THE DIXIE JUBILEE SINGERS. Famous Company to Appear in Local Course.

The Dixie Jubilee Company has stood first among organizations of this kind for many years. W. C. Buckner, basso, and organizer of the company, commands the respect of every man he meets, not only on account of his great ability as a singer but also from his gentlemanly bearing and sterling integrity. Gertrude Hawkins-Buckner, prima donna soprano, is everywhere acknowledged one of the greatest singers of the colored race. They have with them each season the best talent obtainable and thus are able to maintain a standard of popularity in their programs that is unsurpassed by any similar company.

Their program consists of old-time jubilee and plantation songs, comic and camp meeting songs, negro melodies and modern songs, choruses, quartets and solos. It will be an evening of jubilee music that has not been surpassed since the days of the famous Fisk Jubilee Singers.

Madam Neale Hawkins Buckner has been with the company ever since its start. Before her connection with this company she started with one of the most popular musical attractions known to the theatrical world. She is the greatest soprano of her race and has been especially effective in building up the reputation of the company as the greatest Jubilee attraction this country has known.

Honey Moore, tenor and humorist, has been with the Dixies for twelve years and is known wherever this great company has appeared.

Isabel Smallwood, contralto, has been with the company two seasons, and is unquestionably the most popular and most satisfactory singer they have ever secured for that position. M. E. Atkinson, tenor, has been with the company four seasons and has won the approbation of every anyone except by the broken and twisted foliage. It would be an easy matter for the men to hide where they but bloodhounds could locate him and remain hidden for days. The dogs used last night and this morning are headed North towards the red gate country, and I am certain the men are in the hills."

J. F. Corbett superintended the watching of trains and says every train last night was barren of tramps.

Authorities at Portland are today in communication with a physician in Marinette, Wisconsin by the name of Nadeau. Medical directors show only two Nadeaus and one of them is in Wisconsin—a Dr. Nadeau had written the prescription filled out at the Grace & Bodinson drug store on Jung 7 for a man named Geo. Chapman, and the prescription was found on the dead man yesterday. The body was embalmed today and will be kept for a month if necessary. This prescription led to the supposition that the dead man was a brother of the two Chapmans who herd sheep just a few miles from the scene of the robbery. A married sister to George Chapman lives nearby.

Auto Clew Followed.
Pendleton, July 3.—With a reward of $1,000 each, dead or alive an added incentive to the trailing of the two and perhaps three bandits, who escaped after holding up the overland passenger train No. 5 early Thursday morning, when one was killed and another wounded in a pistol duel on the train with Deputy Sheriff McDuffie, has been renewed with vigor. McDuffie himself is resting well today at the Pendleton hospital. Blood hounds brought from the Walla Walla state penitentiary are being used in the search. Every trail near the scene of the robbery is being gone over by the armed posses. Following a report that an automobile without a license number and carrying three men had been seen going northward from Athena three hours after the robbery, a posse is searching through Southwestern Washington. Ranchers are warned to be on the alert.

Officers Differ as to Identity.
Pendleton, July 3.—The officers here are divided in opinions as to the identity of the dead robber, whether or not he is Hugh W. Itney, the notorious Idaho and Montana outlaw. Sheriff Taylor declares there is no doubt of his identity, but Chief Agent Wood of the railroad company is dubious.

BOLLONS LEADS POSSE.
Superintendent of the Road Carries Winchester Over Hills.

W. Bollons, superintendent of the La Grande division of the O.-W., walked as far or farther, than any man in the posses yesterday. He remained on the scene all day yesterday and last night and a big part of today, directing the search and all the time carrying a big Winchester as he traveled up and down the steep canyons. Mr. Bollons is loath to give up the automobile theory, which he firmly believed yesterday was the logical one.

O-W EXCURSION PLANS ARE OUT

O.-W. WILL RUN SPECIAL TO NORTH BEACH.

Train Made up at Huntington Making All Stops, but on Special Schedule.

