

PENDLETON'S FIVE COMING SOCIAL HYGIENE ORGANIZATION CREATED AND MEETING PLANNED

FANDOM HERE HOPES FOR TWO VICTORIES.

Round-Up Five Expects to Turn the Tables on Locals Friday.

Word comes from Pendleton that the high school quintet is coming to La Grande Friday night with perfect confidence of winning over La Grande. Last week the local highs got away with the game in good shape, but it was not until the last few minutes when endurance was put to the test, that the La Grangers were able to pull away from a very close margin. Pendleton has every confidence of being able to wipe out the defeat of a week ago, and the La Grande fans will see a snappy game. It is seldom that La Grande is able to vanquish Pendleton at basketball and fandom is here in high glee, but will be doubly so, of course, if the local quint can repeat the dose in the same season.

RETAILERS CONFIDENT

ELEVEN STATES REPRESENTED AT CONFERENCE.

President of Western White Pine Lumber Makers in Attendance.

Lumber retailers from 11 states recently assembled at Salt Lake to attend the annual convention of the Western Retailers' association, expect a healthy movement of lumber during the summer, reports George Stoddard, the local manufacturer, who attended the convention as president of the Western White Pine Manufacturers' association, to which position he has been recently re-elected. The tone of expressions heard were very favorable, coming as they do in the face of but little profitable movement in lumber at present date.

A Pennsylvania lumberman who owns a line of yards totaling 100, was in attendance at the meeting, and the convention was a tremendous success in every way.

Mr. Stoddard reports there will be some little delay in the opening of the Perry mill.

PIONEER WRITES BOOK

Rev. G. W. Kennedy, Formerly of This City, Becomes Author.

Depicting the early history of this country, telling of the mining days in Auburn gold camp in Baker country, vividly portraying the hardships and pleasures as well of frontier life, Rev. G. W. Kennedy, a former La Grande citizen has entered the field as an author and is in the city now visiting old friends and introducing his volume.

Rev. Kennedy has many friends here and is the guest of Judge and Mrs. J. C. Henry. He is a brother-in-law of George Small, one of the editors of the Baker Democrat.

Board Meeting Friday.

The La Grande school board will meet Friday evening in regular session. At this time it appears that only routine matters will come up for consideration.

A Winter Cough.

A stubborn, annoying, depressing cough hangs on, racks the body, weakens the lungs, and often leads to serious results. The first dose of Dr. King's New Discovery gives relief. Henry D. Sanders, of Cavendish, Vt., was threatened with consumption after having pneumonia. He writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery ought to be in every family; it is certainly the best of all medicines for coughs, cold, or lung trouble." Good for children's coughs. Money back if not satisfied. Price 50c. and $1.00. At all Drug-gists.

Social hygiene and sex problems will be discussed learnedly at a meeting of men only at the Commercial club Thursday, March 5. Earl J. Cummings, representing the Oregon Social Hygiene society, was in La Grande this morning, and has assisted in the organization of a local committee on arrangements. John Girdler, superintendent of schools; C. J. Black, Dr. M. K. Hall, F. L. Meyers, and Dr. H. C. Underwood, comprise the local committee and William Miller is chairman for the evening. Invitations will be sent out to the leading business and professional men of the city and it is expected that the attendance will be large. To make the meeting all the more important, two prominent men of the state are to take an active part. Calvin S. White, secretary of the society and Dr. Andrew C. Smith, a member of the society's executive board and a prominent physician of Portland, will tell of the society's investigation into sex problems, and of methods to combat the results. The program to be carried out and the message sent in conjunction with the invitations to be issued, follow:

A Call for Action

The Social Evil and the suffering resulting therefrom are subjects of much serious thought and earnest consideration on the part of many of our best citizens.

You are invited to a conference of leading men of La Grande called by the undersigned to consider this problem, which, in one or another aspect, touches the life of every home.

The Oregon Social Hygiene Society, recognized as one of the strongest in the country, is now ready to co-operate with us in starting an active and steady campaign of education in our community. There will be a place in the plan for every man in the community, who is legitimately and earnestly interested in the protection of our girls and boys.

