

CONSTRUCTION WORK STARTED

MANAGER LOGAN ON THE WORKS AT ENTERPRISE.

Permanent Survey is Well Advanced and Enterprise Smiles.

Enterprise, July 4.—A carload of camp equipment, grading implements and general paraphernalia for use in construction work on the East Oregon Lumber company's new railroad to the north is on the way from Portland. The freight bill has been received and the car should arrive tomorrow night. It will be unloaded at once and the supplies sent to the site of the first grading camp, a few miles north of Enterprise. C. D. Logan, superintendent of the work, who made all the purchases, returned from Portland on Tuesday and is busy getting ready for the next move.

The camp equipment includes tents, cooking and dining tent supplies, beds and bedding for sleeping accommodations, scrapers and the many implements used in grading, washing machines for laundering the table cloths and bedding and keeping the place in tidy condition, and fittings and tools for many uses.

J. C. Edsall, constructing engineer, is now well up toward the head of Trout creek with the permanent survey. He is laying out the road carefully, finding grades that will give economical operation for all time to come, and seeking ground that at the same time will ensure the lowest cost of construction. The appearance of the surveying crew on upper Trout creek pleased the farmers greatly, as it was further proof that they really were really to get a railroad at once.

Movie Men Hold Boards.

Dayton, Ohio, July 6.—When Governor Cox pushed an electric button in his office at Columbus today, the national convention of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' league and the International Exhibit of Motion Picture Appliances was opened here.

Dayton expected to be host to 9,000 people directly interested in the production and exhibition of films during the week. Delegates from many foreign countries are present.

Famous actors and actresses of the movies are in attendance. They will see themselves as others see them, when demonstrations of moving picture machines and appliances are given.

LAKE SESSION IS UNDER WAY

WILLAMETTE SUMMER SCHOOL PROSPERING.

Prof. Matthews Writes of Work Being Done This Summer.

Writing to the Joseph Herald, Prof. Matthews, at the head of the Willamette Valley Summer school at Joseph lake, says:

In session once more. There being no call for certain studies, Professor on Eschen, who offers courses in Botany, Physics and Geology, will not be with us. Miss Wyeth takes the place of Professor Whitney, whose work in Methods was so acceptable last summer. This lady with a personality all her own and the only stranger in the faculty making many friends and winning splendid applause for her work.

In numbers the school is small, but the quality of the students would be hard to surpass. Every one is in earnest, and the session promises to be one of great profit to those who have the good fortune to attend.

Again we are congratulating ourselves upon the use of the convenient and amply-equipped high school building. Professor Coe, who was a stranger here last summer, is now an old settler and carries the burdens of outside matters as well as giving most effective service in the classroom. His genial smile and broad shoulders make him a considerable factor wherever educational work finds him.

Professor Matthews is delighted to renew certain friendships of last summer. He declares that the snow-streaked mountains are lovelier and more alluring than ever.

The citizens of Joseph supported the Summer School so generously last year and treated the faculty and students with such fine consideration that we are here again with full confidence. Nor shall we be disappointed. Already we are experiencing your royal ways of welcome and hospitality.

Professors Matthews and Von Eschen had printed 10,000 circulars announcing the Summer School and describing the wonders of your scenery. Most of these have already been distributed all over Oregon, Southern Washington and Western Idaho. A few hundred circulars are being left at the First Bank for citizens to send to their friends and others.

SATURDAY AND SUNDAY ARE BUSY DAYS AT RIVERSIDE

Saturday and Sunday were indeed busy days at the chautauqua. A down-pour or rain spoiled the forenoon attendance, and marred many a picnic dinner, but the day cleared as it progressed and by noon the weather was fair. A score of farmer families took dinner on the ground and listened to the program.

The La Grande band was much in evidence and gave four excellent concerts. Following the first concert Dr. L. G. Herbert delivered a short, snappy patriotic speech of extreme merit. In it he praised Wilson for trying to settle the Mexican situation without invasion, lauding that policy but pronouncing that if occasion really demanded, Americans would fight.

At noon the ground had dried sufficiently to allow picnic dinners and at 1 o'clock again, the band gave another concert. Then came the first performance of the Dixie Jubilee singers—an aggregation of seven colored people that "got by" with a great deal of success. Their numbers are well mixed and varied, the singers individually and collectively are good and the soprano and contralto are exceptionally good. Every appearance made yesterday was likewise popular. Their concerts were sacred in character Sunday, but on Saturday night they gave a splendid line of humorous numbers.

Herbert's Speech Discussed.

No speech that has been heard on the chautauqua grounds for a good many moons has precipitated the amount of discussion started by L. G. Herbert, in his afternoon address on "cash, conscience and country." He was at the same time the poorest and finest speaker that the chautauqua has had—depending upon the viewpoint of the critic. Although he prayed that the day might never come when a socialist president would occupy the president's chair, he asserted that the movement of socialism had much in it that reformers and dreamers had to contend with and adopt. He admits that he is visionary and a dreamer, but asserted the world is full of them and many of them were the world's leaders.

Some in his audience called him heretical and a man without a remedy for conditions as they exist. Others assert that much of his speech was of the utmost truth.

As a speaker he is impetuous and "Methodical" in his delivery. He paid a pretty compliment to Walter M. Pierce of this city, who between speeches was engaged in warm debate over the social problem of today and admitted that Mr. Pierce had set him thinking about the social problem—thinking along a new line. Mr. Pierce is, as is well known, bitterly opposed to single tax and Mr. Herbert believes that single tax will in some form play a prominent part in the reformation of the land problem.

The Winning Party Described.

The composite parts of the political party that will put America on its permanent footing and solve the social problems will be composed of the following ingredients, according to Mr. Herbert:

A vision of single tax, a vision of idealism, a vision of the day when there will be no interest, a vision of religion—all these will put the world on a universal brotherhood basis—the millennium, he said.