The O.-W. will run the annual sea-shore excursion to North Beach via Portland on July 16. A special, made up at Huntington, will leave La Grande at 8:45 p. m., connecting here with the branch line, and will arrive at the beach at 3:28 the following afternoon. The train makes all stops between Huntington and La Grande and La Grande and Portland. Passengers will take the steamer T. J. Potter out of Portland. This is the largest steamer on the Willamette and has recently been renovated; it is thoroughly up-to-the-minute in every respect having hot and cold water in all staterooms. The round trip rates from La Grande will be $10.00 and will be good for two weeks. Stopovers will be allowed at any point on the return trip. The special will carry both standard and tourist sleepers.

Traveling Passenger Agent Miller was in the city today working up details for the excursion.

the inside of society's idea. He knows well enough, why he and his family have suddenly been elevated by the aristocrats of Mexico. There is nothing he loves better to do, in his role of dictator, than to threaten, tactfully, in a banquet speech, to place the men of Mexico's aristocracy in the army. The face of more than one aristocrat has blanched at Huerta's suggestion of this sort. In the exclusive Jockey Club, in the capital, where Huerta was never admitted before he seized the presidency, he delights to stand at the bar and, in sinister tones, grumble out his threats to seize all men in Mexico, "rich or poor," and place them in the field. Analyzing the Huerta family, socially, their standing is nil and, what's more, neither the dictator nor his wife care for society or its gradings.

the creek and stopped. It that they followed the creek a ways and then branched divided themselves into squads and Geo. Campbell and I went together much of the day. Falls and reports kept us in doubt. We were taken to Kameka back again and to Gibbon and We stalked the timber which is only second-growth, very dense and hard to get through. Although we combed the territory allotted to us for tracks and the men, they could readily enough play possum with us and be near.

"I am certain that if the men are cornered someone is going to get shot for they are undoubtedly armed to the teeth."
"There is little chance to capture the men, of that I am sure. Horses are of no use to the posse as the underbrush is entirely too thick to get through with a horse, were he ever so well trained for mountain climbing."

Hannon Returns to City.
Special Agent Hannon returned with Assistant Superintendent Corbett, about 2 o'clock this morning to run down the suit case clue unearthed at Meacham yesterday. A few days ago a man whom Agent Calvert at Meacham says was the dead train robber, checked a heavy suit case from Meacham to La Grande under the name of White. Shortly after that, the suit case was called for in this city. Though small, it weighed 35 pounds. The clue when run down avails but little.

"We are now confident that there were no horses and no automobile used by the fugitives," said Mr. Hannon today. "The hills are hard and laked and it is difficult to trace Complimenting the Apostles. A vicar in an English country parish was once puzzled when at a baptism the sponsor gave the name "Acts." "Acts?" asked the vicar. "What do you mean?" He thereupon asked the clerk to spell it. He did—A C T S. So Acts was the babe, and will continue to be in this life. Afterward, in the vestry, the vicar asked the good woman what made her choose such a name. "Why, sir," she replied, "we be religious people. We've got four of 'em already, and they be called Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, and so my husband thought we'd compliment the apostles a bit."—From "Anecdotes of Pulpit and Parish."

Irish Humor. Hugh O'Donnell is a story teller and a humorist. The principal charm of an "O'Donnell" in fact, consists of the running fires of stories. He told, the other night, of the Irishman who stood before the grave of Parnell, on which was inscribed the epitaph "I still live." "Oen, begorry," exclaimed Pat, "if I were dead I'd own up to it." Even the little children in Ireland, according to O'Donnell, have the true Irish sense of humor. He was standing before Nelson's statue, he said, when he asked a youngster, "Was Nelson really Irish?" "That he was," replied the child. "That's why he is what he was."—Pittsburgh Chronicle.

She Knew Not the Hoosiers. Miss Tompkins believed in speaking correctly. The boundaries of Boston did not contain all who were jealous of the purity of the mother tongue. Not from her should the makers of dialect stories obtain their material. When she heard some friends discuss Edward Eggleston's best known novel she resolved to obtain a copy. She was quite sure she knew the title, although of course she would not stir her words the way some careless people did. So she asked the salesman at the book store: "Have you a book by Edward Eggleston, entitled 'Who is Your Schoolmaster?'—Youth's Companion."

This paper was printed to be read.

Mrs. W. I. Dewey and daughter, Lenore and son Harold arrived this morning to visit their mother and grandmother respectively, Mrs. J. Hartness.
