

PIONEERS TO MEET AT IMBLER

MEN WHO ENTERED VALLEY EARLY WILL FROLIC.

Imbler People Preparing a Pleasant Day for Visitors.

According to Dunham Wright, the "original" pioneer of Union county, the man who came to Oregon on a steam train is a pioneer. His contention is that a pioneer came before the railroads, and that contention goes unchallenged. But the fact that you came after the railroad was built does not bar you from attendance at the Pioneer Meeting to be held at Union next Saturday. Go and hear the old "boys and girls" tell of their experiences. It is one of the most interesting days of the year in Union county.

The people of Imbler are preparing to entertain the visitors in a royal manner. Following is the program: 10 a. m.—Music by the band. Song—"America" by all present. Invocation—Rev. Earl Maxey. Address of Welcome—Mayor Witt.

Selection—Cove quartet. Vocal Solo—Ruth Gaskill. Address—Walter M. Pierce. Vocal Solo—Mrs. Bader, of Elgin. Vocal Duett—Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Williams, of Imbler. Music—Band. Vocal Solo—R. M. Wright, of Union.

Dinner. Afternoon Session. Quartet—Summerville Gle. Club. Speech—George T. Cochran. Pioneer Speakers—Dunham Wright.

"Past Recollections"—Jerry Thompson.

"Lady's Hardships"—Mrs. Mavoria Eaton.

"On a Happy Union"—Tom Wright.

"Repeating"—Mrs. S. L. Brooks. Short talks by any old lady or gentleman present.

Base ball game. Sports of various kinds.

No grafters need apply for admission to this pioneers Day.

Session will close with election of officers and transaction of any business that may come before meeting.

S. L. BROOKS, Chairman of Day.

E. B. MORELOCK, Secretary.

Marshals of Day—Jet Gaskill and George Rockman.

Reception committee of sixteen will care for all who attend.

SUGAR WILL CLIMB.

October or November Will Be Here Before Drops Begin.

Further advances of from 20 to 30 cents in the price of sugar may be looked for between now and the first of October, according to advices received in Oregon from the East this week.

This means that sugar is to be so high in price, despite the fact that the yield this year is the greatest in the history of the sugar-raising business, that retailers will be unable to sell more than 14 pounds for $1, and may not be able to do that. The advices go on to state that while prices are pretty well up now, they are hardly a circumstance to what they will be. Advances of 5 and 10 cents may be expected about every 10 days until October and may be November. The report says it is impossible to say when the first of these advances will take place, but probably another dime will be added to the price by the last of this week and possibly earlier, all depending upon the New York market on raws.

The manufacturers, or vendors have almost complete control of the great sugar stocks, and now that the season is on when vast quantities are used not only by the housewife but by the canneries, it is only reasonable to suppose they will get all the

CIRCUIT COURT TRIALS RESUME

STATUTORY CASE UP FOR TRIAL THIS AFTERNOON.

Various Cases Set for Trial for the Week.

Circuit court has resumed its June term trials. Today a jury is hearing malicious evidence in a statutory case in which George Powell a rail-roader is the defendant. Edna Morris is the complaining witness. Gordon Morris, a 13 year old brother, and Mrs. Laura Morris, the mother, preceded the complaining witness, a pretty girl of 19, to the witness stand this morning. The defense has a large number of witnesses to introduce. Just what the defense will be was not indicated until the state had concluded. R. J. Greene is defending Powell and District Attorney Ivanhoe is representing the state. The defendant is an uncle of the complaining witness.

The next case set is that of Burton vs. Kelsey, appealed from the lower court. State vs. Hess, where the defendant is charged with stealing some hides, is also to come to trial soon.

Grand Jury to Be Called.

It is said that the grand jury will be recalled within a week's time. New cases for deliberation are coming up and it is likely that Judge Knowles will find it expedient to recall the inquisitors in a short time.

profit possible; in fact, this is what the report says they will do.

It is further stated that over one-half of the yearly output is sold during the four months between June 15 and October 15.

WHEN JENNY LIND SANG.

Only an Old Ballad, but it Touched the Hearers' Hearts.

Whenever Jenny Lind came to dinner my father was careful neither to ask her to sing nor to allow any one else to suggest it in her hearing if he could help it. He did not think it proper to ask any one to confer that kind of favor upon him merely because he or she was his guest.

Jenny Lind, however, fully appreciating my father's taste in the matter, used to go up to him and say quite simply, "Shall I sing?" And, of course, she was at once led to the piano, and an instant silence fell on the whole company. Her husband, Otto Goldschmidt, accompanied her.

