WOODTICK IS CUT FROM NECK

NORTH POWDER WOMAN HAS EXPERIENCE.

New Agent at North Powder—Big Store Changes Hands.

(North Powder News.)

Mrs. Chas. Bertram had to have a wood tick cut from the back of her neck Monday. The tick had become so deeply imbedded in the flesh that the surgeon's knife was necessary to remove it. Dr. Irvine performed the operation.

G. E. McDonald, of Hilgard, succeeded C. J. Hazen as O. W. R. R. & N. Co., station agent at this place Tuesday.

Mr. Hazen has accepted the appointment as station agent at Elgin.

Thursday the Frosstrom store changed ownership, C. J. Frosstrom retiring and Oscar Pilcher purchasing his interest. The new firm is known as the Frosstrom-Pilcher Co. The old firm has built up an immense trade under the management of E. F. Frosstrom and with addition of Mr. Pilcher to the firm will be the means of greatly increasing their business. Their motto is "The best goods for the least money" and "satisfaction to all."

PENDLETON HAS MYSTERY

afternoon, according to the story told by the occupants, noises as of stones falling on the roof were heard and an investigation showed that rocks, ranging in size from pebbles to boulders, were rolling off of the slanting roof to the ground. A search of the premises was made but failed to reveal the author of the bombardment although it continued while the search was being made and seemingly from all directions.

In alarm Mrs. Crowner called the police and Chief Kearney hurried to the house. He, too, heard the rocks striking the house but could not find from whence they came. He watched for an hour when the heavy storm began and made further vigilance useless. However, Saturday morning Officer Manning took up the watch and during the afternoon Chief Kearney again made an investigation but neither was able to fathom the strange happening.

Neighbors, including Ben Pierce, William Coffman and Miss Thelma Coffman, substantiated the story told by the occupants of the house. Not only did the air rain sticks and stones on to the roof, but at different times pebbles, dirt and chips rattled down the chimney and fell into the room from a pipe hole, according to their story. A boulder as big as a man's head fell at the feet of Miss Coffman and yet it hardly dented the earth. She was struck on the head by a sharp rock and yet felt it no more than if it had been a feather bar. These and other incidents related make the tale a very wondrous one.

Mr. Pierce, who lives at 501 Maple, declares he scoffed as much as any one at the story until he saw with his own eyes and heard with his own ears. On both sides of the roof, he says he watched and saw rocks roll to the ground but never was he able to see one of the rocks until it was within a few feet of the roof. He went inside the house and several stones a few chips and a handful of dirt rolled out of the flue. He and Mr. Coffman made a complete search of the neighborhood but could learn nothing of the mysterious storm of missiles. There is no attic to the house, which is a small, three-room building, there is no place to hide on the roof and the house stands by itself in the center of a big lot. High bluffs rise themselves behind it some 50 yards but, as Mr. Pierce points out, any one of the rocks thrown from the distance would have cracked the shingles, and there was not a shingle even splintered. Again, he asks how light chips or a boulder could be thrown that distance down the chimney. At the foot of the bluffs are several clumps of bushes but Mr. Pierce and Mr. Coffman both beat these out as did Chief Kearney. At some distance the officer found some footprints but declares the stones could not have been thrown from that point with the results enumerated.

On the roof are a number of sticks that lodged there while rocks strew the ground to testify to the bombardment. Neighbors have carried off other rocks which they themselves saw fall. Altogether, the affair has grown to quite a neighborhood mystery, and, as the groups gather to discuss it, they involuntarily show the superstitious trend of their thoughts by telling of ghosts, apparitions and other strange things of which they have heard in times past.

The mysterious stone throwing began Friday afternoon, continued at intervals during the evening and through Saturday morning. Since then nothing has been heard. So greatly frightened are the occupants that since the bombardment began they have not been sleeping at the house. However, one of them remains at the house at all times during the day.

Are You Going To Build?

Two great questions to the prospective home-builders are "How much is your home going to cost," and "what will be the cost for repairs in the future." There are two ways to build, the cheap and inexperienced way, and the good and substantial way which means good workmanship and good material.

See me before you build, H. E. Roskamp Contractor and Builder
