NORTH POWDER NEWS ITEMS

(From North Powder News.) C. A. Briggs commenced work last Saturday morning near the Goff & Evans garage with a well drill boring for artesian water and before the sun had gone down behind the Western hills had struck the second largest flow in the city at a depth of 53 feet. This makes the nineteenth flowing well inside the corporate limits of this city. Every attempt to obtain a flowing well in this city has been a success, but vary in depth.

Kansas Don't Look Good to Him. J. W. Reynolds, an old timer, pioneer and Indian fighter of Eastern Oregon, returned from Central Kansas Monday and is at the J. A. Thronson home. Mr. Reynolds says, no more Kansas for him as the winter has been a very severe one and even now is cold. He says North Powder is good enough for him. He is 81 years of age, but is hale and hearty, which no doubt is mostly due to the fact of spending a great portion of the last 50 years in the extremely healthful climate of the North Powder Valley country. Promises to be a Good Mine. J. Thronson started Tuesday morning with a four horse load of supplies for his mines on East Eagle. The family will move about May 1. These mines lie just across the summit from the celebrated Cornucopia property with a similar formation, and apparently as good value. Mr. Thronson and associates expect to put a ten stamp mill at work on this property of several claims within sixty days and work all the men possible.

THE BLACK BOX (Continued from Page 2.)

his pocket and made a brief examination of the box. Then he asked a few questions of the curator, pointed out one of the windows to Lenora and whispered a few directions to her. She at once produced what seemed to be a foot rule from the bag which she was carrying, and hurried into the garden.

"A little invention of my own for measuring footprints," Quest explained. "Not much use here, I am afraid."

Quest stood over the box for a moment or two and looked once more out of the window. Presently Lenora returned. She carried in her hand a small object, which she brought silently to Quest. He glanced at it in perplexity. The professor peered over his shoulder.

"It is the little finger!" he cried—"the little finger of my ape!"

Quest held it away from him critically.

"From which hand?" he asked.

"The right hand."

Quest examined the fastenings of the window before which he paused during his previous examination. He turned away with a shrug of the shoulders.

"See you later, Mr. Ashleigh," he concluded laconically.

A newsboy thrust a paper at them. Quest glanced at the headlines. Lenora clutched at his arm. Together they read it in great black type:
