APPLE MARKETS IMPROVING

PORTLAND, Jan. 1 (special)—There is a slightly better feeling in the local apple trade. While some dealers report no improvement in the demand, others indicate that a fractionally better buying is going on. No change is indicated in prices.

The demand now shown is principally for choice to fancy stuff, there being little call for anything better. Receipts of apples are still quite fair, especially of the poorer quality.

A quiet tone is generally shown in the apple trade throughout the country. To some extent this is due to the fact that the speculative trade has been rather anxious to clean up its former purchases with as little delay as possible, but on the other hand this appears to be a very minor factor.

The big crop of oranges this season is proving one of the most important factors in keeping down the sale of apples. Orange distributors are advertising rather extensively, and this is creating a demand for that fruit and displacing the apples.

Orange prices are likewise rather low the best stock ruling here no higher than $2.50 a box, while ordinary stock is selling from $2 to $2.25.
