EXPERIMENT IN HOG FEED

C. C. CATE GIVES INTERESTING ACCOUNT OF STATION.

Dry Farming Versus Dry Feeding With Alfalfa.

Facts relative to an experiment with hogs at the Union experiment station are given by C. C. Cate local farming expert, which will throw some interesting light on a much mooted question, as to whether much grain feed is best for growing hogs. According to this experiment, Mr. Cate had the following to say: "Nine hogs were put into one pen and were fed on dry feed and allowed to eat as much as they chose to eat. Nine other hogs were weighed in and placed in another pen beside the first, but with an opening so that they could have access to alfalfa at all times.

"After a period of five weeks, the hogs were weighed. The hogs that had had both dry feed in unlimited quantities and were allowed to graze on grass weighed 187 pounds each, while those that had gotten only dry feed weighed but 148 pounds. This ought to be convincing to any one raising hogs that with grass they will do much better than when fed on dry feed alone. Similar experiments will be carried on from time to time in the same manner, to show which method is the most profitable for this section, as not all methods of feeding will result the same for any given locality."

He also states that his work in fighting blight has been most successful, that many orchards have been cleaned out altogether and that those which have not yet been inspected will come under his official notice and be cleaned out or grubbed out.

His report on the fruit situation is somewhat encouraging, inasmuch as he gets over a great portion of the valley and has ample opportunity to inspect fruit in every section of the valley. A detailed report of his work for a period of several months will appear in an early issue of this paper.

Chamberlain's Liniment.

This preparation is intended especially for rheumatism, lame back, sprains and like ailments. It is a favorite with people who are well acquainted with its splendid qualities. Mrs. Charles Tanner, Wabash, Ind., says of it, "I have found Chamberlain's Liniment the best thing for lame back and sprains I have ever used. It works like a charm and relieves pain and soreness. It has been used by others of my family as well as myself for upwards of twenty years." 25 and 50 cent bottles. All Dealers.
