NEW CROP REPORT.

Agricultural Outlook to Be Succeeded by Monthly Serial Similar to the Crop Reporter.

Washington, D. C., May 13.—The publication of the Farmers' Bulletin entitled "The Agricultural Outlook" was discontinued with the issue of April, 1915. Beginning with the month of May, 1915, and monthly thereafter, or as often as may be necessary, data relating to agriculture, including estimates of acreage, condition, yield, production, prices and values of crops and live stock, in the form of tabular statements accompanied by text summaries and comments, will be published in a serial of the Bureau of Crop Estimates entitled "The Monthly Crop Report." The Report will be printed on pages of quarto size, and will be placed in the hands of readers as soon as practicable after the day of the month to which the report relates. The Monthly Crop Report is a resumption, in size and nature of material, of the Crop Reporter which was discontinued, with the issue of June 19, 1913. The publication of statistical matter was resumed, however, September 11, 1913, in the Agricultural Outlook. In addition to the statistical data, the Outlook included a number of chapters or articles dealing with timely matters of production. It has been found impossible to publish the Outlook quickly enough to make the crop figures fully serviceable to the public. The cost was greater than anticipated, and the special articles published therein frequently were lost to sight and failed to secure the direct attention of farmers that the circular series of the Department or the Weekly News Letter would give them. The separation of the crop reports from the other material, not directly pertinent thereto, will enable the Department to publish the details of crop reports far more promptly, effect economies, and make possible more direct circulation of both classes of material. The issuance of the special articles is to be continued, but full provision is now made for their wide publication through the circular series of the office of the secretary, and through the enlarged Weekly News Letter.

OREGON DEVELOPMENT NEWS.

Portland, Ore., May 13.—(Special)—The opening of the Celilo canal around the last obstructions to navigation on the Columbia, and the transfer to the Government of the locks at Oregon City on the Willamette, have added hundreds of miles of free open water to the commerce of Oregon and have made it possible for the agricultural sections of the state to take advantage of the low freight charges which are sure to result from the elimination of tolls and portage charges. Livestock, fruits, grain, minerals, lumber and wool can now be laid down on the dock at Portland or at Astoria at an immense saving over former cost, and a consequent increase of profits to the producer.

It now remains to see what use the people will make of the open rivers. While steamers can be operated more economically than railroad trains, they must have cargoes to transport or they cannot live. If the farmers continue to haul their produce to the railroad station because it is a little nearer, or the wagon road a little better, they will not only lose the benefit of cheaper transportation at the present time, but they will be making it impossible for the boats to operate at a profit and within a short time the upper reaches of both our great streams will be as deserted and lonely as before the canals were built, and the enormous sums spent for improvements will have been wasted. The success or failure of the "open river" is up to the farmer more than to any other one class.

At a meeting of swine breeders at North Portland last Tuesday arrangements were perfected for furnishing the boys and girls of all sections of the state with breeding animals with which to make a start in the raising of pork for market. The plan was inaugurated by the Union Stockyards some weeks ago, but the call for sows was so great that it was found necessary to enlist the aid of professional hog breeders in order to supply the demand. The stockyards will receive orders for sows, already bred, pass them on to the breeders who have agreed to furnish stock, and on receipt of a properly indorsed note from boy or girl, the animal will be shipped direct. The notes will become due and payable at the time the pigs are mature and ready for market.

Dates for the annual Gilliam county fair have been set for September 23, 24 and 25. The Condon Business Men's association will have charge of the fair and will employ an experienced man to visit every part of the county and collect exhibits.

REVOKES LOSTINE LICENSE.

Judge Knowles Fines Men Convicted of Selling Minors Liquor.

Lostine went dry yesterday afternoon by order of Judge J. W. Knowles in the Circuit Court relates the Enterprise Record Chiefly. He revoked the license of W. F. Wade who has been running the only saloon in the city. A fine of $100 also was levied on Mr. Wade, and Lon Bright, bartender in the saloon, was fined $150. The proprietor at once paid both fines.

Mr. Wade and Mr. Bright were held to the grand jury in the winter by Justice McCrae of Wallowa, before whom they appeared on the charge of selling liquor to minors. It was charged that the bartender sold whiskey to a party of school boys from Wallowa.

In the Circuit Court both men pleaded guilty and Judge Knowles promptly imposed the penalties stated.

This does not, of course, mean that there will be no saloon in Lostine for the remainder of the year, or until the state prohibition amendment goes into effect. The council has the power to grant another license.

Another case on the criminal docket was that against Keck Gillbanks, charged with gambling. He also pleaded guilty, and was fined $25, paying forthwith.

The grand jury were drawn Monday morning and has been in session since. It is not known that any case of public interest is before them; in fact the impression is that the jurors will have a much easier session than last November.

The members of the grand jury are E. T. Roup, foreman; George D. Boston, Sam Banister, G. S. Reavis, George E. Coleman, S. T. Tippet and R. E. Heskett.

SUMMONS.

Printing Point Does Not Bob Up and Down

In an L. C. Smith & Bros. Typewriter the point on the paper which is to receive the type impression is stationary at the instant the type hits. The carriage does not bob up and down when the shift is made to write capitals.

Why?

Because the type is shifted—not the carriage.

The only movement of the carriage is back and forth on its closely adjusted ball bearing runways—and this does not take place while the print is being made. There is no lifting of the carriage.

This is one reason why L. C. Smith & Bros. typewriting is free from blurs and every letter in the right place.
