HUNTING LICENSES CAN BE OBTAINED IN VARIOUS CITIES

Arrangements are being made whereby hunting and fishing licenses can be obtained from persons other than the county clerk. Heretofore it has been necessary to go to the county clerk's office for the necessary papers, but the new arrangement will divide this business among eleven men, and persons living at a distance from the county seat will be able to get the little strip of paper from some deputy in their own locality.

Last Saturday a request for the necessary papers was sent to Salem and with the arrival of these papers the men whose names are appended will be authorized to issue the necessary licenses. The appointments were made by Deputy Game Warden W. E. Leffel. This will relieve the county clerk of an abundance of work during the busy spring season, and will be a great convenience for the men who wish to hunt and fish. The following are authorized to issue licenses:

For La Grande, C. D. Putnam, of Hill's drug store, and Bert Hughes, at the pool hall on Depot opposite the Sommer hotel; for Elgin, H. G. Masterson and J. W. Leighton; for Union, E. P. Mitchell and E. F. Reuter; for Cove, B. E. and L. E. Anderson; for Alicel, Hershel McKinnis; for North Powder, L. B. Russell; for Imbler, Jno. T. Witty.

Deputy Warden Leffel says the game preserves in Wallawa county have proven an entire success, owing principally to the favorable places in which the birds were placed for propagation. From 156 China pheasants placed in the preserve two years ago and 196 last year the warden estimates that at the very least 1500 birds have been raised. Only two birds were killed in the county of which he has any knowledge and the man against whom he had the evidence escaped to New York the day following the killing.

Mr. Leffel plans to make this county a mecca for valuable farm birds and will enlist the efforts of all farmers to this end. It is demonstrated that each bird consumes a certain amount of insects each year and the multiplication of these birds will mean the eradication of insects that have proven a nuisance to crops.

Some of the preserves in this county have not proven quite as successful as was anticipated, owing chiefly to the fact that the farms did not have the requisite underbrush for their protection. For this reason the birds did not remain on the farms on which they were liberated but wandered off into fields that were not within the preserve and met death at the hands of hunters who had no respect for the law.

BUILDING A TOWN TO ORDER.

Chicago Men Will Provide Modern Homes For Miners.

A new town is being established by two citizens of Chicago, mainly as a place of residence for the miners of a coal mining property recently placed in operation near the town site and a large electric power station. They represent the Peabody Coal company and the Central Illinois Public Service company.

While the purpose of the enterprise is commercial, it is being carried out on modern lines in regard to planning, public utilities, housing and sociological conditions. At the same time care has been taken to avoid mere beautification and to keep the practical purposes and limitations of the project strictly in mind. For this purpose frequent consultations were had with John Mitchell of the Miners' union.

This new town, which has been named Kincaid, is in the southwestern part of the state, about twenty miles south of Springfield, or 200 miles south of Chicago and 100 miles north of St. Louis. The distinct and interesting feature of this enterprise is the application of practical town planning ideas for an average population in a mining district.—Engineering News.

Utilizing Refuse.

In the French commune of Villeurbanne, adjacent to the city of Lyons, the city refuse is burned, and bricks are made from the residue. This has been a private enterprise, but the municipality has arranged for the purchase of the crematory. The crematory is a model plant, and annexed to it is a brick pressing plant. The furnace serves not only to burn the refuse but also to operate, by steam, the various machines in the factory.

A Scorpion.

"I took my first typescript—get that?—typescript to a manager who happens to be a friend of mine," said an aspiring dramatist. "I discovered that managers have an irreverent incredulity combined with a scorpion's sarcasm."

"You wrote a play?" he marveled. "Who told you to?"

"I wrote it on my own initiative," I answered stiffly. "Nobody would ever write a play if people wanted to be told."

"I would not do anything so difficult as write a play unless I was forced," declared the manager.

"It is easy, not difficult, to write a play," I argued. "It is as easy as falling off a log."

"He read the play and sent it back with a scrawl on the title page as follows:

"Compared with writing such a play as this it would be totally impossible to fall off a log."—New York Times.

Diagnosis by Electricity.

For the benefit of the nervous cases that come to the doctor it has been asserted that it is just as necessary to know how emotional they are as it is to know how high the temperature is in a case of fever. Moreover, in many cases, it is necessary to find out what experiences in the past or present life of the patient produce emotions. For this purpose the patient sits at ease with hands on the electrodes, which may be so concealed in the arms of his chair that he is unaware that the most intimate processes of his soul are being registered as various words are spoken or various topics of conversation are discussed. The galvanometer showing when a sensitive subject has been touched.—Harper's Magazine.

Fame of Tenedos.

Tenedos, which certain powers have taken away from Greece, has become well known by name from having the good luck to get mentioned in the first book of Homer's "Iliad" instead of the last, as well as in the beginning of Vergil's "Aeneid." Ever since Homer's day this fertile islet, lying at the entrance to the Dardanelles, has been considered of great strategic importance. During classical times the laws and civil institutions of Tenedos were celebrated for their wisdom and were discussed with approval in a lost treatise of Aristotle.

It Didn't Bite.

"Is this picture show one that it will be all right for my daughter to see?" asked the man who was next at the ticket window.

"Sure," replied the girl in the booth. "I saw it, and it ain't hurt me."—George Horner Herald.
