THE DAY OF DAYS.

The Fourth of July.
In all its glory; in all its independence; in all its freedom.

The day that produces more thrills than any other day of the entire year; the day that has been gradually taken up all over the world, until now the firecrackers crack for American Independence in England, France and Germany as well as in this country.

Great is the occasion because a great deed was accomplished on the date. The guiding of a good God shaped the destinies of this nation; brought on the conflict which was necessary and permitted America to merge forth from all of her troubles a clean cut powerful nation teaching new ideas and fostering the great principle of freedom to all. Never was the principle of equality brought before the world until America brought it; never was all humanity permitted to share in governmental affairs until this country made it possible.

Contrary to the old world belief America still stands, for old nations looked upon this form of government as purely experimental believing it would not last. But it is here and will stay. It may have its internal troubles but all such bow to the inevitable, just as all wealth, all place and honor are subservient to the great principle of freedom and equality in this glorious country.

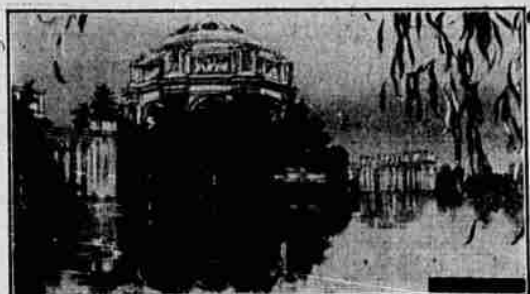

Rejoice that you live here; rejoice in her greatness. So shoot the crackers and the rockets and give a few shouts for the flag that made you free.

PENROSE AND T. R.

The other day Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania answered, or attempted to answer a speech of Col. Roosevelt's regarding the last national Republican convention. But there was no answer in the Penrose talk; it was a repetition of the same stereotyped story of the old national committee—a story they apparently rehearsed and learned when in the act of disfranchising the great majority of the Republican voters in the nation.

Roosevelt's charges are to the point and they go unanswered. They stand

FISHER'S LECTURE ON PANAMA FAIR IS ONE OF UNUSUAL MERIT SAY HIS AUDIENCES

Upper picture is a portion of the dome of the philosophy building at the Panama exposition and the small picture is a view of the palace of fine arts.

When Frederick Vining Fisher comes to the chautauqua with his pictures of the Panama exposition, he will bring something that is making a decided hit everywhere. Here is what has been said of his present year's work, exactly as it will be shown at the chautauqua on Wednesday:

"One of the best illustrated lectures we had at our Chautauqua last summer."

"We have had stereopticon lectures at our assemblies for the last twenty years, this beats them all."

"In my opinion nothing better could be devised to call the attention of the world to the magnitude and breadth of the coming Exposition."

W. F. KNIGHT, Prest. Board of Trade, Pasadena, California.

"In all my experience with lecturers I have never heard one more comprehensive or more fascinating."

ARTHUR H. GODFREY, Editor, "The Field" New York. "This lecture should be heard by every American who loves his country."

Secretary Y. M. C. A., Phoenix, Arizona. "A masterly illustrated lecture."

W. A. FITZGERALD, Chairman, City Club, Boston.

"As a means of advertising the Exposition, it is of the greatest efficiency."

J. H. FRAINE, Speaker, House of Representatives, North Dakota.

"The lecture on the Exposition delivered at the City Club gave unusual delight and satisfaction."

GUSTAVUS TUCKERMAN, Secretary, City Club, St. Louis, Mo.
