Handcuffed Man Escapes.
Pendleton, Jan. 12.—Batiste Ruben, the Swiss-Italian picked up here last week with handcuffs embedded in his arms, is again at large. Having been taken to Walla Walla Friday night by immigration Officer Wells, he was placed in the hospital ward of the county jail and last evening made his second escape from the officers. This was the substance of a message received by local officers last evening over the telephone. He had been placed in the hospital ward to receive treatment for his arms which were in a serious condition as a result of being bound with iron bands for 19 months. He was not locked up during the day and last evening while Jailer W. J. Honeycutt had stepped into another part of the jail with a physician, the Italian walked quietly down the stairs and outside. A man seated in the office heard him walk out but thought nothing of the matter. He had only about ten minutes start of the officers but in the darkness had the advantage of them.
