Nickle in the Slot to Get Raincoat.

Fayetteville, Ark., Dec. 29.—The raincoat has taken its place alongside the egg sandwich, chewing gum and insurance policies placed before the public in vending machines. The man who drops his nickel for a package of gum to aid in the digestion of his nickel in the slot meal, and then pays a quarter to another machine for a policy insuring him against the consequences may soon get a raincoat from an adjacent machine as a result of the ingenuity of Miss Elizabeth Galbraith, head of the art faculty of the University of Arkansas. Miss Galbraith has obtained letters patent on a paper raincoat, said to be waterproof. She plans to manufacture the coats in large quantities and distribute them in specially devised vending devices.

Obituary

A Portland paper contains the following:
W. H. Darby, who died in Salem recently, had been a resident of Oregon for more than 50 years. He is a brother of Mrs. Matilda McKinney, of Turner. He was born on August 7, 1840, in Jackson county, Missouri, and came to the Willamette valley in the fall of 1862. From 1866 to 1873 he was in the mercantile business in Aumsville and Turner. In 1873 he bought a farm in the Waldo Hills, which he operated till 16 years ago, when he retired and moved to Salem. While in business at Aumsville he married Jermina Moppin, September 2, 1866. To this union were born two boys—William F. Darby of Queen's Creek, Ariz., and John Darby, who runs the home farm in the Waldo Hills. April 24, 1870, this mother passed away, and on October 6, 1872, he was married to Lydia M. Read of Turner, to which union was born six children—Mrs. Della S. Crone, deceased; Mrs. Lura M. Crass, of Vancouver, Wash.; B. L. Darby, of Glendale, Or.; Mrs. Bertha M. Logan, of La Grande, Or.; Dr. W. H. Darby, of Salem, and Mrs. Belle L. Sturm, of Tonpenish, Wash. On July 26, 1884, this mother passed away, and on May 19, 1892, he was married to Mary Rankin of Shaw, Or., to which union there were no children born.

Donate Clothing—Please. Anyone who has clothing that they will donate to charity will please hand the bundles to any driver on the Merchants Delivery service and the same will be handled by a committee of the Neighborhood club, whose duty it is to relieve those distressed in the city of La Grande. There are many here who need clothing to keep them warm this winter. 12 28 tf.
