HOG BREEDER BOOSTS PLANS

OFFERS REGISTERED STUFF AT LOW PRICES

Hog Raising Contests Received Impetus By Offer

Orlando Anson, breeder of registered Poland hogs, has taken a progressive step towards assisting in the boy raising of hogs. He has 10 registered hogs which he will sell for as little or less than the common cross breeds will bring, and will exact no pay from the boys that get them, until they have been exhibited at the fair and sold.

Claude C. Cate, president of the fair and farm expert, is delighted with the offer and is now seeking interviews with breeders of other hogs with the same purpose in view because the complaint raised by the boys generally is that they cannot buy purely bred hogs for reasonable prices and therefore equip themselves with cross or scrub breeds.

"Municipal" Saloon is a Success. Lemmon, S. D. Apr. 16.—If business keeps up for the next two months as it has been since last July Lemmon's municipal saloon will have contributed approximately $12,000 toward the schools and municipal improvements. The monthly profit of Lemmon's one saloon is $1,000 a month.

Before the last law limiting the number of saloons per capita throughout the state, Lemmon, had eight saloons. Competition was keen and to make their respective saloons "attractive" some of them became the lowest manner of dives. When the per capita law was passed Lemmon was allowed two saloons. There was intense rivalry for the two licenses. A proposition that the city go into the saloon business was put to a vote and failed.

The Lemmon Civic Association was formed after the city last spring adopted the commission form of government. The association included men of many different walks of life and business. Ministers were among the membership. The association was given a saloon license. A manager, one of the strongest prohibition workers in the city, was appointed. He receives no salary. The two barkeepers receive such good salaries that graft of any kind is eliminated. By the association's rules the sale of liquor is not pushed. A blacklist contains the names of persons who cannot buy liquor here. Patrons who once showed a disposition to look even one time too frequently into the cup that cheers are blacklisted. Known drunkards may not enter the saloon; neither may persons whose families are known to be in want. Mayor B. R. Watt is one of the strongest boosters of Lemmon's municipal saloon.

Since the saloon started last July said Mayor Watt today, it has given satisfactory results from every point of view. When we had eight saloons here you can readily imagine what element dominated our politics. We have eliminated nearly all of the factional fighting and are all now working for the best interests of our city. We have practically no drunkenness in Lemmon. Certainly no man has become a drunkard in Lemmon since the municipal saloon started. I would sure recommend it as being for above private ownership.

MISTRESS NELL FILM COMES TO ARCADE

Today and tomorrow Mary Pickford, the highest salaried moving picture artist in the world, appears at the Arcade in a different roll from any ever undertaken in her career.

"Mistress Nell" is a romantic drama in the days when Charles II reigned over England. Beautiful photography, gorgeous gowns, brilliant ball room scenes, wonderful scenic splendor.

Manager Gardiner says this is the greatest play that the great favorite has ever appeared in.

the bottles in the wagon. The horse driven by Mr. Stevenson objected to the proceedings and reared and in the malee fell on its back damaging the shafts and puncturing a hole in its back that branded the pavement with a spot of crimson. Aside from the fright attached to the event nothing serious resulted in the way of damage. The Ford driver was turning down First and the milk man going South on the same street and for some reason both vehicles attempted to occupy the same spot at the same time.

Can You Afford Such Rank Extravagance?

The question is not "can I afford to paint my buildings," but "can I afford to let them go without painting." There is no question but wood if well painted will last several times as long as if it is not painted. A few dollars invested in paint will preserve hundreds of dollars worth of lumber in buildings.
