

FAIR BOARD NAMES CHIEFS

C. M. SECOR IS SECRETARY TO SUCCEED HIMSELF.

Superintendents Of Various Departments Chosen By Directors.

Complete organization of the Union County Fair Association, even to the appointment of all superintendents, has been effected. C. M. Secor has been elected secretary to succeed himself, his commendable efforts last year prompting the directors to demand his retention in the face of his objection on account of private business. N. K. West has been given sole charge of arranging the racing card and of conducting the races.

The directors have also chosen all superintendents. Furthermore they have filled vacancies in the official list of officers and these are as follows:

Officers and Superintendents.

President, J. A. Russell; vice-president, N. K. West; treasurer, Doone Woodell; Fair commissioner, Albert Hunter, succeeding S. N. Bolton; secretary, C. M. Secor; finance committee, West, Hunter and W. R. Leadbetter. Superintendents—Horses, W. R. Leadbetter. Cattle: Albert Hunter. Sheep and swine: Tom Johnson of Cove. Poultry: L. M. Jensen of Imbler. Fruits: C. M. Riddle of May Park. Farm products, vegetables and dairy: Claude C. Cates. Domestic process, women's department, flowers and works of art: Mrs. E. Rosenbaum. Children's department: Mrs. Fred G. Schilke. Superintendent of racing: N. K. West.

COMMISSION FIXES GRADE

WHOLE STREETS, NOT PIECES, IN ONE ORDINANCE.

Codification of Ordinances Also Under Way—Assessments Fixed.

City improvements of streets, codification of the ordinance books and other matters for the welfare of the city took up the attention of the city commissioners last evening at its regular weekly meeting. The preliminary assessment on N avenue, which is the actual assessment, by the way, was put up for consideration and adopted. The cost for the five blocks of cement walk will be $1362 and remonstrances will be heard May 13. Hereafter the city will establish grades on an entire street at a time instead of by piecemeal. When the grade is desired on a portion of a certain street, the entire street grade will be set out in one ordinance instead of various ones as now. This work is slow however, one or two being passed each meeting night.

The matter of free water for the fair grounds came up and was laid on the table after debate. While nothing was done it is apparent that sympathies of the commission are for free water. The Y. M. C. A. was given free water for a year, it like the fair grounds, being maintained by public contributions entirely.

City manager Lafky is now working on the ordinance index. There are about 1000 ordinances with no tangible index.

the eastern and southern states. Mobilization of troops is likely to occur and the equipment must be on the spot.

FOR THE CHILDREN

My Aunt's Garden.

The children sit in a circle, and one, usually the oldest of the group, is chosen speaker. The speaker begins by saying: "I come from my aunt's garden. In my aunt's garden are four corners."

Each player in turn must repeat the same sentences, not omitting or changing a word. If a mistake is made the child making it is placed in the center of the circle to be disposed of later, and the person next to him goes on with the game. After each has had his or her trial at repeating after the speaker the latter again has the floor.

"I come from my aunt's garden. In my aunt's garden are four corners. In each corner grow a rose and a lilac bush."

Again the members of the company in turn repeat the words of the speaker, and those making mistake are placed with the first culprits inside the circle, sitting cross legged on the floor. Again the speaker takes up the thread of the game.

"I come from my aunt's garden. In my aunt's garden there are four corners. In each corner grow a rose and a lilac bush. And three bees gather honey from the rose. And a worm eats at the lilac blossoms."

Again the process of repeating after the speaker is gone through, and the same continues as before, the speaker using her or his own judgment as to just how long to make the story of the 'aunt's garden.' At the close of that part of the game the culprits in the center of the circle are made to pay some fun making forfeits.

A Fighting Pair.

Dogs fight; you all know that. But did you ever hear of scissors being quarrelsome? Here is a fable called "The Cross Scissors."

"Why must we always keep together, fastened up tight by that tiresome screw?" So cried one of the two sides of a pair of scissors.

"How much more work we could do apart! Each of us has a sharp point, each has a round ring at the end to hold the finger or thumb, and each has an edge for cutting. We don't care to keep together; we don't choose to keep together. If we can get rid of that screw we'll be as wide apart as we can!"

So the two points of the scissors were stuck out on each side as wide as they could go, and so were the two round rings, till they looked as cross as could be. But the silly pair of scissors soon found out what a great mistake had been made. Some silk was placed between the two points, which it was their duty to divide, but it was very clear that no cutting could be done while they remained apart.

"After all, I can't get on without you," said the right side to the left.

"Let us kiss and be friends," said the left side to the right.

So the two rings touched, and the two tips kissed, and the silk was divided with ease.

Tools of the Ancients.

Of the materials used by the ancients in making tools nothing is known, nor are the methods employed by them known, but we do know that their tools for stone work were equal to anything in use by us.

They used both solid and tubular drills and straight and circular saws. The drills were set with jewels, probably corundum, and even lathe tools had such cutting edges. So remarkable was the quality of the tubular drills, it is said, and the skill of the workmen that the cutting marks in the hard granite give no indication of the wear of the tool, while a cut of a tenth part of an inch was made in the hardest rock at each revolution, and a hole through both the hardest and softest material was bored perfectly smooth and uniform throughout.

Lynch Law.

Very often when a crowd has taken the administration of justice into its own hands you will hear mention of the lynch law.

The name "Lynch" was that of a United States planter of the eighteenth century who undertook on his own account to support the government of his region and protect society, according to his way of thinking, by punishing with stripes or banishment all lawless persons.

Today the term lynch law is used to describe all means by which a crowd wreaks its vengeance against a prisoner without the presence of judge, counsel and witnesses.

PORTLAND PRISONERS TAKEN.

Official From Metropolis Takes Charge of Italian Couple.

Deputy Constable James McCullough, of Portland, left last night with the Italian, Joe Druzi and Mary Abruzzes, for Portland where they will have a preliminary hearing on the charge of adultery.

When caught Tuesday morning just as they were about to board the Elgin branch train for Howard Creek where Druzi was working Joe Druzi declared he had written to another woman at Portland but that the letter had fallen into the hands of Marie Abruzzes and that she came in the place of the one to whom he had written. Both were taken to the county jail and held here until the arrival of the officers from Portland. Mary Abruzzes is said to be the wife of another.

The arrest was made through information phoned to this city by the sheriff's office of Portland.