The consensus of opinion of the speech is that it set the men and women in the audience thinking, and that in many respects the address was a rare one; mixed with common sense, visionary statements and hypotheses that could be adopted or ignored, as the speaker desired.

The trinity of power is the school, patriotism and religion, according to Mr. Herbert's address yesterday afternoon. The tremendous audience which heard him in the afternoon was much pleased with his oratory and his logic. However, the Saturday afternoon speech will be remembered long after the Sunday afternoon speech is forgotten by those who heard both.

The Dixie Jubilee singers were more popular in their last concert than the first, probably, and they left town this morning after having given satisfaction in abundant measure.

Mrs. Miller Winning

Lulu Dahl Miller is winning new friends as she goes. Her voice rings through the park like a silvery-voiced bell, and her personality—campers are finding, is true blue, as her voice is truly musical.

Dr. Brainerd is proving himself a competent platform manager and his course of Bible study lessons opened this morning with a good attendance and a splendid discussion.

Tennis Occupies Time.

The tennis courts were completed Sunday morning and were occupied throughout the day. The ground worked into firm condition quickly and a great deal of sport has been the result.

Restaurant Is Winner.

With par excellence food served and at reasonable prices besides, the L. D. S. restaurant "got off on the right foot" from the start. The patrons find that the service is first class; hence, as the week progresses, the ladies are going to get better patronage than at first—though the first day was busy for them. Their delicatessen is likewise broad in its scope and cheap in its service price.

The Sunday morning services were a big success. Dr. Brainerd the platform manager delivered the religious address and his first appearance in a formal lecture was well received indeed. The Treble Clef club rendered appropriate numbers, much to the edification of the audience.

JOSEPH NEWS ITEMS.

(Joseph Herald.)

When work begins in a few days on the new logging road out from Enterprise a large number of men will be employed at good wages—while the road is being built and at the big lumbering plant to be established at Enterprise. It will put a large amount of money in circulation—a large slice of which will reach Joseph business houses.

An immense crowd of pioneers went to the Amusement park above the lake Friday forenoon to enjoy the big reunion picnic. It is worth coming many miles to see and hear M. V. Knight make a speech. When M. V. gets warmed up to it properly, his gestures very much resemble a fellow brushing off bumblebees.

One of the attractions of Joseph is Geo. Holst's fine garden of James Hill mustard, just above the Herald office. All the farmers stop and admire it as they pass by. It is as pretty a patch of J. Hill mustard as anybody ever batted an eye over.

Joseph feels highly honored by the presence of such a splendid army of educated and refined people as are the teachers and students of the W. U. Summer school, which opened here Monday. May they enjoy every minute of their stay among us.

Norman Palmateer was liberated from the county jail this week, under $500 bonds, with the understanding that he is to remain out of this county and not further molest his family. He has gone over to some point in Washington.

Scores of campers and tourists are beginning to move to the Amusement park above the lake for a few weeks' rest in the finest summer resort in America. Hundreds of people will spend their vacation there.

The town is full of strangers and they are still pouring in from every direction for our big three-days celebration. We hope all will have a glorious time—as they always do here.

An Everyday Cake

Here is a simple and inexpensive cake that can be varied in many ways with different frostings and icings. It looks a little nicer baked in a tube pan, but will be equally as good baked in a square loaf.

K C Gold Cake

By Mrs. Janet McKensie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine.
1/2 cup butter; 1/2 cup sugar; yolks of 5 eggs, beaten light; 1 cup flour, less 2 level tablespoonsfuls; 2 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; 1/2 cup milk; grated rind of 1 orange.

Sift flour and baking powder together three times; cream butter and sugar, beat yolks of eggs, add these to creamed mixture, and lastly add the moisture and flour alternately, beating batter until smooth. Gold Cake can only be made successfully by beating yolks of eggs, very, very creamy and light lemon colored, using a rotary beater. The rotary beater is the only beater that will do justice to the yolks of eggs. The beating kills all egg taste and improves the texture of the cake.

Cocoanut Frosting

Beat the whites of 2 eggs dry; gradually beat in half a cup of sifted confectioner's sugar and continue the beating until the frosting is smooth, thick and glossy; then beat in grated cocoanut, fresh or prepared, and spread upon the cake. This frosting is made thick by beating rather than by sugar.

Save this recipe. You will want to use it frequently. Or better, send us the colored certificate packed in each 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder and we will mail you "The Cook's Book" containing this and 19 other baking recipes equally good—all by Mrs. Hill. Jacques Mig. Co., Chicago.

Harbormaster Wanted.

Oakland, Cal., July 6.—(Special.)—Oakland is in search of a harbor master—a high priced man that knows how to take entire charge of the business end of the city's big waterfront, and get out of it adequate return for the millions that have been invested to make it the best harbor on the Pacific coast.

Frank K. Mott, Oakland's mayor, brought the matter up in his annual message to the city council. He told the council that more than $26,000,000 had been spent on the waterfront by the United States, the city and private interests to bring it to its present state of high efficiency, and that, while the income from the large amount of municipally-owned property was big, it should be still larger, and an expert in waterfront business was needed to increase. The council approved of the mayor's plan, but no final action was taken, nor will be until the proper man is found.

Mott also asked that a plan for the completion of a belt railroad, to connect all points along the waterfront with the several transcontinental and local railroads, be taken up at once. He also urged the development of the western waterfront, or Key Route basin, where a large amount of reclaimed land is now open to industrial and shipping use.

"Oakland harbor is naturally the main shipping point of California," Mott declared, "and its water-borne commerce is increasing wonderfully each year. But it should grow faster, and I want the city to take steps to see that it does."
