Over a score of Pythian Sisters from Orionette temple No. 31, Elgin, last evening were guests of Rowena Temple No. 9 of this city, when the Elgin fraternity sisters exemplified the initiatory work upon a class of three. After the very adept Pythian Sisters of Elgin had demonstrated splendid skill in staff work, the home temple served a banquet at which fraternalism was rampant at all stages. Among those present from Elgin were: Lydia Austin P. C., Janie H. Zentzer M. E. C., Mollie Becker E. S., Amy Bills M. E. J., Mattie K. Henry manager, Ida Hallgarth M. of R. S., Bertha Hatfield protector, Buena Hoffman guard, Grace Hawkins, Nellie Burnaugh, Rose Zweifel, Myrtle Chandler, Anna Klinghammer, Nellie Wilson, Edith Maxwell, Mrs. A. J. Garner, Mrs. Nora Rogers, Mrs. Alma Henderson, Mrs. Mary Flexer, Mrs. John Shoemaker, Mrs. George Chandler, Mrs. Verda Knight, Mrs. Hattie Mays, Mrs. Carrie Fisher and Stella Thorsen. They stopped at the Sommer while here.

The Cupid Finch club was entertained at the residence of Mrs. M. H. Kirkley last evening and was a delightful affair. The evening was spent at playing finch and music was rendered by Mrs. E. C. Moore. The honors were won by Mrs. Benglesdorf and L. W. Morgan. At eleven the guests were escorted to the dining room where dainty refreshments were served. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Gust Benglesdorf, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Ball, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Day, Mrs. H. C. Gilman, Mrs. E. C. Moore, L. W. Morgan, G. Geates E. Damon W. H. Pattison, T. E. Beuhler and S. Moore.

Thursday Mrs. C. M. Humphreys entertained at the Humphreys home, O and Sixth, in honor of the 18th birthday anniversary of Miss Marjorie Snook. After the guests were entertained a la theatre, under the chaperoning of Miss Alice Snook and Joe Ebersole, Mrs. Humphreys served a two-course luncheon. A pink and white color scheme, set off with carnations, prevailed in the home. Those who were present included Minna Ash, Carol Currey, Lenore Hughey, Wilma Osterling, Helen McDonald, Lucile Pierce, Dora Van Fleet, Romona Roe, of Enterprise.

Some very interesting sessions are in store for the Women's Relief Corps, which holds its meetings twice monthly at the K. of P. hall. The last session was held last Saturday, when several new members were taken in. The corps meets the first and third Saturday afternoons of each month. It is proposed to have some very pleasant afternoons in this way.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Yehrs, who were married a few days ago, entertained 20 friends at their ranch home Thursday in an informal way in celebration of their marriage, this week. Music, singing and refreshments made up the evening's entertainment, followed by copious good wishes.

The Lucky Thirteen card club was entertained in an "Easterly" manner Thursday afternoon by Mrs. William French at her home on Spring and Cedar. Liberal numbers of "chickens" and "bunnies" went into the scheme of decoration and place cards. Honors at cards were won by Mrs. Elam Andrews.

Mrs. Claude Scranton entertained the Sans Souci Bridge club Wednesday and in addition a few special guests, players for four tables being present. Mrs. Scranton used an Easter scheme in decoration and colors.

Mrs. L. F. Dunn complimented Miss Edna Barton, of Baker, with a luncheon Wednesday afternoon, plates being laid for 20. Miss Barton had been a guest for several days with Mrs. Dunn. Tasty decorations of the decorator's art were in evidence in the Dunn home for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. S. Dunn entertained the Entre Nous card club Thursday evening, honors for high scores going to Delile Green, for the gentlemen, and Mrs. Robert Pattison for the ladies.

Miss Florence Happersett, assistant librarian at the city library, has gone to Portland and Eugene. At the latter place she will be the guest of girl friends now in the university, and at Portland she will visit relatives.

Thursday afternoon Mrs. Albert Hunter, of Island City, entertained the Island City Sewing club. Several out-of-town guests attended.

Mrs. Colon R. Eberhard was a pleasing hostess to the Social club branch of the Eastern Star, Tuesday. Honors at cards went to Mrs. Parsons.

Mrs. Jay Van Buren was hostess for the Auction Bridge club this week, at her home on Main avenue. At cards, honors went to M. B. Donohue.

Mrs. A. W. Nelson entertained the Billikin club Thursday afternoon.

