

POPULAR LECTURER OF HIGH RANK TO LECTURE IN JULY

Charles H. Plattenburg, popular lecturer who is coming to the Grande Ronde chautauqua, July 3-12. Upon this man the directors of the chautauqua hinge a great deal of faith, for his rank as a popular lecturer is high, indeed, as every well-read man knows.

Boy Fools Sheriff.

"But the boy came back, for he couldn't stay away," may be said in a paradoxical vein of the peculiar performance of Everett Cole of Wallowa county who was taken to the Portland Boys and Girls Aid Society home for delinquency. The story is not yet told for he came back on a train ahead of the one which brought Sheriff Marvin who took him to the home. The boy arrived Monday night about midnight on a freight train, and the sheriff, thinking his work well done, arrived Tuesday morning on No. 10, only to find that the local police had already taken the boy in custody. The father phoned from Wallowa county and the boy has been sent home, with promises to be good and remain so.

Only One Entirely Satisfactory.

"I have tried various colic and diarrhoea remedies, but the only one that has given me entire satisfaction and cured me when I was afflicted is Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I recommend it to my friends at all times," writes S. N. Galloway, Stewart, S. C. for sale by all dealers.

Card of Thanks.

We the undersigned wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to those who so kindly assisted us during the illness and burial of our beloved wife and mother, and especially Mrs. Chas. Payne, the Royal Sisters of the Christian church and members of the Young Ladies Class for their beautiful floral offerings.

NATIVE INNS IN JAPAN.

Where You Shed Your Shoes Before Going to Your Room.

The entrance to native inns in Japan is most always a roofed vestibule with a well trodden earthen floor backed by a raised platform about twenty inches high, forming at once a seat and the outer extension of the first floor.

A scattered line of shoes, sandals and gets belonging to the guests usually lie along it, and at one side is a cupboard where umbrellas and footgear are deposited. A big drop octagon clock on the wall, a low desk, a hibachi and a pile of cushions generally complete the office equipment.

The traveler's flunkie customarily deposits him in the vestibule, at the edge of the platform, beneath the overhang of the roof. Shouts of "O Kyaku san" (honorable visitor) apprise the master and the maids that a guest is arriving and all hurry forward to receive him, uttering cries of welcome and bowing glossy black heads to the floor.

As the traveler sits on the platform a servant removes his shoes and others divest him of his wraps. Shoes are seldom cleaned, and if they be wet or muddy they are left untouched. Habitual frequenters of inns often provide themselves with foot coverings to slip over shoes and thus be able to wear them to the apartment. Without them one must don the heelless slippers furnished or go to one's room unshod.—Kansas City Times.

TWO HUSBANDS.

A Humorous View of the English and American Business Brands.

In the American Magazine James Montgomery Flagg writes humorously about husbands. Following is an extract from what he has to say about the American business husband:

"This animal is very popular and justly so. He comes in a variety of colors, white, tan, deep red, mottled, brown, and sometimes green. The white variety is generally desired. There is no animal known that will take the amount of abuse and neglect that this one does, and still be devoted and affectionate. Hence his popularity. They are limited in intelligence, their one thought being the collecting of money. They will thrive on almost anything—scraps at the table, a few hot words or anything lying around the room that comes handy."

Of the English husband he says: "The march of the centuries has made no change in this sturdy animal. Their love of hunting and killing is perhaps their most endearing quality. They will never distress you by coming home bleeding or mangled as they do not attack animals of their own size. They will eat anything except real food properly cooked. This is technically known as patriotism. Fanatics in England claim preposterous human qualities for them, but this may be laid down to native enthusiasm. Applications of arnica are excellent for bruises."

A Cup of Coffee.

As a matter of fact, the secret of good after dinner coffee is merely strength—say a tablespoonful to each cup. The true test of coffee making is not after dinner coffee, but the matutinal pot. The French, as a rule, make execrable cafe au lait, not to mention their perverted taste for the bitterness imparted by chicory. The best coffee I've found (and I make it every morning myself) is in Germany, Austria, the United States and the South American republics. The secret of it lies neither in boiling nor percolation (which is the better method never can be settled), but in using lots of coffee. The average English cook expects a tablespoonful of ground coffee to produce as much liquid as the same quantity of tea.—Brazilian in London Opinion.

"Full Many a Flower."

Aunt Lindy had brought around her three grandchildren for her mistress to see. The three little darlings, in calico smocks, stood squirming in line while Lindy proudly surveyed them. "What are their names, Lindy?" her mistress asked.

"Dey's name after flowers, ma'am. Ah name 'em. De biggest one's name Gladiola. De nex' one, she name Heliotrope."

"Those are very pretty," her mistress said. "What is the littlest one named?"

"She name Artificial, ma'am."—New York Post.

And to Spare.

"Mrs. Alden has five children. If there were seven more, how many children would Mrs. Alden have?" Several hands were raised.

"Anna may tell us," said teacher. "How many children would she have, Anna?"

"Enough."—New York Post.

A New Back for an Old One—How a La Grande Resident Made a Bad Back Strong.

The back aches at times with a dull indescribable feeling, making you weary and restless; piercing pains shoot across the region of the kidney, and again the loins are so lame that to stoop is agony. No use to rub or apply a plaster to the back if the kidneys are weak. You cannot reach the cause. Follow the example of this La Grande citizen.

Mrs. Ella Lyman, 1307 Madison ave., La Grande, Ore., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills several times for back and kidney trouble with the best results. I have also noticed their good effect in another case of kidney weakness in my family. We have never found anything else that acted as quickly and thoroughly on the kidneys as Doan's Kidney Pills. I believe they are the best kidney medicine to be had."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Lyman had. O'Fester-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.
