KING, THE ROAD DRAG MAN.

The coming of King, the road drag man, to La Grande and other points in Union County, is one of the very best things that could happen at this time when good roads are a subject of earnest discussion in most parts of the state.

The King road drag is the economical implement with which to make good highways. This part of Oregon is not thickly enough settled to entertain for a moment the hardsurface country highway. It is all and more than some cities can afford, to say nothing of the miles of road necessary in the valley.

Those who are advocates of hardsurface highways should not condemn the King road drag method before they know exactly what it will do, and the best way to learn about this is to attend the King lectures and see his demonstration of the work he is capable of doing with the little three concerned drag. And what Mr. King can do, any one can do. There is no patent devices or expensive parts of the King road drag. It is a practical little implement for everyone to use.

After all, to make a good road means to have good drainage, proper grading and to prevent holes from forming in the highways where moisture can collect.

The Grande Ronde valley can have first rate highways by using the drag, and it takes no bond issue, either.

SENTIMENT VERSUS REASON.

Governor Ammons of Colorado, in a fit of sentiment before the western governors said: "The cost of the average battleship if applied to irrigation would furnish homes for 4,000 people."

This sounds good. And the individual who chooses to let sentiment carry him off his feet will applaud the Colorado governor and urge the abolition of building battleships.

But what good would homes do if a stronger power were to attack this nation and find no navy here to defend those homes.

We have not reached that important point in history when there is world-wide peace. Were it so, then the governor's sensational and sentimental utterance would find favor.

At this present time with foreign powers in not the best humor it is well to build ships. No one wants trouble but at the same time every one hopes that this nation will not lessen her position in the strength of naval matters. We are none too strong at best.

The northwest will not have the Frisco fair tourists unless those tourists want to put up the extra cost of a ticket according to railroad and steamship men. After all, there is a good deal of equity and justice in their position on the matter.

Pendleton church people who neglected religious worship last Sunday in order to ride bucking ponies for the entertainment of a few Grand Opera stars are getting what they deserve—a good grilling from the preachers of that city.

Rheumatic Pains Relieved.

Why suffer from rheumatism when relief may be had at so small a cost? Mrs. Elmer Hatch, Peru, Ind., writes, "I have been subject to attacks of rheumatism for years. Chamberlain's Liniment always relieves me immediately, and I take pleasure in recommending it to others." 25 and 50 cent bottles. For sale by all dealers. Adv.

ONE MAN QUARTET PLEAS.

Mr. Dayton at Arcade a Wonder as a Vocalist.

The large crowds at the Arcade have clapped their hands earnestly at each performance of Mr. Dayton, the one man quartet, for his act is the first ever witnessed of the kind in La Grande. In a clear voice he carries all four parts of a quartet and rounded tones brings out the harmony so distinct that one would think there were three other voices behind the scenes. There are not, however, and he does the whole thing alone.

Mr. Dayton is off of the Pantages circuit for one week and after filling his engagement with Mr. Gardinier of the Arcade tomorrow night, will leave for Spokane, where he will open with the Pantages Sunday evening.
