La Grande won over Union yesterday afternoon on the local playgrounds, 10-7, in a game that carried with it all the intense interest and all the 57 varieties of the national outdoor pastime. Slate and the veteran McMillan were pitted against each other for eight innings, McMillan giving way to Miers in next to the last canto. Both men pitched good baseball, but Slate was tight throughout and at no time did he bring anything on himself deserving defeat, while McMillan on the other hand did contribute to his own downfall. Lewin, a college youth just breaking into the semi-pro game, got off with an awful start and put McMillan in the hole. Lewin tightened and played better ball as the game went on. Slate's performance was indeed great. He fielded seven bingles perfectly, got a out and twice started rallies that put plenty of white space between the two teams.

Outside of Slate's performance at fielding and pitching—his pitching baffled, for he has a good mixture, a change of pace and good control—the next item of special mention must be Mulvehill. The old-time back-stop made five trips up to the plate and four times he hit husky, grass burning bingles, one for extra bases. There was nothing puny about his swats either.

O'Brien drove out a single in the first inning that lost itself in field grass and he pranced home, but he pranced too far from second and was called out. Not until the third, did Union score. In that inning O'Brien had walked and Slate got bingled by Mulvehill, Nodine and Caldwell, and Miers and Skiff banged into fielders' choice plays. Coupled with an infield boot the visitors scored three. They repeated in the next chapter. Davis went out, Oliver to McInnis, but O'Brien, Mulvehill, Nodine singled, and Oliver threw high on Mier's drive. Mulvehill's hit had scored O'Brien and Nodine brought Mulvehill and Miers over the pan. La Grande and Slate tightened and stopped the run business by striking out Caldwell and getting Lewin at first. Davis singled in the next mning, was sacrificed by O'Brien, scored on Mulvehill's fourth and last hit. Although henten, the Union Horse Show smile spread itself on the visiting delegation.

La Grande opened with two in the first when Lewin's boots and Oliver's hard hit did the business. In the fourth McMillan was touched by Humphrey, Galbreith, Pidcock, McInnis. In addition there was an infield boot and a sacrifice, all counting for four. Not until the 6th did the Clubbers score again, taking advantage of McMillan's wildness for two walks and Pidcock's drive. Speed Humphrey, Galbreith and Oliver each hit into fielder's choice, poor brain work on O'Brien's part letting in two of

UNION SETS FRIDAY OF THIS WEEK AS LA GRANDE DAY

FORMAL INVITATION GIVEN

The Union Live Stock Show Association has designated Friday, June 5th as La Grande day. The Association extends an invitation to the good people of La Grande to attend the "big show" on that day, and any information you can give us relative to number of people or automobiles to help us arrange for accommodations will be appreciated by the Associations.

Yours very truly,
WILL H. VOGEL,
Chairman Publicity Committee.
