the Union county fair races. Clifford Wade is Harry's rider. Mr. Wade has won the relay every year at the Wallowa county fair.

Bert Eggleston has sold his mule team, that has taken several prizes at fairs, to the Oregon Black Marble company. The consideration was six hundred dollars.

Mr. Hendricks has large interests here that call him once a year to look after.

Miss Grace Warnock, daughter of D. W. Warnock, was married at Enterprise Sunday, the 12th, to Homer Hayes. Mr. Hayes is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jno Hays. They will go to house-keeping in Joseph in the Shreffler house on Mill street. All wish them happiness through their married-life.

D. B. Hendricks left Wednesday for his home at Pomona, California.

Hair Hints

Worthy the Attention of People Who Wish to Preserve the Hair.

Never use a brush or comb found in public places, they are usually covered with dandruff germs.

Shampoo the hair every two weeks with pure soap and water, or a good ready prepared shampoo.

Use Persian Sage every day, rubbing thoroughly into the scalp. This delightful and invigorating hair tonic, which sells in a large 50 cent bottle, is guaranteed to quickly abolish dandruff—to stop hair from falling and scalp from itching or money refunded.

To put life and beauty into dull, dry or faded hair and make it soft and fluffy surely use Parisian Sage—it is one of the quickest acting hair tonics known. Newlin Drug Co.

TREASURY RELICS

Treasures on File in Auditor's Office.

WASHINGTON.

Of Eight Years' Standing in the Auditor's Office.

The United States Treasury Department has in its possession a number of relics in the handwriting of the late Secretary of the Treasury, Alexander Hamilton. These relics are of great historical interest and are now being preserved in the Treasury Department. The relics include a number of documents and letters, some of which are of great value to the nation. The Treasury Department is now working to identify and preserve these relics for the benefit of the nation.

The purchase under the treaty, characterized at the time as "Seward's folly," of Alaska is evidenced by a warrant for $7,200,000, signed by F. E. Spinner, who at the time was secretary of the treasury. The wording of the warrant begins and runs, "Pay to the undersigned envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of his majesty the emperor of all the Russias." This warrant called for payment in coin and was so paid through the Riggs bank, then a private banking institution of Washington, after being indorsed by Edward de Stoecke, the Russian minister at that time.

The Panama canal purchase represented the largest financial transaction of the government. The payment was made by a common draft, payable to "J. Pierpont Morgan & Co., special disbursing agent," through whom it was paid to the French company, the former owner. The late J. Pierpont Morgan himself indorsed the draft. A short time previous there had been issued a warrant for $10,000,000, covering the cost of the canal zone, an area of ten miles on each side of the canal. As these canceled checks are held as receipts, it could happen, in case of their loss, that the government might not be able to show that the moneys were actually paid.

Not less interesting as relics are "Accounts—G. Washington with the United States, commencing June, 1775, and ending June, 1783, comprehending a space of eight years." Under the caption are three or four dilapidated calf bound account books in the handwriting of the great American patriot. These accounts were mostly kept while he was on the march, but they were brought up with great accuracy from day to day.

At the end of each book there is a comprehensive recapitulation. Individual money and funds of the government expended by him are specifically indicated. In a footnote he calls attention to a particular item which he appeared to have paid, but for which he had no voucher. He deducted the amount of the item from his credit until the matter could be definitely settled. All of his accounts are expressed in English money.

A contemporaneous account book kept by Caleb Gibbs shows the personal expenses of Washington and his military "family," meaning, no doubt, his immediate staff. The entries are usually headed, "Headquarters, on the march." For the most part they cover purchases of food supplies, but now and then are such entries as:

"To cash for a broom that Peter bought some time ago, sixpence."

"Cash paid for mending the chariot, 1 shilling."

"Agreed with Peggy for 4 shillings per month for the general's washing and 4 shillings per dozen for the gentlemen of the family."

Among other things of interest in the auditor's office are books showing allowances to members of congress to and from Washington. In the Thirtieth congress $903 for mileage is recited in a faint, uncertain hand "D. Webster." A payment of $500 for 111 days' attendance is shown to have been made to Henry Clay.—Harper's Weekly.

Bowling. Bowls, or bowling, is one of the most popular and ancient of English pastimes, its origin being traceable to the twelfth century. It was held in such disfavor for years that laws were enacted against it, and it was an illegal pursuit. Alleys were built, however, as it could not be played out of doors during the winter, and the game flourished in spite of opposition. In the beginning of the eighteenth century greens began to increase, while the alleys were rigorously and absolutely suppressed. It soon became a royal game, and no gentleman's place was complete without a bowling green.—New York Press.

There is always hope in a man that actually and earnestly works. In idleness alone is there perpetual despair.—Carlyle.

FOUR SOULS EACH.

Curious Beliefs of the Savages of West Africa.

West African religion is particularly generous to the human beings, to each of whom it allots several souls, four being the usual number. Only one is immortal, however. The others, though troublesome enough during the owner's life, cease to be at the same time as the body. They are the shadow soul, the dream soul and the bush soul.

One soul seems more than many of us can manage, but the poor African has a bad time between the four of them. He never knows when some enemy may plunge a knife into his shadow, thus causing him to sicken and die, or when his bush soul, which takes the form of an animal, may rush into danger and get hurt, and, as for his dream soul, that is particularly troublesome, as it wanders from his body during sleep and runs the risk of being caught by witch traps. When this happens its place is often taken by a nasty stranger spirit called a "sisa," which seems to have no other object but to cause misfortune and sickness to the being who forms its temporary habitation.

Most of the tribes have the idea of an underworld after death, neither heaven nor hell, but much like the existing world, only dimmer. Among the Tachwi tribes this idea is well defined. Their shadow world has a name—arshmandayi—and they even know the way to the entrance, which is across the Volta river. This place has its markets, its towns and its interests, but everything is felt in a more indistinct way.

Bad Check Artist Held.

Baker, Or., Oct. 14.—W. B. Shelley, the check artist arrested in La Grande early Saturday morning after attempting to make his getaway after passing bad paper in this city, will have his preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Hubbard this afternoon. As far as can be learned the phony checks passed in Baker aggregated about $75. One of the parties who was victimized by Shelley, visited him in jail yesterday and he stated that he would make good all his checks, that he had friends who would come to his rescue, naming as one a prominent resident of La Grande.
