LA GRANDE TO INVADE BAKER

TWO TOPNOTCHERS WILL MEET ON BAKER GROUNDS

While La Grande Is Away, Shop Team Will Again Be Home

La Grande's entry in the Eastern Oregon league will be away from home again next Sunday, but after that date will draw two games at home, and La Grande will get its first peep at the La Grangers only a week from Sunday. Next Sunday a battle royal is due to come off in Baker, for Baker and La Grande stand undefeated thus far. Something will have to snap next Sunday, that's sure. Hector McInnis will put the best he has into the game at the east end of the circuit next Sunday in an effort to bump the miners off their perch, and if that is accomplished the first serious step toward the gonfalon will have been realized. Union plays at Elgin.

Because the La Grande team is going away next Sunday, it stands to reason that Cove will come to La Grande to play the Shop team in the State Amateur league. Cove trimmed Union unmercifully a week ago Sunday.

La Grande bowlers struck a snag a mountain high at Boies Monday. The Idahoans bowled 3005 pins, a tremendous score, and to offset this La Grande was far below normal. Clint Van Fleet who substituted for Claude Walden, was high man. S. D. Crowe was second high. The return trip was made yesterday. Mr. Crowe driving his Ford from Boise to La Grande, leaving Boise at 4 o'clock and arriving here at 7:30, stopping three or four hours between terminals for lunch. With Mr. Crowe were Don Scott and Clint Van Fleet, and Speed Humphreys, and with P. A. Foley was Herman Roesch. Mr. Foley was late in leaving Boise.

Should not Feel Discouraged.

So many people troubled with indigestion and constipation have been benefited by taking Chamberlain's Tablets that no one should feel discouraged who has not given them a trial. They contain no poison or other digestive ferments but strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. Obtainable anywhere.

To Catarrh Victims.

GUESS IF THEY ARE MARRIED

RUNAWAY JUNE

up with a green tassel?" The young man with the yellow derby over one ear shifted his cigarette.

"I'll be the Patsy. What's the answer?"

He asked that question of countless people. On a corner where half a dozen streets and alleys had staggered themselves by running into each other Ned found a human being swaying gently in the breeze.

"Have you seen?" Ned stopped after one glance into that vacuous face and one waltz from that far from vacuous breath.

"Pipe up, pal," harked the jiggled one. Ned went over his formula.

"Have you seen a girl wearing a fur cap with a green tassel?"

"Well, what do you think of that?" And it stopped swaying for a moment.

Blye Had Dashed After Her.

"A guy with black whiskers," and the human being illustrated the Vandyke by a motion of his hand, "asked me the same thing!"

"Blye again! Ned clinched his fist. "Did you see the girl?"

"The object winked."

"S'none of your business!" he answered with great dignity and reeled away.

Ned gazed after him in perplexity. There was no use to question that fellow any further, but it was certain that the man had seen June. She had passed this way then. She was somewhere near. And Blye! Blye, too, had passed this way! Ned chose the most direct street, the one which led to a little fountain, where another street angled sharply into it. And this fountain was visible from the third floor windows of the Widow O'Keefe's house. Ned Warner's heart was full of murder.

Blye had passed that way, but he had gone up another street. Now he, too, in his wandering search for the runaway bride came down toward the little fountain from the other angle.

"I've looked out of the window. In the gathering dusk she saw without recognizing them the two men approaching each other, with the sharp cornered building between.

At the point and under the light they would meet. Gilbert Blye and Ned Warner. And the husband of June had murder in his heart!"
