PERRY FANS FORM CLUB

Perry, Ore., April 13.—(Special)—Baseball in Perry seems to be the interesting feature at the present time. The boys met Monday night and organized a team with Mr. A. Stoddard as manager. The players are going some practice work and will soon be in condition to start in the baseball field right. The team is composed of a number of old ball players of no inferior ability, and with some practice and good management Perry will boast of a baseball team that has had no equal in the little mill town for years. A practice game was played Sunday with a team from La Grande.

Bert Coalwell who was operated on a few weeks ago is now on the road to recovery and will soon be back to his post in the plaining mill again.

Mrs. F. Braden left Thursday morning for Spokane where she will visit relatives for several weeks.

The sawmill with Mr. C. F. Robertson and Frank Olsen as sawers is now turning out lumber with great rapidity. The plaining mill is running full blast and business is good.

Tonic of Outdoor Life.
Outdoor life, contact with the earth, the digging, the wheeling of a barrow, even the quiet contemplation of unfolding animal and plant life, are better tonics and restorers than any man has devised.

There was one gardener who did wonders for himself at the very prosaic task of digging holes. Through a period of three years he dug 400 holes for trees and shrubs. He was three times as strong, he asserted, at the expiration of that time than ever before, and he weighed twenty pounds more. The improvement in his attitude toward life was too great to estimate.

During all that time he had been working in the open air he had "found"—although this particular gardener was no poet, and didn't express it in just this fashion—"tongues in trees, books in the running brooks, sermons in stones and good in everything," including himself.—New York Post.

Didn't Watch His Watch.
In a subway crowd not long ago a New York man was "touched" for his watch. The watch was not intrinsically valuable, but the New York man wanted it back for sentimental reasons and inserted divers advertisements in the papers offering $50 for the return of the watch and "no questions asked."

The "dip" who had "lifted" the watch saw the advertisements and concluded to take the $50. He called on the New York man, handed him the timepiece and demanded the reward.

The owner of the watch was only too happy to give it to him. After examining the watch he returned it to his pocket and handed over five ten-dollar bills. The "dip" pocketed the money and departed. There was little said.

A few minutes later the New York man reached for his watch.

But it was gone.—New York Tribune.

Restfulness of Flowers.
Flowers in the home divert the mind and rest the weary eyes of the housewife and mother.

A bouquet in the sickroom aids in keeping the mind off the disease and often starts the brain on a new channel of thought that puts the patient on the road to recovery.

Flowers in the office or on the desk of the weary clerk or stenographer will produce such a telling effect that by actual comparison more work is accomplished by those whose eyes and brains are rested by the presence of those gifts from nature.

Artists visit the parks and gardens to study the flowers, and their orbs are wonderfully toned up by the refreshing glimpses of the colors in nature, and no artist has ever been successful who does not study colors in the beautiful flowers.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Bad Disease.
A well known railroad president once took occasion to visit a small southern town to enjoy the excellent fishing near by. He carefully concealed his identity and was consequently snubbed by a "leading citizen" with whom he attempted to strike up a conversation on the banks of the stream. When leaving he secured the services of an aged black to carry his things from the hotel to the depot. There the departing visitor caught sight of the man who had given him the cold shoulder. "Poor Smith!" he said, smiling amusedly. "Suffering from an aggravated attack of egotism." "Dit so?" said Uncle Silas in surprise, following his gaze. "He done lived heah more'n twenty yeas an' Ah nevah knowed afore dat he wuz allin'."—Argonaut.

The New Way.
Dorothy and Eleanor met one morning out at the country club. "Does Florence look any different since she and her husband have separated?" asked Dorothy. "Oh, yes," was the reply. "She wears her hair a la divorce." "Heavens!" exclaimed Dorothy. "How's that?" "Why," smiled Eleanor, "parted, of course."—Detroit Free Press.

Story Tellers and Liars.
A chap may be a great story teller when he's out at night with the crowd, but he's only a plain, ordinary, everyday liar, without any originality at that, when he gets home and begins to explain why he stayed out so late.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Outspoken.
Mrs. Garrulous—I was outspoken in my sentiments at the club this afternoon. Her Husband—I can't believe you. Who outspoken you, my dear?—London Mail.

Genial Man.
"Why don't you learn to dance?" "What's the use?" rejoined Mr. Groucher. "I can get tired without going to all that trouble."—Washington Star.

Good temper is like a sunny day. It sheds its brightness everywhere.—French Proverb.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Don't stay gray! Nobody can tell when you darken gray, faded hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and locks glossy, soft and abundant. Adv.