I shall never forget one great occasion when, after singing one or two of her songs, she asked my father if there was any particular song he would like to hear. Some inspiration came to him to ask her if she ever sang "Auld Robin Gray." She began it at once, and something must have moved her to throw all her marvelous power of emotion into the singing of this old world story. Never in my life have I ever heard anything so transporting and overwhelming. Tears were in her eyes and sobs of anguish seemed to swell up out of her heart. Every one in the great drawing room rose and stood around in a wide, spellbound circle, and when at last she had finished and stood with one hand on the piano, looking at the floor in silence, all were too overcome to speak. My father went to her, took her hand and led her away to a sofa, saying some words of gratitude to her, and the wonderful scene was over.—Hon. Stephen Coleridge's Memoirs.

Albania's Blood Feuds.

The great problem in Albania is the blood feud. Every one has killed, and all have enemies who seek their blood. The houses are fortresses, the only windows of which are loopholes for Martini. Many men have not left their houses for years, and food has to be brought to them by their friends. A man who is under the obligation of custom to take vengeance on another cannot marry if he is a bachelor and if he is already married cannot give either his sons or his daughters in marriage until his enemy is killed.—Youth's Companion.

What "Borough" Signifies.

The word "burgh" in Saxons stood for "castle," hence towns anciently erected in the vicinity of castles for their protection had this name conferred upon them, and the soldiers who carried these were called burghers so the inhabitants of these towns received the same name. These also being formed into a community, the constitution formed for their regular government was denominated the burgh laws.

Her Status.

The elder office mate was questioning the young clerk in regard to a girl he had seen him with at a moving picture show. "Was it your fiancée or your sister?" asked the elderly man. "She says she'll be a sister," muttered the younger clerk gloomily.—New York World.

Scrap Book

An Obliging Barber.

Charley Heywood, who used to be associated with P. P. Elder in the publication of a weekly paper at Ottawa, one time went into a barber shop and getting into the first chair he came to, said, "Cut my hair, and be sure you let it run down the back of my neck," referring to the kind of cut he wanted, and then settled down for a nap.

After clipping away for a few minutes the barber concluded the hair was not going down the customer's neck fast enough, although he couldn't understand why he wanted it to run down at all, and he just shoved down a good sized handful with the handle of his brush.

Heywood was about half asleep, and the barber repeated the performance of putting down a fresh lot, when Charley woke up and, with a swing of both arms, blurted out, "What the devil are you doing?" "Why," said the barber apologetically, "it didn't seem to run down, and so I crammed it down with the brush."

When the fight ended there was scarcely anything in the way of furniture, bottles or windows left in the shop.—Lem A. Woods in Kansas Editor.

Do It Now.

Loss this day loitering, 'twill be the same story tomorrow, and the next more dilatory; Then indecision brings its own delays; And days are lost lamenting o'er lost days. Are you in earnest? Seize this very minute—

What you can do, or dream you can, begin it. Courage has genius, power and magic in it. Only engage, and then the mind grows heated—Begin it and the work will be completed.—Goethe.

In Doubt.

One of our more or less famous statesmen once visited the zoological gardens in Washington and, peering before a particularly ugly monkey, exclaimed to his companion:

"What a resemblance to So-and-so!" The words were scarcely spoken when he turned and saw standing by his side the very man whom he had so severely complimented.

"I beg your pardon," said the gallant statesman hastily. "I would not have made the remark had I known you were near me, and I am ready to make the most humble apology. But——looking first at the man and then at the animal—"hang it if I can tell whether I ought to apologize to you or to the monkey!"

A Telegram That Talked.

At one time when George Drew Barrymore was playing in San Francisco a fabulous sum was offered her by a local theater for her services for a few weeks. The offer was exceedingly tempting, but her contract with Charles Frohman stood in the way. However, on the nothing venture nothing won theory, she telegraphed a detailed statement of the offer she had received to Frohman in New York, explained how anxious she was to accept it and wound up with the plea, "Will you release me?" In due course of time she received the following telegram in answer:

Mrs. George Drew Barrymore, Palace Hotel, San Francisco: No! CHARLES FROHMAN.

Albeit disappointed, Mrs. Barrymore at once sent this characteristic reply: Charles Frohman, New York City: Oh!

GEORGIE DREW BARRYMORE.

A Double Headed Bull.

On the occasion of a public reception at Napier, Australia, the school children of the town, after being duly complimented by his excellency from County Tyrone on the hearty manner in which they had rendered the national anthem, were solemnly assured that if they put their shoulders to the wheel they would be sure to reach the top of the tree, upon which a compatriot turned to a companion and said, "Sure, it was an axletree he meant, bedad!"

Equal to the Occasion.

Michelot, the famous comedian, suffered a great deal from the spite of his colleagues and found it necessary to be on the alert at every performance. On a certain occasion he had to scold a servant in one of Moliere's plays, when the "claque," which had been bribed by his rivals, began to hiss.

Michelot was by no means disconcerted. Giving the servant a couple of blows on the ear, not included in the part, he extemporized as follows:

"You vile scamp of a varlet, there is nothing you think of! There you stand quietly listening to the vermin squeaking in the house and never trouble yourself to get the rat poison!"

The effect of this sally was striking. The audience broke out in loud applause, and no subsequent attempt was made to hiss the actor.
