SMALL CROWD HEARS TREAT

LOCAL TALENT PRESENTS FINE MUSICALS.

Paraphrase to popular Air Makes Hit With the Audience.

Before an audience that was somewhat disappointing in numbers last night for the Junior Y. M. C. A. concert, La Grande's vocal talent as well as its instrumentalists garnered glory in renditions that called forth many hearty encores.

The opening numbers by the orchestra were perhaps as good as people of this city have ever heard, which means of course that it was par excellence. Miss Gaskill's rendition of MacDowell's Scotch Poem was particularly good, not only from a standpoint of masterly playing, but for the choice of the piece for this occasion. Mrs. A. L. Richardson sang the difficult Recitative and Polonaise from Mignon with the technique and finish of an artist and came back with a lighter number that was also very pleasing.

Mrs. F. R. Bridges surprised some of the audience, with her reading of one of Kipling's famous poems. Perfectly as ease with our poems. Perfectly as ease with our poems. Perfectly as ease with our poems.

When you build Y. M. C. A. The program in detail as carried out, follows:

suit the occasion to the tune of Good Old U. S. A. The quartett rehearsed it and came out and performed as if the organization had been doing it for decades.

Both the quintett number and the quartett were especially good. Needless to say that the new lyric, particularly the last stanza, showing how by a strange coincidence most of the big boosters for the Y. M. C. A. are "George's doing it," took especially well.

The orchestra closed an altogether creditable performance with an instrumental selection entitled Thunder Cloud, under the direction of Professor J. D. Haines, whose work speaks for itself.

The concluding stanzas of the paraphrase of "Good Old U. S. A.," read:

We've got the men behind it Who will surely put it through Johnny Williamson will get there, Underwood's a sure shot too. We'll bet on Harry Grady, Billy Casey every day, And there's old Mac Wood, who will sure make good For the big Y. M. C. A.

Chorus.
The Board has strength in Georgie Palmer,
Georgie Stoddard he's there too,
Georgie Currey, he's the live wire That will help to put it through. We'll all bank on Georgie Cochran, And Georgie Gilbert every day, There'll be nothing to it, if you'll "let Georgie do it".

"THE SECRET OF THE WELL"

Story Opening in France Told in Moving Pictures.

Tonight and tomorrow at the Arcade the "Secret of the Well" goes on the screen. It is a story that opens in France with a mystifying murder. A nephew of the murdered man swears he will run down the criminal. In the scenes that follow Mlle. Schage of the Paris Opera company does the famous Hindoo dance. A wild chase follows up the river which carries with it a gun fight. The want of money was never better illustrated than in this drama of jealousy, greed and adventure. Burglary is committed and a boat capsizes in the river making perilous scenes throughout. A great picture in every sense. Tonight and tomorrow at the Arcade.

The Four Kings of Melody continue to attract and hold large audiences. This is the high priced vaudeville of La Grande's moving picture history. Be sure and hear the Kings. —Adv. 6-12-14.

Medical Student Returns.

George Vehrs is home from Philadelphia where he has been attending the Philadelphia Medical school the past year. He will spend his vacation with relatives and friends in La Grande.

FOR THE CHILDREN

The Penguin a Queer Bird.

Penguins, the slowest and most ungainly of birds when out of water are transformed as soon as they enter it. They do not launch themselves upon its surface like other water fowl, but instantly plunge beneath it, where they appear at once as swift and brilliant creatures, headed with globules of silver, where the air clings to the short, close, thick feathers that are almost like scales, as they fly through the clear and waveless depths with arrowy speed. The rapid and steady strokes of their wings are exactly similar to those of a bird flying through the air while their feet float straight out level with their body, and are unused either for propulsion or as a rudder. The twists and turns necessary to follow the active little fish are made wholly by the strokes of one wing while the other is held motionless. The fish are chased, caught and swallowed without any slackening of speed. Occasionally the head and shoulders show for a moment above the surface in pursuit of fish, but any attempt to remain on the surface leads to ludicrous splashing and confusion, for the submarine bird cannot float, it can only fly below the surface.

How Animals Rest.

