The Liquor Habit Cured

WE HAVE OPENED an Institute in La Grande, Ore., for the treatment of the Liquor Habit. We have never failed to cure a person who has taken our treatment and we absolutely

GUARANTEE TO CURE YOU OR NO PAY

WE LET YOU BE YOUR OWN JUDGE as to whether you are cured or not.

Our treatment is perfectly harmless and does not injure the health in the least, but builds the patient up and makes him feel like a new man. Our treatment is highly endorsed by medical men and by all those that have taken the treatment and our best endorsement is by those we have cured of the liquor habit.

We treat you privately and confidentially, and no one need know you are being treated unless you wish to tell them yourself. Our charges are reasonable and we furnish you good rooms and board while with us and give you the best of care.

Any person who wishes to quit drinking and cannot do so can find relief with our treatment and if we fail to cure you to your own satisfaction it won't cost you a cent. Remember we Guarantee a cure or no pay.

How to Prevent Bilious Attacks.
"Coming events cast their shadows before." This is especially true of bilious attacks. Your appetite will fail, you will feel dull and languid. If you are subject to bilious attacks take three of Chamberlain's Tablets as soon as the symptoms appear and the attack may be warded off. For sale by all dealers.

President Wood Still Home.

"The Best Laxative I Know Of."

"I have sold Chamberlain's Tablets for several years. People who have used them will take nothing else. I can recommend them to my customers as the best laxative and sure for constipation that I know of," writes Frank Strouse, Fruitland, Iowa. For sale by all dealers.

The Limit.

Mary Jane's master is a slightly eccentric bachelor. He has one most irritating habit. Instead of telling her what he wants done by word of mouth he leaves on his desk or on the kitchen table or anywhere else where she is likely to see it a note curtly directing her to "Dust the dining room" or "Turn out my cupboard," and so on. The other day he bought some newspaper, with the usual die sunk address imprinted upon it, from the stationer and ordered it to be sent home. Mary Jane took it in, and the first thing that caught her eye was a note attached to the package. She read it open eyed.

"Well," she said, "he's asked me to do a few things in his blessed notes, but this is the limit. I won't stand it no longer!"

For the note read, "Die inside this package."—London Answers.

A President in Shirt Sleeves.

The Swiss president's unassuming status has given rise to many stories. Edmund d'Anvergne, visiting the government buildings at Bern, "noticed the word 'Bundespräsident' (president of the confederation) inscribed over an inconspicuous door. Just as you might see the word 'Cashier' or 'District Registrar.' I called to mind how an important English railway contractor once knocked at this door and was answered by a man in shirt sleeves, whom he took to be a clerk. It was the president himself." In Sir Horace Rumbold's time (the sixties) the story was that a diplomatist, calling at the president's private abode, was admitted by a lady with tucked up sleeves and soap sudsed arms—Mme. la Presidente straight from the wash-tub.—London Standard.

China's Peerless Iron Mine.

China's famous iron mine, the Tayeh, the foremost in the far east, is especially notable for the ease with which it is worked. It stands peerless in the world in this respect, excavation requiring no machine power. The work is done by hand by the Chinese coolies. The mine is reputed to be inexhaustible in its ore. In the days of the "three kingdoms" the locality formed a theater of bloody fighting, and the vicinity abounds in relics of that memorable period in Chinese history. It is about 3,630 Chinese miles from Peking overland and about 4,980 Chinese miles by water. Tayehhsien is traversed by ranges of hills and mountains, the valleys of which abound in innumerable lakes of all sizes, with water course facilities. Consequently the locality is rich in scenery of great beauty, and the Chinese poets from olden times have never tired of singing of the "eight views" of Tayeh. In the neighborhood of the Tayeh iron mine are found the ruins of ancient iron foundries, probably 1,000 years old. Millions of tons of slag lie in heaps.

Settled the Question.

In Regensburg, in the middle ages, the headsman died and three applicants presented themselves for the post. A test of their skill would settle the matter. Accordingly three criminals were brought forth for slaughter.

The first headsman made with his sword a tiny nick in the first criminal's neck. "I'll lop him off just there," he said, and, swinging his sword round with a great swishing sound, lo! he did as he had said he would.

The second headsman tied a string round his criminal's neck. "I'll cut off his head and bisect the string," he said. And he did as he had promised.

These two first headsmen now began to study and ponder the neck of the third criminal, asking what proof of skill the third headsman should undertake, when the latter with one vast and splendid sword sweep cut off all three heads, thus finishing the criminal and his rivals together and winning the headmanship of Regensburg amid the applause of all.

Harvard's First Building.

No man now living can describe as an eyewitness the crudities of Harvard's first building, where the ground floor was devoted to academic uses, religious and literary exercises and the purpose of refectory, kitchen and buttery, while above were students' quarters, mere cells of the rudest sort.

The building was far from weather proof, and more air than light was admitted by the windows, which were only partly glazed, oiled paper serving elsewhere to let in a few of the sun's rays and keep out the "coarsest of the cold." As Artemus Ward said when he hung an old hoopskirt over his chamber window at the country hostelry in midwinter.

Not even the most rudimentary of table equipment was supplied at the college eating room. His own knife and fork were carried by each student when he went to dinner, and after he had finished he wiped them on the tablecloth.—Dial.
