BABOONS AT HOME.

A Study of the Animals in Their Wild State in Africa.

We can only learn the nature and disposition of an animal like the baboon from a study of its behavior in a wild state. Few persons ever have a chance for such study, and accordingly an intelligently observed account of the animal's actions becomes of interest. The author of "Animal Life in Africa," Major J. Stevenson-Hamilton, furnishes the following results of his personal investigations:

It is most interesting and instructive to watch, from some concealed position, the social life of a troop of baboons who fancy themselves to be unobserved. Perched about at intervals among the rocks are some of the older males, evidently on the lookout for danger. Behind them walk and squat a heterogeneous mass of females and of young animals. The females employ themselves in various family tasks and the youngsters, playing and squabbling, chase one another around to a shrill accompaniment of chattering screams.

Possibly two of the latter, in the course of a rough and tumble, jostle against one of the older males. Immediately the latter's attitude of dignified quiescence vanishes, and he turns with a roar upon the imprudent juveniles, who hastily retreat with shrieks of fear. Now and then a mother finds it necessary to chastise her offspring or to wreak vengeance upon one or another of the unattached bobbledoys who, she guesses, meditates imposing upon or injuring it. The air resounds with squeaks, shrill cries and occasional bass grunts.

Suddenly from one of the guards comes a single deep, hoarse bark, and instantly there is silence. The females catch up their young offspring; the rest of the band, with one accord, scuttles out right and left, and in a moment there is nothing to be seen except one or two of the larger males, who walk quietly off, now and then stopping to glance back and to utter their resonant warning barks.

If you run quickly forward and climb to some cogn of vantage you will perhaps be in time to see the whole band scampering off. The infants cling to their mothers' backs, the unattached juveniles race ahead, and the three or four fathers of families bring up the rear at a more deliberate pace.

Annual Meeting of Stockholders of La Grande National Bank.

Notice is hereby given that the Annual Meeting of the Stockholders of the La Grande National Bank, will be held at their banking house in La Grande, Oregon, on Tuesday, January 13, 1914, between the hours of 2 o'clock and 4 o'clock, P. M. of said day. At this meeting a board of seven directors will be elected to serve for ensuing year and until their successors are elected and qualify, and such other business will receive consideration, as may properly offer at said meeting.

F. L. MEYERS, Cashier.

When your horse resolves to demand our brand of food in preference to all others we think he ought to have it. If dumb animals could speak we think the chorus in favor of our grain and feed would be a mighty loud one, but as they can't, we will have to appeal to the owner. You can't beat our brand of feed anywhere. Phone us your wood orders.

MYERS TO THE MINORS.

Stallings Springs Surprise in Dropping First Baseman.

The surprising news came from Boston recently that "Hap" Myers, the first baseman, had been released to Rochester in the International league by George Stallings. "Hack" Schmidt, the youngster from Rochester, who had a trial by the Braves during the latter part of the season, showed up well at the bat, and Stallings probably decided to give him the call for the position.

It is surprising that no other club in the big leagues has put in a claim for Myers. There are several teams in the National and American leagues that could use him to good advantage.

Myers went to the Braves last spring from the Northwestern league, where he stole 118 bases during the season of 1912. He lived up to his base running reputation in the National league by purloining fifty-two bases in 138 games.

MATTY AND FULTZ.

New York Pitcher Boomed to Head Players' Fraternity.

Christy Mathewson is slated to be the next president of the Baseball Players' fraternity, succeeding David L. Fultz in the election in the fall, according to members of various teams. Practically every player in the land looks up to Matty as the wise man of the game, and he ought to be able to get more results than Fultz in dickering with the league heads and the national commission, particularly when it is considered that Fultz has accomplished nothing.

Curious Fish Spear.

In spite of the march of civilization there remains much that is still primitive in Sicily, and a curious sight at Palermo is to see the fishermen spearing fish in the harbor by the aid of glass bottomed buckets, says the Wide World Magazine. There are many corners of the world where fish are speared, but perhaps the use of the glass bottomed bucket in this connection is to be seen only at Palermo. The fishermen lean far over the side of their boats and hold the bucket on the water with one hand, poking their heads into it as if engaged in the Halloween game of ducking for apples. They hold a spear poised in the free hand and thus await the arrival of their victims, who are sighted through the glass bottom of the bucket, which acts as a kind of telescope.

Migrating Birds.

During many of the nights in September the inhabitants of the island of Helgoland are astir with big lanterns and a kind of enormous butterfly net, the former to attract and dazzle the migrating birds when they come to earth to rest, and the latter to secure them. Mr. Seebohm, the great authority on bird migration, states that he has known as many as 15,000 skylarks to be caught on the island in a single night. The migrating birds are always interesting to the ships that ply across the North sea and the Baltic. In September they settle on yard arm or on deck, rather tired, and the seamen catch flies and collect them into receptacles for the benefit of the birds.
