A news item in the Observer yesterday stating that Wm. Grandy and Wm. Sailing had become bondsmen for the appearance of Alice Moore, charged with assault with intent to kill, was incorrect, owing to wrong information given out officially. Mr. Grandy was surprised to see his name connected with the matter as he had no knowledge of the case whatever. The Observer gladly corrects yesterday's report of the matter and states that Alice Moore was released on a surety bond and that Mr. Grandy was in no manner connected with her release. The same is true of Mr. Sailing.

I am in a position to offer acreage for sale and build a house on it for the purchaser at the same rate he would pay for monthly rental. The great difference between renting and the plan I offer is that, after a specified time according to the rental plan the landlord still owns the house and all of the money the renter has paid in as rent is money in the pocket of the landlord. My plan is the same as the monthly rental plan as far as payments are concerned, but with this all important difference,—after a specified time the property is yours. When you own the property you are worth as much as the property represents. If you rent continuously, you are no richer after ten years than you were on the first day you started to rent. My plan is easy and economical and should appeal to any young man intending to make La Grande his home.—J. A. Russel. 5-20-4t.
