HOME TALENT OPERA PLANNED

"UNION COUNTY FAIR" TO BE STAGED HERE.

Neighborhood Club to Put on Home Talent Comic Opera Soon.

To raise funds with which to supply their home in the new library building the Neighborhood club has decided to take up a home talent play, or comic opera, entitled the "Union County Fair." This play was written by Annie Cara Bock, a West Virginian who has made the drilling and producing of home talent plays a specialty. This home talent play, "Union County Fair", has been her biggest and most successful. Wherever it has been given it has been an immense success, as it no doubt will be in La Grande. The plan and plot of this play is very simple—nothing but a county fair scene with all manner of people coming to the fair. It will be a real picture of the real old time county fair, with displays innumerable of rich, yellow pumpkins, big potatoes, immense squashes, monstrous ears of yellow corn, red apples and any and every kind of fruit and vegetables raised by the farmers of Union county. Not only will there be displays of these farm products, but the needlework, machinery and handiwork of the thrifty inhabitants of this county will also occupy a conspicuous space.

While the displays above described are always looked for at the county fair yet the real interest of this particular county fair is in the dialogue of the visitors at the fair and in the musical numbers to be presented. As the scene opens the loud mouthed fakirs, lemonade man, side show-man, balloon man will almost deafen you with their mighty yells. Then follows a quick succession of farmers, old maids, school boys, jockeys, preachers, bride and groom, gold brick men, city visitors and all the characters one can possibly imagine at a county fair, each with an appropriate dialogue and conversation. All these dialogues are of the most humorous nature and have a life and spirit to them that convulses and amuses even the most staid audience.

But after all, no amateur entertainment at this day and age can be a success without plenty of good lively, up to date music, and we will have it in the county fair. One of the big musical features is a Moon chorus of little girls between the ages of three and nine. It's one of the prettiest and cutest ever. There will be another children's chorus and six young men and young ladies' choruses. All of these are the latest, catchiest song productions and are presented in a beautiful, attractive manner. The Neighborhood club has decided to produce this entertainment December 11 and 12. The committees have been appointed for the various departments of the preliminary work. The best talent of the city will be invited and there can be no doubt of the fair being a rousing success, as our talent, we believe, is rather superior to that of the average town.

AT SHERRY THEATRE.

"A Seaside Romance" is the offering of the Basco-Brown Musical comedy company for tonight. The scenes are laid at a fashionable eastern watering resort, and centers around the endeavors of two lovers to outwit the watchfulness of the girl's crusty old father, Chas. Livingston (Ed Harrington), is in love with Laura Puffjacket, (Miss Naudia Melville), and in company with Pat McNogerty, his valet, (A. B. Basco), rents apartments near the object of his affection and with the assistance of his valet and Laura's maid, Nancy (Minnie Moran), which through the stupidity of Pat, (who also accepts a position with Laura's father), falls in the old gentleman's hands and causes no end of funny situations, which as usual end happily.

The play is interspersed with several catchy song number in which the chorus is seen to advantage and Mr. Basco introduces his clever dancing specialty, which is a scream and his clever acrobatic dancing must be seen to be appreciated. The play is replete with clean, clever comedy, with a whirlwind finish that causes no end of enjoyment.

CAMP SPOT SEEN AGAIN.

Willamette valley. He remembered the Grande Ronde river and immediately called to mind that it was on the banks of that beautiful little stream where he and others sought rest for themselves and their teams. He looked for the Old Oregon trail, but could not locate it in the brief time allowed. He had forgotten the fact that the old trail passed through South La Grande and over the western foothills between Deal and Mill canyons, and readily recalled this fact when such he was reminded of.

The trip made 63 years ago when not a house was in sight in the valley, and deer roamed about as freely as birds do today.

A. P. Reed, one of the progressive farmers of the Enterprise country, went to Pendleton this morning on business. He will be gone a week or 10 days.

W. H. Mitchell, of Nez Perce, Idaho, stopped off in the city to see what La Grande is doing. He thinks La Grande one of the most hustling cities in the state and predicts a good future for us.

Miss Katie Wilson, who was brought to the local hospital some weeks ago, suffering from a broken hip, is said to be much better. The break is healing favorably and she will be out in a week or so.

Frank Ross, of Union, the road boss with territory from Alicel to Medical Springs, was in town over night. He came to town to confer with local authorities concerning repairs at Phy's Point.

J. A. Chandler of La Grande, went to Union this noon on No. 10. Mr. Chandler is an extensive fruit grower of that section and is frequently in La Grande. He states that when he came here there were 42 people bearing the name of Chandler, who got mail at the La Grande post office.

CONCERT THIS EVENING.

Concert to Be Followed by Dancing Party—Band Is Hostess.

Tonight is the night of nights for the La Grande band. It is staging a benefit concert and dancing party, and commencing at 8 o'clock the concert will be commenced followed by the dancing in Rex auditorium about 9:00 o'clock. The program for the concert is:

March, "Hearts of Gold," L. Albert. Gavotte di Concert, "Cupid's Arrow," Devere Selection, "Three Twins," Koschna Characteristic March, "Slippery Hank," Losey Fantasia, "Light and Airy,"

..... Bergenholz Overture, "Mosaic," Rollinson

Following that will be dancing and as the band needs the money and has the music to give so that everyone will be happy. A big crowd is expected and one thing is certain, the band will be there with bells on in furnishing the music.

Big Rally Tonight.

A big rally has been planned for tonight if the weather is in any wise permissible the students will gather at the high school at 7:30 and the fun will commence. They will bring all the noise makers that it is possible to get with them and will wind their way through the principal streets in a long serpentine. After speeches and "boots" on the main corners they will again return to the football grounds at the high school and spend the evening around a monstrous bon fire, the fuel for said fire to be furnished by the freshmen, as has been the custom for many years.
