Trenches for the new steam pipes to heat the O.W. depot are being dug by employes of the company. Excavations are being made under the tracks and in a week or so radiators will be installed in the waiting rooms and offices of the station building. Steam will be conveyed from the power house of the shops and will mean a saving of many dollars when once installed.

THE OUTCAST.

Some of our good friends think it is a mistake to pick up the wretched outcasts who have got among modern thieves unless first we get them to a church or a sacrament or the penitent form. Even then some would wait till they had been tested a little, lest they should seem to run after the loaves and fishes! But the army is striving to find and feed and shelter the least, the weakest and the wickedest of those lost and ruined images of God. Nothing shall turn us aside from seeking them. It is our proper work because it was and is our Master's. And just as he died for all, so in its works of mercy and charity the army does all it can for all who suffer without stopping to inquire whether they are good or bad and without insisting that they should make a profession of religion or promise to join our ranks. Our business is to do good to all men.—General Bramwell Booth, Salvation Army.

HADES.

Before the porch itself, within the jaws of hell, grief and avenging cares have placed their couches. There dwell pale diseases, sorrowing age, despondency and ill prompting hunger and loathsome want, shapes terrible to see; death—death and labor and sleep, twin born with death, and the criminal lusts of the heart, and death bringing war near the opening door, and the iron bedchamber of the furies, and maddening discord, her viper's tresses bound up with bloody fillets.—Virgil.

NIMRODS PICK OLD OFFICERS

WALTER ZWEIFEL WINS STANGE PRIZE OF $5.00.

Twenty-two New Members Taken Into Wing, Fin and Fleetfoot Club.

Election of officers to control the destinies of the Wing, Fin and Fleetfoot club for 1914, took place at the Commercial club last evening. The attendance was satisfactory. Aside from electing officers the club awarded the 1913 cash prize of $5.00 to the person killing the greatest number of magpies during the year. This distinction and cash went to Walter Zweifel, who destroyed 40 of the carnivorous birds during the year. This prize was hung up by August J. Stange, and the coming year a prize of $10, half contributed by the club and half by P. A. Foley, will be awarded to the person establishing the record.

Twenty-two new members were taken in last evening, bringing the total membership considerably past the 100 mark.

At the election of officers all the old officials were re-established in office. These are President, Geo. W. Zimmerman; Vice President, J. T. Williamson; Secretary, A. A. Wenzel; Treasurer, Charles R. Harding; executive committee, P. A. Foley, J. M. Kohl, Walter Zweifel, S. D. Crowe, Charles B. Oari. The president is exofficio member of the board.

Mrs. C. L. Hawkins went to Elgin this morning to be at the bedside of her little relative, Alberta Hawkins, who has been so seriously ill with pneumonia that she is not expected to live. For a number of days she has been existing on oxygen alone. The little girl is about nine or ten years old and is the daughter of Mr. Hawkins who has charge of the Grande Ronde meat market.

ALICE OF OLD VINCENTNES.

In the village Che-pe-ko-ke, In the times long past and gone, Nestled on the Quabache river, Lived brave Alice Roussion. Not a flower in valley blooming. Not a songbird in the glens, Was so fair and sweet as Alice, Pretty maid of Old Vincennes.

Off she winged the grouse and partridge As from covey up they flew; Or, dispersing on the water, Oft she sculled her bark canoe, And by arrow, swiftly speeding, As to mark it straightly wends, Doe and fawn were often trophies Alice bagged near Old Vincennes.

Ere the battle's smoke o'er Sackville By the winds were rolled away, Lively sped the maid, un hindered, With her flag to crown the fray; Then, to mast rope tightly fastened, Up Old Glory high ascends, Waving back a kiss to Alice, Heroine of Old Vincennes.

Mem'ry often us will carry On the wings of busy thought Back to early years, when freedom 'Gainst its foes in triumph fought. Not a spot should now be dearer To the hearts of Freedom's friends Than the village Che-pe-ko-ke, Home of Alice—Old Vincennes! —Hubbard M. Smith.

AN IDEAL JOB.

The talk turned to office-seekers in the lobby of a Washington hotel the other evening, and this one was contributed by Senator Shively of Indiana:

Two men, according to the senator, were sitting on a park bench one afternoon, listening to the sparrows sing, when the delight of holding public office was incidentally mentioned. "Look here, Jim," exclaimed one of the pair, suddenly looking up, "you are not thinking of seeking an office, are you?"

"No, I can't say that I am," replied Jim reflectively, "and yet if I got one to my liking I might take it."

"I see," responded the other, "what kind of a government job would be to your taste?"

"Well," replied Jim, "I wouldn't mind filling a couple of thousand a year for setting fountain pens for the assistant secretary of the treasury."—Saturday Evening Post.

The Ruling Passion.

Host (proudly)—And this is a masterpiece of Rembrandt!

Visitor—Great Scott, man! What is that unsightly hole in the corner? It spoils the whole picture.

Host—Well, you see, my wife is an autograph collector, and she wouldn't rest until she got the signature out and pasted it in her album.—Puck.

WHAT DID SHE MEAN?

Miss Antique—Love is not blind. Miss Cautique—Then sometimes it must be cross-eyed.

A Great Increase.

The aftermath of romance in tragedy abounds. The girl he left behind him Now weighs two hundred pounds.

Quick Resentment.

"What a graceful dancer your daughter is!" breathed the insinuating youth.

"Sir," replied the alert mother, "I want you to understand that my daughter dances only the latest dances. She learned several years after gracefulness went out of style."

A Sensitive Editor.

"Well, what do you think of my poem?"

"How could you be so cruel?"

"What do you mean?"

"Why, in every line you have tortured the English language until I can almost imagine that I hear it cry out."

By His Wit No Longer.

"Say, what's Bill Smithers doing now? Still living by his wit, as he always did, huh?"

"Nope. Bill's made a change for himself and settled down to hard work. Runs the funny column in the Afternoon Squeak."

Those Days Are Over.

"That young Englishman who came over recently showed me a funny sight today."

"What was that?"

"Showed me a trunkful of glass beads he brought over to trade to the Indians."

HE KNEW.

Little Harry—Say, pop, what's a confidence man?

Pop—He is a man who separates others from their money and their confidence at the same time.

An Aerial Navy.

The Swiss have long made it their boast No need of ships without a coast. But airships make a change, we vow, And they will need a navy now.

THE BOTTLE of COMFORT

Is a hot water bottle. If there is any one thing that the human body likes most, it is warmth. Cold feet for a single night, cost more discomfort than the cost of a hot water bottle that would keep the feet warm for a thousand nights. Every member of the family should have one. We have the good kinds at reasonable prices.

Red Cross Drug Store.

Senator Allinson Home.

W. S. Allinson, who answers to the name of Senator, when not answering Portland apartment signal bells, is back in God's country again. "My family likes that 'ere place, but not for me. Let me get down there to the mill dust again," shouted the senator on his return today.

After inhaling some flour dust at his mill, the senator goes to Idaho on business matters.

Perry Service.

The first preaching service of 1914 will be held at Perry tomorrow, Wednesday night, at 7:30. Rev. Drahn, the pastor of Zion Lutheran church will continue the services as conducted every second and fourth Wednesday during the last four or five months, during the year 1914 and expects to establish permanent services at the suburb to this west of us.

Lodges Take Notice.

The K. P. hall has been leased to the Eagles and will be fitted up in the most modern fashion. It will be equipped with steam heat throughout and have all the conveniences required by the most exacting taste. It will be ready for occupancy by the middle of February.
