You Never Lose at Morgan's

IF you have never used Electric Lights, you cannot fully appreciate their superiority; if you have always used them, you are apt to accept them as a matter of course; but if you have used them and then, for some reason, are forced to do without them--THEN you will realize how much their brilliance and convenience meant to you. You needn't do without them in La Grande, however, for our service reaches everywhere, and our rates place Electric Light within the means of all.

SHERRY'S INTRODUCE EXCELLENT COMEDY ATTRACTION TONIGHT

About the show which will be put on at Sherry's theatre tonight, the Pendleton Live Wire says:

"Who's Who, or All In a Fog," is the offering of Basco & Brown Musical Comedy company for Sunday matinee, night and Monday night. The play is one dealing with the trials and tribulations of two young lovers, and their schemes to circumvent the watchfulness of the girl's father and mother.

The clever disguising in full view of the audience of Chas. Livingston (Ed. Harrington), who disguises as Mike Mooney (A. B. Basco), the servant, is a clever piece of work, and the complications that ensue by the general mixup of the two Mike Mooneys keeps the fun going fast and furious.

One of the funniest situations is the shaving scene, where Mike Mooney shaves in a mirrorless mirror, with Harrington on the opposite side imitating his every move and gesture. It shows painstaking effort on the part of the two performers in perfecting that part of their act.

Billy Nixon, as Judge Suffolk, the gruff old father of Kitty (Naudia Melville), gives that capable actor a chance to show his versatility.

Naudia Melville, as Kitty, in love with Charley, is clever, pretty and peppy, and her clever singing and dancing have won the hearts of her audiences.

Minnie Moran, as the wife of Squire Suffolk, carries the part well, and it shows her in a new line of work and demonstrates her capabilities as a character actress.

The chorus has ample opportunity to appear in a number of pleasing singing and dancing numbers and by its clever work has succeeded in pleasing the patrons of this house.

It is especially pleasing to note that no matter how much fun there is or how many silly situations arose in any of the previous offerings, there has never been a time or situation that had any suggestion of lewdness in it, so prevalent with former attractions, and Mr. Basco prides himself on that fact and is most emphatic in his endeavors to present only clean, attractive, fun provoking plays.

BARREN PALESTINE.

Its Forests Are Gone and the Jordan Is Now a Feeble Stream.

One of the most remarkable illustrations in all history of the ill effects of the disappearance of forests may be observed in Palestine. In the days when Joshua conquered the promised land Palestine was a wonderfully fertile country, a land flowing with milk and honey. The Lebanon mountains were heavily wooded, and a large population was supported in comfort.

The general devastation of the forests brought about, however, a gradual deterioration of the country. The hills of Galilee, which had long served as pasture lands for large herds of cattle and sheep, are now sterile. The Jordan has become an insignificant stream, and several smaller rivers are now completely dried up throughout the greater part of the year. Some few valleys in which fertile earth washed down from the hills has been deposited have retained their old fertility. The land today supports only one-sixth the population of the time of Solomon.—Christian Herald.

Table Manners in the Old Days.

Modern table manners compare favorably with those of the past. Mrs. Hannah Woolley, author of "The Gentlewoman's Companion," the standard seventeenth century book on etiquette, found it necessary thus to warn her readers: "Gentlewomen, discover not by any ravenous gesture your angry appetite nor fix your eyes too greedily on the meat before you, as if you would devour more than that way than your throat would swallow."

In carving avoid clapping your fingers in your mouth and licking them after you have carved them. Close your lips when you eat and do not smack like a pig. Fill not your mouth so full that your cheeks shall swell like a pair of Scotch bagpipes. It is very unbecomely to drink so large a draft that your breath is almost gone and you are forced to blow strongly to recover yourself.

Historic Hyde Park.

Hyde park has seen not only magnificent reviews, from Stuart times onward, but has witnessed also military musters with a more warlike intent. Here during the commonwealth were encamped the Roundhead armies of Essex and Lambert, and here Cromwell reviewed his Ironsides. The defenses which were at that time raised in the park have left their mark on Mayfair's street nomenclature, for Mount street, Grosvenor square, commemorates Oliver's mount, as it was called, part of the line of fortifications drawn around London by order of the parliament in 1643. Even the women, Butler tells us in "Hudibras," helped in the defensive work, and—

Extraordinary Seed.

A farmer who mainly out of curiosity had grown a crop of flax had a tablecloth made out of it. Some time later he remarked to a lady visitor at dinner, "I grew this tablecloth myself." "Did you really?" she said, apparently much astonished. "How did you manage it?" It was plain from her tone that she had no idea how tablecloths came into existence, so the farmer lowered his voice mysteriously as he replied, "If you'll promise not to tell any one I'll tell you." The lady promised. "Well," proceeded the farmer still in the same mysterious tone, "I planted a napkin!"
