The alumni lineup will be uncertain until the whistle blows. However, Woods will probably hover over the ball, Geddes and Lowell Williamson will essay the guard roles, Bohnenkamp and Rice the tackle positions, "Bud" Garrity will start at one end with either Joe Williamson, Peare or "Hicks" Garrity alternating on the flank positions. "Dad" Irwin, the old vet general, will start things off at the helm, with Captain Lottes at full, Childers and Carpy at halves. Changes will no doubt be numerous as the game progresses, and Whitby, Vehrs and a half dozen other alumni material will be on the grounds ready to help the wassers through to victory. The game starts promptly at 2:30 and the alumni will hold a signal drill just before the game. Last year much the same material comprised the team but had been through a good season of practice, whereas at no time have all the men been in the lineup as they will start today.

Jubilee Singers Coming

The Southland Jubilee Quartet of mixed voices, composed of four talented negro entertainers, render a program typical of the south with old plantation melodies and jubilee songs. An evening of solid enjoyment, not a tiresome moment. The interpretation of Dunbar as given by Mr. Drayton is considered by many the very best in America. Fifteen years of study has made Prof. Barbour one of the best musicians and composers of the negro race. Several of his own compositions are included in the program. The prima donna soprano possesses a remarkably high natural voice while the contralto has a full rich voice that few such singers possess. No one should miss the opportunity of hearing this concert as the quartets, trios, duets, solos, instrumental numbers and readings are far superior to anything of the kind on the Pacific coast.

This famous quartet will be in La Grande Friday night at the old Methodist church. A good musical treat is guaranteed.

THOUGHTS ON LIFE.

Why all this toll for triumphs of an hour?
—Young
Life's a short summer; man is but a flower.
—Dr. Johnson
By turns we catch the fatal breath and die.
—Pope
The cradle and the tomb, alas, how nigh!
—Prior
To be is better far than not to be.
—Sewall
Though all man's life may seem a tragedy.
—Spencer
But light cares speak when mighty griefs are dumb.
—Daniel
The bottom is but shallow whence they come.
—Sir Walter Raleigh
Thy fate is the common fate of all.
—Longfellow
Unmingled joys here no man befall.
—Southwell
Nature to each allots his proper sphere.
—Congreve
Fortune makes folly her peculiar care.
—Churchill
Custom does often reason overrule.
—Rochester
And throw a cruel sunshine on a fool.
—Austen
Live well; how long or short permit to heaven.
—Milton
They who forgive most shall be forgiven.
—Bailey

WEALTH CONCENTRATION.

A power has risen up in the government greater than the people themselves, consisting of many and various and powerful interests, combined in one mass and held together by the cohesive power of the vast surplus in the banks.—J. C. Calhoun.

IRELAND.

Dear land of song and bard, whose lays
Ring for all time and story.
Whose saints and martyrs' burning words
Are for a single world's glory.
Ah, who shall voice the heart's desire
In such strange, tender strain
Or lift the laughter of glad life
Or banish the weird refrain.

Call dancing elves beneath the moon
Or wraiths of warriors bold
With just the music of thy tongue?
That Celtic speech of gold.
O land who stood so high and free,
Untouched by Roman yoke.
When Britain bowed beneath their chains
Thy pride they never broke.

Where Finn, like David, fought for right,
Where Moore and Goldsmith sang;
Where Emmet spake with tongue of flame,
Where Patrick's message rang,
Shall not thy harp sound forth again
From Tara hill's new birth?
Shall not thy sons know their own land
'Mong nations of the earth?
—Alice E. Ives.

SOLITUDE.

Solitude is not measured by the miles of space that intervene between man and his fellows. The really diligent student in one of the crowded hives of Cambridge college is as solitary as a dervish in a desert.—Thoreau.

Solitude is the home of the strong, silence their prayer.—Ravignau.

Solitude, the safeguard of mediocrity, is to genius the stern friend, the cold, obscure shelter where molt the wings that will bear it farther than suns and stars. He who would inspire and lead his race must be defended from traveling with the souls of other men, from living, breathing, reading and writing in the daily time worn yoke of their opinions.—Emerson.

Penetrating a Disguise.
"What are you doing in this stack of costume plates and reference books?" asked the old time friend.
"Merely satisfying an idle curiosity," replied Mr. Cumrox. "I'm trying to find out who I was at my wife's recent costume ball."—Washington Star.

Almost an Insult.
Press Agent—Miss De Star, I'm going to work up a story that your pet Pomeranian poodle swallowed all your diamonds. Miss De Star—Why, sir, do you think I want people to think I have only enough diamonds to fill a poodle?—Chicago News.

Our doubts are traitors and make us lose the good we oft might win by fearing to attempt.—Shakespeare.