Ethel Hursh, daughter of J. M. Hursh, of Hamela, Ark., and W. H. Brown, of this city, were quietly married at the parsonage of the Christian church Wednesday. Rev. Myers officiating. They will make their future home in La Grande. Miss Hursh at one time lived in Union and has a large circle of friends who wish her much joy.

Last evening Mr. and Mrs. Hursh gave a party to a number of their friends at their new home on Division street. The evening was spent at cards, music and a big dinner. The guests pronounced the newlyweds charming entertainers.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Tuckey entertained the Jolly club this week. Those who won highest scores were W. B. Bach and Mrs. C. R. Hibberd.

The afternoon division of the Kaffee Klatch met with Mrs. George Cochran this week. During holy week the club will abandon both afternoon and evening sessions.

Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Dunn will entertain the Sans Souci, evening division next week.

Mrs. M. K. Hall was hostess for members of the Wednesday Bridge club this week, honors at cards going to Mrs. Jay Van Buren.

Events in Musical Life.

Who would have thought it of them? This is the question heard on every hand today in regard to The Mikado put on last evening by high school student body under the auspices of the glee club, Miss Ramsdell director. An audience that netted something over $100 gross, heard the students sing and saw them act in that always popular musical production, The Mikado—always clever and full of life, although old and often tried and never found wanting as a production. Some genuine calcium-light talent was discovered; many young voices were uncovered as extremely suitable for the parts, and not only did the principals and chorus dance and sing with the nicety of experienced amateurs, but extremely creditable is the evidence of the master hand behind the scenes—Miss Ramsdell, the director. The song numbers went with a joyous "bang" according to baseball parlance, and the acting was exemplary to say the least. That the actors were students still young in the field of music, was entirely forgotten by the audience, for many think that the production last evening was superior to that given sometime since by older musicians under professional direction. Frequent requests are heard for a reproduction of the opera; one thing remains certain, La Grande high brought musical glory upon itself last evening. The cast of characters

Felice Lyne, the charming soprano, whose sensationally successful debut on grand opera in London about two years ago was flashed to all corners of the globe the morning after, admitted the after her concert in La Grande last week received a telegram engaging her as coloratura for a Grand opera season of three months in Paris next year.

While the engagement is of much interest to Miss Lyne, the telegram is doubly interesting to the general public, for it conveys between the lines confirmation of perfection of final details for the organization of the most ambitious grand opera undertaking ever attempted anywhere in the world.

Paris is to be the great center of the operatic world. The company will be international in character and of a scope that will far surpass all the brilliant efforts in the past at New York, Boston, Berlin, Milan, London, or anywhere in South America, where grand opera holds some sway. Foremost among the backers and promoters are such men as the Prince of Monaco, Otto H. Kahn of New York and Henry Russell of the Boston Opera company.

A Great Dramatic Star at the Arcade Mon. and Tues.

Edith Taliaferro makes her first appearance in La Grande Monday and Tuesday in screen work, and as she has a reputation for an unusual amount of ability as an actress we know you will want to see her.

In today's play, "Young Romance," she takes the part of Nellie Nolan, the heroine, who presides over the notion counter in a department store. But, nevertheless, romance flourishes in her soul, and she devotes all her spare moments to reading novels in which "high society" and foreign nobility figure prominently. One day, in a fit of June madness she determines to spend the entire $100 she has saved by living like a "real lady" for the one glorious week of her vacation and betakes herself to a fashionable Maine Seaside resort where she poses as a Fifth avenue heiress.

In the same big department store there works one Tom Clancy, who, likewise, is of a romantic turn of mind and who, lured on by dreams of adventure and fortune, goes for his vacation to the same town and under much the same false colors. Tom works in the hardware department downstairs, wherefore it happens that he and Nellie have never met.

The rich young woman impersonated by Nellie receives a large inheritance during the one eventful week, and this fact, recorded in all the newspapers, cause a fortune-hunting count to induce her to visit a deserted island. She finds herself kidnaped, and is obliged by the count to sign a check for $10000.

How Tom learns of Nellie's distress on the barren island, how he rescues her, and how the two young people fall in love constitute the main succeeding events of the story. They separate, both being ashamed to confess their deceptions, but, the very first day they return to the store Tom is transferred to a counter right opposite Nellie's counter—and so the course of true love runs to a happy conclusion.

Our vaudeville team, Kay & Howard will appear at Arcade and introduce a new line of comedy.

Remember, we show "The Morals of Marcus," next Friday and Saturday, April 2-3, starring the charming Marie Doro.
