INCREASE IN BANKING BUSINESS

The growth of La Grande during the past quarter of a century is clearly demonstrable in the expansion of the local banking business, as estimated on the volume of business now as compared with that of nearly a quarter of a century ago. A comparison of the figures taken from official reports will show how the banking business has expanded.

At the close of business Dec. 3 1891, the bank reports showed total loans and discounts of $224,189.64; and the total deposits were $191,797.73.

The bank reports of Nov. 10, 1915, showed total deposits of $1,023,311.06 and loans amounting to $1,074,994.15.

The value of banking houses, furniture and fixtures was $25,000 twenty-four years ago as against $86,000 at the present time.

While the increase of population has been about three hundred per cent the increase in the volume of banking business has been nearly 500 per cent.

News of December, 1891

The poles and wires are up for the Western Union's new headquarters upstairs in the Sommer building. Reclining chair cars were run from Pendleton and Baker City yesterday evening for the benefit of those who attended the trainmen's ball.

The family of Henry Young, who live just north of La Grande, will have the assistance of a new daughter just arrived, in the celebration of the holiday season.

Notwithstanding the snow of the past few days the railroad has not been blocked and trains have been running regularly, but the Lord is liable to send a wind almost any day and then Mr. Graham (J. F. Graham), now superintendent of motive power will send out the snow plows. (This was before the rotary was invented.)

Al Ray, the popular center fielder of the La Grande base ball club, returned Tuesday evening from Omaha and will resume his former position in the service of the Union Pacific.

A practical demonstration of Dr. Mahana's single rail and saddle car system is soon to be made in the construction of a line from Portland to Hillsboro. The construction of this road will be commenced as soon as the motor, the construction of which is being supervised by Dr. Mahana, is finished. (It was never finished.)

GREEN FEED IN WINTER.

Poultryman Should Have a Supply to Last Through the Season.

(Government Bulletin)
Green feeds for poultry contain only a small percentage of actual food nutrients, but are important because of their succulence and bulk, which lighten the grain rations and assist in keeping the birds in good condition. The poultryman should secure a sufficient supply of such feeds to last through the winter months in sections where growing green feeds can not be obtained. When chickens are fattened without the use of milk, green feed helps to keep them in good condition.

Cabbages, mangel wurzels, clover, alfalfa, and sprouted oats are the green feeds commonly used during the winter. Cabbages do not keep as well in ordinary cellars as mangel wurzels, so where both of these feeds are available the cabbages are fed first. They are often suspended, while the mangel wurzels are split and stuck on a nail on the wall of the pen. Clover and alfalfa may be fed as hay, cut into one-half to 1 inch lengths, or may be bought in the form of meal. Alfalfa meal has a feeding analysis equal to bran, but is not as digestible on account of its larger percentage of fiber. Clover and alfalfa should be cut while slightly immature, if they are to be cured and fed to poultry. The leaves and chaff from such hay are especially adapted for poultry feeding.

Sprouted oats make a very good green feed and are used quite extensively in this country. The oats can be soaked for 12 hours in warm water and then spread out in a layer of from one-half to 1 1/2 inches deep on a floor, or in a tray or tier of flats, which have openings or holes or a three-sixteenths inch mesh wire bottom, so that the water drains freely. They may be stirred daily and sprinkled, or allowed to sprout without stirring, until ready for feeding. They are usually fed when the sprouts are from 1 to 1 1/2 inches long, although some poultrymen prefer to allow the sprouts to grow to 2 or 3 inches long. Oats need a moist and warm atmosphere in which to sprout quickly, so that it is necessary to furnish heat or to keep them in a warm room during the winter, while they may be sprouted out of doors during the rest of the year. It takes from 6 to 10 days to sprout oats, depending on the temperature of the room. Oats frequently become moldy while sprouting. To prevent this, they may be treated with formalin, using 1 pint of formalin to 30 gallons of water, which is sprinkled over and thoroughly mixed with 30 bushels of oats. Cover the oats with a blanket for 24 hours; then stir until they are dry. Keep them in a sack which has also been soaked in formalin. Oats thus treated and dried may be held for a long time for sprouting. Where the double-yard system of confining poultry is used, one of the yards is kept in green feed, into which the hens are turned when the crop attains a height of 4 or 5 inches. This method of alternately yarding poultry furnishes green feed for the birds and at the same time freshens the yard. Rape, wheat, rye, oats, and barley are usually sown for this purpose. Rye is good for late fall and early spring feeding, as it will live through the winter in most sections. Oats, wheat, and barley are used throughout the spring, summer, and early fall. Several of these grains may be sown together to secure a greater variety of green feed, and any quick-growing grains may be used for this purpose.

War Oddities.

PERFECT CONFIDENCE.

La Grande People Have Good Reason for Complete Reliance.

Do you know how—
To find relief from backache;
To correct distressing urinary ills;
To assist weak kidneys?
Many people in this vicinity know the way.

Have used Doan's Kidney Pills;
Have proved their worth in many tests.

Here's Union testimony.

Mrs. J. S. Sams, Union, Ore., says: "I was bothered for at least twenty-five years by attacks of kidney trouble and I didn't seem able to get relief. My back was terribly weak and ached so greatly that it was hard for me to get out of a chair. When I did, sharp twinges darted through me and I had to help myself up. The kidney secretions gave me great annoyance. After I had been using Doan's Kidney Pills about a week, the backache was greatly relieved. Another of my family has used Doan's Kidney Pills and thinks as highly of them as I do."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Sams had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv. w