Elephants sleep standing up. When in a herd a certain number will always stand guard while the others sleep, for the big, powerful beasts are timid and cautious at night and will not go to sleep unprotected.

Bats sleep head downward, hanging by their hind claws.

Birds, with very few exceptions sleep with their heads turned tailward over the back and the beak thrust beneath the wing.

Storks, gulls and other long legged birds sleep standing on one leg.

Ducks sleep on open water. To avoid drifting ashore they keep paddling with one foot, thus making them move in a circle.

Foxes and wolves sleep curled up, their noses and the soles of their feet close together and blanketed by their bushy tails.

Lions, tigers and other members of the cat family stretch themselves out flat on one side. Their muscles twitch and throb, indicating that they are light and restless sleepers.

Riddles.

Why can a watchmaker never make a fortune? Because his goods always go on tick.

Why is a coachman like a lover? Because he always desires to be remembered by his fare (fair).

Why is a cannary like a collier? Because he is caged up all day and has to peck for his living.

Why is a water lily like a whale? Because it comes to the surface to blow.

How would you express in one word having encountered a doctor of medicine? Met-a-physician.

Why is a person who never lays a wager as bad as a regular gambler? Because he is no better.

Why is a vine like a soldier? Because it is listed and trained, has ten drills and then shoots.

What key in music will make a good officer? A sharp major.

What bridge creates the most anxiety? A suspension bridge.

An Odd Playmate.

During the past winter a White Wyandotte rooster owned by Ralph and Glenwood Moody of Skowhegan, Me., has taken in the pleasures of winter life by each day coasting downhill on a sled with the boys. He has shown a somewhat selfish disposition by staying on the sled and having the boys haul him back up the hill. This rooster is an orphan, having been the only appreciable result of a setting of eggs. He has always been a pet, and when the boys would go to a neighbor's, though some distance, the rooster sat on the sled and was hauled to and fro.—American Cultivator.

Scouts as Tree Wardens.

Chief Ball of the Philadelphia bureau of city property has enlisted the boy scouts to act as "tree wardens" in protecting the trees in city squares. And the boys have entered into the movement with enthusiasm. The "tree warden" squads are under the direction of the city forester. As a mark of proficiency in the work the boys will be presented with bronze buttons upon enlistment in the cause, to be substituted for a silver button as they gain efficiency in the work, and finally by a gold plated silver button as they attain higher grade.

The Six Follies.

The six follies of science are the squaring of the circle, perpetual motion, the philosopher's stone, the elixir of life, magic and astrology. Bacon, Newton and Boyle are among those who sought the philosopher's stone in vain, and many other brilliant men have tried without avail to perpetuate the other mysteries.

A Mouse Tale.

A little mouse with a short, fuzzy tail met a fairy child one day. "You cunning thing," said the fairy, "Please won't you come and play?" Mouse was scared and ran away. The fairy in hot pursuit. He caught mouse's tail and held tight. Mouse with a fright was miffed.

DAMAGE TO BROODING HOUSE.

Lamp Explodes and Equipment is Endangered—Ducks Burned.

Fire partially destroyed the chicken brooding house of Adolph Newlin this afternoon when a warming lamp in that department exploded and set fire to the building. The incubators were removed from the building and other furniture and equipment was also removed. No chickens were lost, but about a dozen young ducks succumbed in the flames. The department made a quick run of a mile and a half in about five minutes and connected with the fire plug on the end of Fourth street on B Avenue. The building will be repaired immediately.

REPEAL BILL PASSES HOUSE.

Amendment by Senate is Accepted and Bill Goes to President.

Washington, June 12.—Congress has taken the final step in repealing the exemption clause in the Panama Canal Tolls act. The House of Representatives this afternoon, by a vote of 216 to 71 adopted the amendment to the repeal bill. The measure was immediately sent to the President for signature. The bill passed the Senate last night.

Robert Young Dies.

Robert Young, an aged resident of Hilgard, died at his home this morning at 7 a. m. The funeral will take place Sunday at 1:00 p. m. from the undertakings parlors of Henry & Carr.
