SUMMER TRAIN STARTS SOON

SUNDAY SCHEDULE TO BEGIN
ABOUT JUNE 1.

Week-day Train Schedule Said to Be Undergoing Changes.

About the first of June the Summer Sunday schedule will become effective on the Joseph branch. The plan as proposed by both the travelers and the local officials call for leaving here at 7 o'clock Sunday mornings, returning about 8 or 8:30 p. m. This is the custom followed each summer and gives opportunities for local fishermen to spend much of the day on the streams down the river and up the Wallowa, and in fact gives time enough to get to the head of the lake for a few hours.

Proposed Changes Unpopular.

It is rumored that Portland officials are contemplating a change on the week-day schedule. It is said that the proposed changes call for a 9 o'clock leaving time instead of 7:30. However, traveling men and the people of Wallowa county and the north end not in harmony with the plan. It is said such a plan would not help anyone, but would be detrimental generally.

Train Numbers Unchanged.

While the Short line has already carried out the rumored changes in No. 9 and No. 5, whereby the night passenger train knows as 5, was to become No. 9, and the mail train, now 9 was to become 5, the O.-W. has not actually gone over to the new plan. It appears that the new time table has not been finally determined upon and really these two trains change numbers at Huntington for the time being. The plan was announced by the passenger department three weeks ago but the operating department has not yet adopted the change.

Resolutions of Sympathy.

Whereas: The Heavenly Father in His infinite wisdom has seen fit to remove from our midst our beloved brother, Charles E. Golden, and in view of the loss we have sustained and of the still greater loss to those nearest and dearest to, therefore be it resolved; That it is just tribute to the memory of the departed to say we mourn for one who is in every way worthy of our respect and friendship.

Resolved that we the members of Medical Springs Grange No. 427 extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family in their sorrow, and commend them to Him who doeth all things well. Resolved that a copy of these resolutions be published in the local paper, a copy be transmitted to the bereaved family and a copy be spread upon the records of our society.

There's No Corn That "GETS-IT" Won't Get

No More Fussing, Plasters, Salves and Corn Pains. Try the New Way.

"Just look at the way that corn comes off!" That's what you'll say when you try wonderful "GETS-IT" on that corn you've tried so long to pry off of your toe. It's easy to apply "GETS-IT"—one, two, three, and it's done! The corn begins to shrivel, away she goes, surely, absolutely. A few drops will do it. "GETS-IT" never makes toes red and raw. Corn pains go! It means the end of cutting and gouging of corns, the end of sticky plasters that don't work anyhow, the end of salves that eat up your toes, no more "harness" or fussing. Try "GETS-IT," the new, sure way, for corns and calluses. "GETS-IT" is sold by all druggists, 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Adv.

Madam, For Those Corns That Make You Jump Out of Your Shoes, Try Wonderful "GETS-IT."

SAFE FROM GERMS.

It Was Easy For the Pullman Porter to Convince the Doctors.

A party of physicians were on their way to a medical convention, and they had gathered in the buffet car to discuss professional matters. The talk had begun with proper cleanliness in bandaging. It had progressed to that point where sneezing was condemned for the germs it disseminated, when the engine whistled to announce an approaching station. The porter entered. He waved his whisk broom.

"Bresh you off, huh?" he asked of one of the doctors. The doctor turned on him.

"Just exactly what I've been contemplating," he said heatedly. "There's one of the finest little systems of spreading germs that ever was invented. This porter comes in here and he brushes me off; then he brushes you and you and you, and every one else, and starts a lot of germs flying round in the air to be breathed in and start disease. I say that germs ought not to be disturbed in public. It's dangerous. They ought to be let alone—not thrown up into the air by all this brushing!"

There was a moment of silence. The porter grinned foolishly. He stood first on one foot, then on the other. He grinned again, then waved his brush.

"Come on, doctor," he begged; "come on and let me bresh you off! Pshaw! Don't let that idea about microbes bother you any! What little breshin' I'm going to do ain't going to disturb no germs. No, huh?"—Youth's Companion.

IVORY NUT TREES.

How the Fruit Changes From a Liquid to a Solid Substance.

Once considered useless, the ivory nut has become an important product and now adds considerably to Ecuador's export trade. Something like 20,000 tons are shipped from that country each year, worth about $1,700,000, while Colombia and Panama are both increasing their output.

The tree is a stunted palm fern with a short thick trunk which grows slowly to a height of ten to twenty feet, marked by spiral lines or scars left by fallen leaves and fruit stems. The leaves resemble large gorgeous green feathers and are like those of the coconut palm, while the blossoms are of pure white and very fragrant. The seeds or kernels resulting from these are first in the form of sacks of sweet, refreshing liquid that changes into a soft, delicious, edible pulp and finally becomes the hard nut of commerce. The nuts mature very slowly, requiring from blossom to ripeness fully a year. The gathering of green or unripe tagua nuts is prohibited by law in Ecuador.

Hundreds of natives, called taguaros, make a business of gathering these nuts from the wild trees of the interior of Ecuador, collect them on rafts and float them down the rivers to Esmeraldas or other Pacific ports, where they are sold in open markets to the exporters.—Argonaut.

Boiling It Down.

They had been married just one year. That was why he risked losing his train by allowing her to fasten a bunch of violets on to his coat. But his foot tapped the floor impatiently, nevertheless, and he frowned as he wondered if his wife's kindly thought would cost him his cozy corner seat. "George," said his wife tremulously, "you don't love me as you used to!" "My darling heart of hearts," he exclaimed, desperately eyeing the clock, "what makes you say that?" "Because, George," she answered, "when we were first married it used to take you a whole hour just to say goodbye, and now—" tears interrupted her words and ran down her cheeks—"you can kiss me and catch your train all in four minutes!"

He Took No Chances.

A physician known for his coolness and skill in surgery went to a dentist to have a tooth extracted and other work done on his molars.

"Will it be painful?" asked the physician quakingly.

"It'll be just as painless as one of your surgical operations," the dentist replied encouragingly.

Grabbing up his hat hurriedly, the physician remarked as he started toward the door: "I forgot I had an engagement in my office for this hour. I'll see you later, doc."—Indianapolis News.
