The E. Z. Carbine family, who recently left for Arizona, made the trip from Frisco to the end of the journey by automobile which they purchased in the Bay City in lieu of paying that much out for railroad fare. The seven members of the family who made the trip reached their destination all right but report a tiresome trip.

Both from Arkansas.

Today A. A. Davis, who is in the city representing a lyceum bureau, met Commissioner-elect J. D. McKennon. Conversation began to develop acquaintance and soon each found that the other had been born and raised in the same atmosphere. The scene of their boyhood days was Berryville, Arkansas, and the two men had a common knowledge of every cow path in that country. Mr. Davis, however, is considerably younger than Mr. Kennon, but the meeting was a very pleasant one.

tain distance, usually 200, 300, or 400 feet, of a church or school.

Hours of opening range from 4:30 to 8 a. m. and of closing from 10 a. m. in Manchester, N. H., to 2 a. m. in Atlantic City, San Francisco and Sacramento. In Manchester the saloons are open only 4 hours each day, from 6 a. m. to 10 a. m. On the other hand, there are 10 cities—Hoboken, Newark, Passaic and Paterson, N. J.; Philadelphia, Wilkes-Barre, Allentown, and York, Pa.; New Orleans, and Milwaukee—in which the bar rooms are open during the entire 24 hours of the day.

The licensing of certain saloons to sell malt liquors only is practiced in 15 cities—Boston, New Orleans, 5 cities in Connecticut, and 8 in Texas—in which the aggregate number of saloons thus licensed is 875.

Municipal Water-Supply System.
Of the 204 cities of over 30,000, 155 have municipally owned water-supply systems, the total estimated value of which is $1,071,000,000. Municipal ownership in this field has been in force in Philadelphia, which built its plant in 1801, and has operated it continuously since that time, for a longer period than in any other city.

The bulk of the water supply for most cities comes, of course, from lakes and streams, but there are 3,634 wells in operation in 47 cities. Of these, 1,367 are in New York City alone.

Five processes of purification are employed, namely, sedimentation, coagulation, slow sand filtration, mechanical filtration, and chemical sterilization. In the 155 cities of over 30,000 which have municipal ownership of water-supply systems, there are in operation 87 sedimentation reservoirs, in which are treated 958,600,000 gallons a day; 54 coagulation plants, handling 492,100,000 gallons daily; 527 sand filters, which treat 598,700,000 gallons a day; and 427 mechanical filters with an output of 468,200,000 gallons daily. The amount of water chemically sterilized averages 1,972,000,000 gallons daily. A part of this water is also treated by other processes.

The greatest daily consumption of water per inhabitant, 430 gallons, is reported for Tacoma, Washington, and the smallest, 34 gallons, for Woonsocket, R. I. In the former city 8 per cent of the water is metered and in the latter 98 per cent. The tendency of meters to curtail greatly the use of water is strikingly shown by a comparison of the figures for the 26 cities in which the entire water supply is metered with those for the 26 cities in which not more than 25 per cent is metered.
