PICTURES AND ENSEMBLES FROM U. OF O. GLEE CLUB.

Group picture is University of Oregon Glee club which appears at Sherry's theatre next Wednesday night, and below, H-Sueng Huang, Chinese who is starring on the club. Merlin Batley is president of the organization this year.

In a program characterized by musical critics as the best balanced ever used by a glee club representing the institution, the University of Oregon Glee Club appears before La Grande people at Sherry's theatre, Wednesday night.

The club is now on its annual tour of eastern Oregon and will make its first appearance in The Dalles.

Competition for places on this year's club was unusually strong, according to Leslie O. Tooze, manager, who was in the city yesterday for the purpose of making advance arrangements. Tooze says so many good singers entered with the freshman class that several old members of the club were forced to give up their positions.

Latest music and new skits will be seen when the gleesters present their program Wednesday night. "The Laughing Song" which is truly a laughing song both from the standpoint of the club and the audience, has made a big hit in all the concerts given by the club thus far.

In the way of skits, the University boys have one which is said to be as good as any used by the club in recent years, if not better. It is "Five Minutes of College Life" and represents the layman's conception of college life. Four characters are included in the cast, a senior, a junior, a sophomore and a freshman. Several songs are sung during the skit by the quartette.

Tickets are now on sale at the Red Cross Drug Store.

To Invade Broadway Today
(United Press Correspondent)
New York, Dec. 22.—Broadway expects to be descended upon today by fifteen staid and middle-aged ladies of the Hoboken Pleasure club, equipped with a map of the White Light district and the $2,500 that 75-years old Mrs. Augustus Page willed them before she died two weeks ago, "to be expended in laughs because she felt so grateful and so jolly." Of the fifteen amply proportioned and exceedingly jolly German ladies, in the Hoboken Pleasure club none was more ample nor jolly than Mrs. Pape. She played pinocle with us much enthusiasm as a 75-year-old lady may be expected to exhibit, danced with all the grace her rheumatism permitted and sang "Deutschland Uber Alles" two hours before departing forever from the jollity of this mundane sphere. Mrs. Pape was the widow of Dr. Gotthold Pape, maker of indigestion remedies. Today, if all goes as well as it should in such a jolly world, the fifteen expansive matrons will cram themselves into bulging taxicabs and whisk through the glare of Long Acre Square to the most brightly lighted and expensive lobster palace they can find. The combination of their placid meins and reckless flinging of cash will flabbergast all liveried flunkies; and when they line up at the theatre of their choice, the ultra-self-composed and poker-faced box-office clerk must surely gasp. Two weeks ago the fifteen all attended Mrs. Pape's funeral. After the jolly old lady's ashes had been mingled with those of her husband in the North Hudson crematory, the fifteen gathered at the home of Mrs. Member Anna L. C. Streckfuss for a round of feasting and merrymaking and to make today's plans.

"Ach! She was a dear old lady," sighed Mrs. Streckfuss.

"Such a perfect dear," echoed Mrs. Vogt, "and so kind. My what a fine funeral that was!"

"Eight hacks!" interjected Mrs. Smith.

"And Music, mit singing," commented Mrs. Muegge.

"Jap, nun!" said Mrs. Streckfuss, with decision, "I think, girls, we go now to the Hippodrome. Nicht war!"

NEW COOPERATIVE CREAMERY.
Farmers and State College to Cooperate in Manufacture and Market of Dairy Products.

Corvallis, Oregon, Dec. 22.—For the purpose of manufacturing and marketing butter, cheese, icecream and other dairy products, the Oregon State College and a number of dairymen and farmers nearby have organized a cooperative creamery. Another purpose of the cooperative plan is to secure a supply of milk and cream to students of dairying in sufficient quantities that they may be able to operate the College creamery on a commercial basis. Although the college has a few herds of high producing dairy cows it has not enough cows to provide milk in quantities sufficient to supply a large and successful commercial creamery, and it believes that only in this way can adequate training be given students of commercial dairying.

Dairymen that sign up as members of the cooperative association agree to supply milk from a stated number of cows and to exercise such care in management of cows and handling of milk and cream as to comply with the Oregon laws governing the operation of commercial dairies.

The college agrees to receive the milk and cream, test and grade them, and make them into dairy products for sale. From gross receipts of the sale will be deducted all operating expenses, including depreciation and up-keep of dairy machinery. It will then divide the net profits among the dairymen in the proportion of amount and grade of butterfat provided by each, making monthly payments. It will also keep its books open for inspection during office hours and send complete monthly statements with payments.

Queen Gives Up a Civil Honor.

(By United Press)

London, Nov. 20.—(By mail)—The Alexandra Home, an addition to the London Hospital now being built, will be named after Queen Alexandra, in whose honor the home for nurses had already been named voluntarily surrendered the honor in favor of England's martyr-nurse, Edith Cavell, executed by the Germans in Belgium. A shilling fund inaugurated by a London daily, has already provided thousands of dollars for a Cavell Memorial, which by the wish of the Queen and the mother of the dead nurse will be the Edith Cavell Home. It was the express wish of Miss Cavell's aged mother, at Norwich, that a statue should not be erected for her daughter.

Well, they are really married and now we can hear of something else for a while.
