WOMEN ENJOY BREAKFAST.

was toast mistress and she introduced each speaker with words that kept the spirit and general scheme of things moving admirably.

Mrs. Vincent Palmer was the speaker who handled the magazine "Review of Reviews." She did not mention that well-known magazine however in the role of a reviewer, but rather "reviewed" with a brief resume, general conditions of club life and club activities. "Life" that exponent of fun and frivolity, was the magazine assigned to Mrs. C. H. Bidwell, of Island City. But wit and fun did not monopolize the toast. Service, as related to mankind, to the artist, to the young girl, to the club woman and to woman's clubs, was, briefly stated, the keynote of her toast.

Mrs. A. L. Richardson rendered a beautiful vocal number, singing Leoncavallo's "Matutina" ("Tis the day.)

"The Independent" was Mrs. A. E.

Ivanhoe's magazine and she lived up to her reputation of versatility by not touching upon politics which those on the "inside" of the program had rather expected she would. On the contrary she spoke on the accepted and the real meaning of independence, saying the perfect independence is not attained by any but strived after by all.

Mrs. George T. Cochran handled "The Outlook". This magazine's title supplied a vehicle for Mrs. Cochran to horoscope the club's future—its outlook—setting forth in glowing terms that the future is indeed bright.

Mrs. A. T. Hill carried out "The Woman's Home Companion" toast by applying the title to husbands. Her toast was dedicated to the husbands and in both a humorous and a sober vein she carried out the metaphor in a pleasing meaning.

Mrs. Merton Kiddle of Island City, beautifully sang "I Hear You Calling", by Chas. Marshall.

Mrs. H. S. Cavana, generally considered the true founder of The Neighborhood club, was unable to be present but forwarded a paper from Seattle on "The Post" which was read with much gratification to the breakfasters.

Mrs. Cavana's paper was read by Mrs. George Carpy. In the letter she inclosed a likeness of herself, and her letter referred often and affectionately to "her children" for she, in turn, is termed the "mother." "The splendid increase in membership and the ramification of its activities and its work, thrills me" said the writer who admits the club has outreached her most sanguine expectations for it.

Short Stories Told.

With rigid enforcement of the one-minute time limit, a half score of ladies told short stories. Those who responded were: Mrs. W. B. Logan, Mrs. Turner Oliver, Mrs. J. T. Williamson, Mrs. Ed Kiddle, Mrs. O. E. Silverthorn, Mrs. Fred King, Miss Anson and Mrs. E. E. Bragg.

The finale, fitting and appropriate, was a rousing rendition of the club song. Every guest sang right lustily the following words, using the tune of "Flow Gently, Sweet Afton:" All hail to the members of this loyal band,

For uplift and progress forever we stand;

Repressing the wrong and advancing the right,

Dispelling the darkness and bringing the light.

To those who are absent our greetings we send;

May peace and contentment your footsteps attend;

To those who are sleeping their last quiet sleep,

Enshrined in our fond hearts your memory we keep.

Grace, wisdom and strength for the future we ask,

May our hands be uplifted in each worthy task;

May our souls be attuned to the needs of the world,

Our banner of helpfulness ever unfurled,

Though Time's silver frost on our hair may be found,

May the blossoms of youth in our hearts still abound.

Now we pledge in a song that rings out o'er the lea,

Dear Neighborhood Club, our devotion to thee.