It is a call for sane and constructive action.

Wm. Miller will preside. A comprehensive program has been prepared and the field will be well covered by two members of the State Board of Health from Portland, and local speakers.

and equipped through a course of training and natural ability to entertain crowds and do it remarkably well.

"From the Cradle to the Grave," picturing incidents in life from Shakespeare's Seven Ages, will likely be his theme tonight, though he has a variety of speeches, closing each with a set of brief readings.

Colds and Croup in Children.

Many people rely upon Chamberlain's Cough Remedy implicitly in cases of colds and croup, and it never disappoints them. Mrs. E. H. Thomas, Logansport, Ind., writes "I have found Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be the best medicine for colds and croup I have ever used, and never tire of recommending it to my neighbors and friends. I have always given it to my children when suffering from croup, and it has never failed to give them prompt relief." For sale by all dealers.

The King of All Laxatives.

For constipation, use Dr. King's New Life Pills. Paul Mathulka, of Buffalo, N. Y., says they are the "king of all laxatives. They are a blessing to all my family and I always keep a box at home." Get a box and get well again. Price 25c. At all drug-gists or by mail.

Got the Best of Carlyle.

The Rev. Thomas Alexander, a Presbyterian minister, long resident in Chelsea and well known as a brother Scot, was most anxious to know Carlyle, but had no opportunity of getting an introduction to him. One day in the King's road he saw Carlyle coming in his direction and took advantage of the opportunity by going up to the sage and saying, "Thomas Carlyle, I believe?" Carlyle's reply was, "Tom Alexander, I know!" They became good friends, and later Mr. Alexander wrote to Carlyle for a subscription toward a school building fund, and Carlyle wrote back a refusal in doggerel, whereupon Mr. Alexander replied that if he did not send him £5 he would sell his poetry to a collector or publish it. The £5 was at once forthcoming.

The artist was of the impressionist school. He had just given the last touches to a purple and blue canvas when his wife came into the studio. "My dear," said he, "this is the landscape I wanted you to suggest a title for." "Why not call it 'Home'?" she said after a long look. "Home? Why?" "Because there's no place like it," she replied meekly. Glasgow Times.

A Solemn Critic.

A local band was one day playing at Dumfermline when an old weaver came up and asked the bandmaster what that was they were playing. "That is the 'Death of Nelson,'" solemnly replied the bandmaster. "Ay, man," remarked the weaver, "ye ha'e given him an awful death!" Glasgow News.

The Chief Obstacle.

The French are not inclined to take things too seriously. Thus, while they love and respect the venerable French academy, they never refrain from making it the subject of a little good natured wit. Even the members themselves, as this entry in Victor Hugo's notebook will show, indulge themselves in occasional sallies against the famous institution.

On Dec. 17, 1846, Victor Hugo, himself one of the forty "immortal" members of the academy, wrote in his notebook "Today, Thursday, in the academy. I spoke there with Dupin the elder about Balzac and of his chances of election to the academy. 'Thunder!' Dupin interrupted me. 'So you really believe that, without any more to do. Balzac will be chosen the first time he comes up for election.'

"You quote examples where this has occurred, but those prove nothing. Think of it! Balzac, at the first presentation of his name! You have thought the matter over carefully? Good! But you have forgotten one reason why it is quite impossible that Balzac should be elected to the academy—he deserves it!"

A Maker of Cripples.

Dr. Charlton Wallace once investigated with great care 400 cases of hip joint disease—tuberculosis of the hip. He found that of this number 70 per cent came of tuberculous families or had lived in houses where there had been known cases of active tuberculosis within a year. In both cases the explanation was the same—exposure to infection. When the tubercle germ cannot murder a victim it does its best to cripple him. The only safeguard is to make sure personally that your house does not harbor this greatest of human enemies.—Chicago Journal.

Inappreciative Man.

"You say you occasionally smoke one of your wife's birthday cigars?" "Yes; I dug 'em up the other day, and they are a great help in my present situation." "What is that?" "I am trying to quit smoking for good."—Albany Knickerbocker Press.
